MORTGAGES

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given and the amount. The general dates used as headlines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

The first date is the date the mortgage was drawn, the second the date of filing; when both dates are the same, only one is given.

Subscribers will find mortgages in this list with the wrong block number attached. The block number we give is taken from the instrument as filed.

Mortgages against Bronx property will be found altogether at the foot of this list.

July 19, 20, 22, 23, 24 and 25.

MANY architects in their anxiety to get a safe durable cement, overlook the important question of color. One glance at finished Alsen work shows its much finer shade. No yellow or blotchy effect so common in most good brands, a clear bluish tint, perfect for artificial stone. Of course color doesn't count in work like the Panama Canal. There American Alsen was given preference at equal prices only because of ultra high quality. The bids are on record at Washington.

WALL STREET markets this week have moved within narrow limits, with, on the whole, a reactionary result characterized by weakness with only moderate activity. Professional pressure was in evidence and there was little or no important support. There were many reasons given for the decline, among them universal demand for gold, the admission of the directors of the Steel Corporation that the new orders for July would at least be 25 per cent. of under last July's total, unfavorable weather in the Northwest and the absence of the public from the market. Possibly all these matters were contributing factors, but it must not be forgotten that we are in the midst of summer and the movement of the stock market up or down in this season can have no great significance, unless concerted action on a large and comprehensive scale is indicated. Nothing of the sort is, however, apparent, for the bulk of the trading during the week bore the earmarks of the professional operator, and most of the stocks sold were borrowed for that purpose. Transactions have been confined, as in recent past weeks, to Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Reading, St. Paul, Amalgamated Copper and United States Steel. The directors of Southern Pacific declared on Thursday a six per cent. annual dividend, payable quarterly. Although certain powerful interests have been keeping Union Pacific comparatively strong for the obvious purpose of floating successfully the Union Pacific's convertible fours, it is, as has been stated before in these columns, a perfectly justifiable proceeding in view of the condition of the road and the prosperity it enjoys, which must necessarily continue. Other allied issues have naturally benefited, but as has been authoritatively pointed out these powerful interests have not been able, nor indeed have they desired to promote a wide movement upward. They have known that the first result would be a spurt in call money and a demoralization of their own programme. Many conservative Wall Street men do not view with concern the decline in the volume of orders for Steel and Iron. They see in it better conditions in the money market and an increase in the available supply of liquid capital which may serve to relieve the congested condition of the present securities market. There is a sentiment gaining ground among experienced financiers that, while the country is undoubtedly prosperous, there may be some falling off in business in the immediate future. Such views were published in a Wall Street news service on Thursday, mentioning also that there had probably been an over-extension of real estate trading in all its branches throughout the country. Time money during the week has been firmer and call loans have been renewed at 3½ per cent.

MANY of our readers do not like the suggestion advanced in the Record and Guide of last week that the assessed value of real estate should again be subject to a general increase for the purpose of obtaining money to construct new subways. Well, it is natural that property-owners should fear the result of an addition to the assessed value of real estate, but they have not so much reason to fear such a process as they think. They should remember the effects of the last general increase in assessed valuation in 1902. During ex-Mayor Low's and ex-Comptroller Grout's administration the value of real estate for taxation was increased by almost $1,000,000,000 for the purpose of obtaining the money needed for absolutely necessary improvements. This increase was bitterly opposed by real estate brokers and owners on the ground that it would eventually lead to an increase in taxes; but these fears proved to be wholly groundless. The tax rate has increased very little since 1902, and tax bills are no heavier, except in cases of an actual increase in real estate values. There seems, consequently, to be no good reason why the same expedient should not be used to meet a similar emergency. Money is critically needed for the building of new subways, and Comptroller Metz asserts, without qualification, that the city cannot raise that money with only a normal increase in the assessed value of real estate. It is absurd that a city like New York should be prevented from constructing necessary and profitable public improvements, but such is the law of the State. It is to be hoped that this constitutional limitation of the borrowing capacity of the city will eventually be either repealed or modified, but in the meantime something must be done. New subways are indispensable both to the convenience of the city's inhabitants, and to the real estate and business interests of Manhattan and the Bronx. If they are delayed for an indefinite period, every year of delay will cost the property-owners of Manhattan millions of dollars. They should be willing, consequently, to submit to any measure which offers them an easy and an early escape from the dilemma, and a general increase in assessed valuation is the most available measure adequate for the purpose. There is only one other way in which subways can be built, and that would be by repealing the amendments to the Rapid Transit act, contained in the so-called Elsburg bill. But if this way out were taken, and private capital induced to build the subways by the offers of a long lease, the city would be practically giving away millions of dollars, which might just as well be saved for the benefit of future taxpayers. The Record and Guide would prefer subways leased for fifty years to no subways at all; but if possible both of these alternatives should be avoided, and the one means of avoiding them is that of raising the assessed valuation of real estate at least $500,000,000 more than the regular increase.

More About Manhattan and the Other Boroughs.

REAL ESTATE operators and builders will do well to consider seriously the prophecy advanced by Mr. William E. Harmon in the last number of the Record and Guide. Mr. Harmon predicts that as an effect of the development of an improved transit system into the outlying districts around Manhattan the construction hereafter of six-story tenements will come to an end. Furthermore, if the conditions are such that the construction of the six-story tenement is no longer profitable, a certain decline in the value of existing tenement property will necessarily follow. Consequently, Mr. Harmon foresees "great losses in Manhattan real estate," and he advises the real estate operators in that borough to "study the general principles of their business." He accuses the Record and Guide of being correct in its analysis of the existing and the prospective situation, but "short of the mark in its conclusions," because it took a less gloomy view of the future of tenement-house property in Manhattan than he takes. Nothing, however, which Mr. Harmon has said convinces us of the "great losses" which are to follow from improved means of transportation with the outlying districts.

Improved means of transit undoubtedly have the double effect in general of concentrating business and distributing population. If fifteen years ago a really comprehensive and adequate system of rapid transit had been constructed, which would have enabled the population of the city to move freely to habitations on the other side of the waters which separate Manhattan from Long Island, Westchester and New Jersey, tenement-house property in Manhattan would not have become so expensive as it is, while at the same time the volume of business concentrated in Manhattan would probably have been larger than it is. The improved means of transit to Long Island and New Jersey will, as the Record and Guide pointed out two weeks ago, have an effect in the future along these same lines, but there are excellent reasons for believing that the results will be different from what they would have been fifteen years ago and decidedly less disastrous to the owners of tenement-house property in Manhattan than Mr. Harmon prophesies.

It must be remembered that social as well as economic influences have much to do with the distribution of population. The life of a tenement-house tenant does not seem desirable to people who have been accustomed to pleasanter and less crowded surroundings, but literally hundreds of thousands of New Yorkers have been accustomed to it, and in a way prefer it. They like the bustle and movement of a crowded tenement-house quarter. They like to be near their friends, to places of amusement, and to certain familiar surroundings. The effect of these motives are seen plainly in Manhattan itself. The whole lower East Side is much more crowded than is the district known as "Greenwich Village," and real estate is worth much more on the lower East Side than it is on the West Side. But the Jews have none the less clung to that part of the city in which their blood brethren first settled, and although they have overflowed into Harlem and across the river, the overflow has not been dictated apparently by any desire for cheaper tenements. Wherever they go they carry with them the same customs and methods of living to which they have been habituated on the East Side. They crowd into a few rooms in Williamsburgh as on East Broadway, and they migrate not because they want to, but because they have to.

This clannishness and conservatism of the tenement-house resident must be recognized as a powerful force, which prevents them from responding freely to the opportunities for escape afforded by improved means of transit. The tunnels and bridges will have a profound effect, but this effect will, so far as the tenement-house resident is concerned, be less a matter of displacement than of the distribution of the overflow. A very large proportion of the 150,000 new inhabitants which New York obtains every year will be determined in their place of residence by the improved means of transit; but the actual displacement will be comparatively small—particularly among the tenement-house population. Not so many six-story tenement houses will be built in the future as there have been in the past; but they will continue to be built in those parts of the city where they now prevail. Owing to better means of transit large districts in the Bronx and elsewhere, which might have been covered with tall buildings, will be covered with low ones. We do not believe, however, that these buildings will draw the population to any considerable extent from the congested districts of Manhattan. They will provide for the increase of the population of New York, and in this way an even larger proportion of its inhabitants will be domiciled outside of Manhattan. But the population of Manhattan, also, will for the present increase to a certain extent, and tenement-house property in this borough will not be seriously or permanently injured by the diversion.

It must be remembered, also, that there will be many economic reasons for continuing to live in Manhattan. Poor people are obliged to live as near as possible to their work. They cannot afford the time and money for long rides. The enormous and increasing amount of business transacted in Manhattan will demand the services, not only of many people who can afford to travel far to their homes, but of as many more who cannot. Manhattan will always have a certain advantage in distance over the outlying districts. The advantage will not be so great as it has been, but it will be sufficient to make an enormous number of people prefer a six-story tenement in Manhattan to a three-story tenement in Brooklyn. We do not believe, consequently, that the great losses which Mr. Harmon predicted in Manhattan real estate will actually take place; and we do believe that it is the owners of flats rather than of tenements who will feel most severely the effect of the improved means of transit. Families who pay from $400 to $1,500 per annum in rent are much freer to take advantage of better transportation facilities than are the laborers, mechanics and factory hands, and if any losses occur, it is more likely to fall on this class of property. But the area injured by such losses would be small compared to the area affected by loss, which would affect all tenement-house property indiscriminately. The tenement-house population will not leave Manhattan willingly or freely. They will be crowded out slowly and, as it were, by compulsion. They will be forced to quit little by little, as business of one kind or another demands more space. As a result of these conditions the population of Manhattan will, in the more remote future, not only fail to increase; it will actually decrease. But this result is still separated from the present by fully a generation, and in the meantime, there will be no general fall in the value of tenement-house property. It may not and probably will not go any higher, but it should and will hold its own wherever its value is based upon a fair estimate of its earning power.

Building Code Revision.

MR. CHARLES H. ISRAELS, a member of the commission charged with revising the Building Code, in intimating his preference for licensed constructors and discretionary decisions, indicates no doubt the direction of the flow of thought among his colleagues, so that the public can anticipate a fundamental change to be disclosed in the report of the commission. Mr. Israels holds that the principle defects in the existing code are its administrative features. That the psychology of the average person is such that he does not feel it an offense against good morals to wink at an infraction of the law not affecting the individual. Moreover, through ignorance on the part of a large class of builders, who also act as their own superintendents, many infractions of the law occur, which are not wilfully intended and which in many cases are injurious to the builder himself, as well as to the city. It is also a fact that a large number of these men wilfully disobey the law whenever the opportunity for evasion presents itself, and with the system of inspection in vogue in the Bureau of Buildings, these opportunities are frequent. The fault, however, does not lie entirely with the inspectors, who, no matter how competent, would find it impossible to thoroughly perform the number of inspections placed under their charge. We learn from a paper by Mr. Israels in the Journal of Fire that it is really proposed to place the responsibility for obedience to the law not upon the inspectors but upon a responsible superintendent, who, before being permitted to supervise the construction of any but the most minor works, shall qualify as to his capabilities before a board of experts. This superintendent might be either an architect, an engineer or builder or any other person, who has satisfied the authorities as to his qualifications:

It would also be this superintendent's duty to assume all responsibility for the observation of the building statutes and to secure the permits from the Bureau of Buildings, in order that he may be thoroughly familiar with the legal requirements of the structure over which he has charge.

In order to complete the thoroughness of administration it is further necessary that this superintendent shall file an affidavit at the completion of the work under his charge, stating that the work has been constructed in accordance with permit issued.

It is important that the Code provide that misstatements of material points in this affidavit should be visited by some positive punishment, such as the revocation of the license. The name suggested for this class of persons is that of Licensed Constructor, the choice having been determined upon by reason of the opposition evoked by previous attempts to license a particular class of men such as architects or builders, without leaving the field open to any one who might properly qualify.

Although this system has not been discussed in the Commission to any further extent than I have heretofore explained, it seems to me that one of the most important provisions of such a license system is the constitution of the licensing body, which, to be effective, must be of a high character and beyond suspicion. My suggestion is that such a board could be properly constituted by five men, two of whom might be selected by the American Institute of Architects, one by the American Society of Civil Engineers, one by the Board of Fire Underwriters, one by the Mason Builders' Association, and the Superintendent of Buildings. This board could employ a clerk and have a room assigned to it in the office of the Bureau of Buildings, and this clerk being engaged in other duties when the Board is not in session, the city need be put to practically no expense by reason of its existence, as I feel sure that the bodies named above would be glad to appoint a member to act as their representative, who would serve without compensation. This board should be clothed with full power to issue licenses and to revoke them for cause, after giving the offending constructor a proper opportunity to be heard.

Another feature equally important in Mr. Israels' opinion is the regulation of the discretionary power of the superintendent within proper meets and bounds.

Under section 410 of the charter of the City of New York, the Superintendent of Buildings is clothed with extensive powers to vary provisions of the law. This, in itself, is a wise provision, as there are many cases coming before the superintendent from time to time in which the letter of the statute cannot be properly obeyed and the desired results obtained. Nothwithstanding these broad provisions, however, the framers of the existing Code saw fit to construct section 2, which declares that this ordinance is hereby declared to be remedial and is to be construed liberally to secure beneficial interests and purposes thereof. In my opinion this section should be entirely eliminated, and provisions should be made for the use of the discretionary power of the superintendent in such a manner that his decisions may be always accessible. It is unfortunately true that the method laid down in the charter for the use of this discretionary power is exceedingly cumbersome, and should the charter revision commission now proposed become a reality, it is desirable that this method be changed so that the discretion may be used without reference to the Borough President. No matter how perfect a Code may be framed, it is absolutely impossible to prepare such a lengthly document without clauses which will be considered ambiguous by many applicants, and it is therefore of prime importance that the official construction placed upon such ambiguous language shall be easily accessible to any applicant. At present, such constructions are hid away in the mass of papers forming the records of the Bureau of Buildings, and would be impossible for the average man to find without an exhaustive search. This could be largely remedied by compelling all applications for the use of discretion and answers thereto to be kept in a separate case docket, so that any man desiring to secure discretionary action upon any particular section, might, by reference to such docket, find all the decisions which had been given by the authorities in reference to the section or sections which he wished to have varied or set aside for his particular purposes.

In this manner Mr. Israels believes that justice would be done to every applicant and precedents could be cited by the applicant in the same manner as an attorney now cites cases before the court, and although it would not be fair to hamper the superintendent by compelling this precedence to form the basis of his action, any fair-minded official would be bound to be influenced by the citations.

The New Fifth Avenue.

By A. C. DAVID.

IN 1901 inside lots on Fifth Avenue, measuring 25x100 feet, were worth about $125,000. On some blocks they were more, and on other blocks they were less, but their average value per square foot was somewhere between $50 and $60. In 1902 and 1903 the prices of these interior lots jumped up to $200,000 and to $250,000. In 1904, they frequently reached $300,000; and it was confidently predicted by real estate experts that business could not afford any higher rentals. But the end had not come. These inside lots are now worth from $350,000 to $400,000, according to location—on the average about $150 a square foot. At the same time the value of corner lots has swollen to not far from $200 a square foot, and in certain instances to more.* We believe there is nothing precisely similar to this range of real estate values anywhere else in the world. There is certainly nothing approaching it anywhere in this country. There are, of course, individual corners and particular blocks in Wall Street, on lower Broadway, and even on upper Broadway, in the vicinity of Greeley Square, the value of which are higher than those on Fifth Avenue. Small lots containing less than 1,000 square feet have sold in New York for as much as $400 a square foot, but on these same streets property three blocks away will be selling for less than $50 a square foot.

The remarkable thing about the scale of values on Fifth Avenue is that it extends on both sides of a street for over a mile in length, and that it is maintained almost exclusively by retail trade. In the heart of the financial district of the financial centre of the United States, values that average over $300 a square foot, are far less extraordinary than values of from $150 to $200 a square foot for a strip of real estate on both sides of an avenue one mile and a quarter in length. There is nothing similar to it on Broadway in New York; and we doubt whether there is anything similar to it in Paris or London. It requires the peculiarly American combination of many people with much money—all of them spending with comparative profusion—to enable part of the retail trade of even a metropolitan city to maintain such values.

The architectural changes have proceeded from a number of different sources, and are characterized severely by their origin. Thus in many cases the owners have merely knocked out the front of the buildings, perhaps taken down the stoop, and put in a couple of store-windows. It is this practice which has served most to prevent the appearance of the new Fifth Avenue from becoming generally interesting and effective, because these old buildings are only made more unsightly by their mutilation. On the other hand in certain instances the whole front has been ripped out, and only the old floor levels retained. Then a new front has been built, better adapted to the new uses of the building and more expressive thereof. These buildings, as we shall see are often the most interesting on the avenue, and they are the only ones which embody a comparatively new and valuable architectural type. Finally many corners have been purchased by speculative builders, who have erected twelve-story buildings thereon of the usual type of commercial loft buildings.

VIEW ON FIFTH AVENUE, LOOKING NORTH FROM 34TH STREET, AND SHOWING THE KNICKERBOCKER TRUST, ALTMAN, TIFFANY AND GORHAM BUILDINGS.

The new Fifth Avenue is entirely without good street architecture, properly so-called. At no point on the avenue can one obtain a pleasant or a consistent general impression. There are some very beautiful individual buildings scattered along the avenue, and as we have seen, there has been developed a type of commercial building which is both strictly utilitarian and architecturally valid. But the individually effective buildings are so rare that one usually has to go out of one's way in order to find them, and the good type of reconstructed house-fronts is lost in a mass of brownstone relics and twelve-story architectural nonentities. Moreover, this condition will hereafter, in all probability, grow worse rather than better. Ten years from now Fifth Avenue, as a whole, will be dominated by loft buildings from eleven to fifteen stories in height, constructed mostly of cream-colored brick and in effect utterly lugubrious. But even the domination of the loft building will not be sufficiently unqualified to give the street architecture any consistency. There will be so many reconstructed or un-reconstructed house-fronts scattered in between that the sky-line will be jagged and the effect uninteresting in its incoherence.—Architectural Record.

An Alcove-Room Decision.

IN the specific case of Nathan Corman and Abraham Kennedy, of Brooklyn, against the Tenement House Department, Justice Gaynor in his opinion accompanying the decision of the Appellate Division granting a peremptory writ of mandamus (to compel Edmond J. Butler to approve plans submitted for a tenement to contain what the department had considered was an "alcove room"), makes points of real interest to owners and architects upon a long-disputed question. The Tenement House Commissioner had ruled as a matter of fact that the building plans which formed the basis of this case showed an alcove to the parlor room, and he would have treated such alcove as a separate room; and because was not on the street, yard or court, with a window opening th he declined to approve of the plans. After reciting these ticulars, Judge Gaynor says:

"He is wrong in his ruling of fact as well as in his ruling of An inspection of the parlor on the plans shows no alcove th But, it is argued, such parlor can be easily divided into a room a an alcove, or into two rooms, and used as such, by a tenan Certainly, every room, if large enough or long enough, can be divided into two rooms by curtains, a thin partition, or otherwise; but the commissioner may not treat it as two rooms for that reason. His business is not to make arbitrary rules, but to administer the law as it is.

"It is not for the courts to follow the commissioner in substituting in the statute a meaning which it does not express for the one which it does, by interpolating the word 'alcoves' for 'alcove rooms.' Nor, if it comes to that, can it be believed that the Legislature had the extraordinary intention of requiring that every alcove, however small or narrow, should be treated as a separate room, and required to be on a street, yard or court, with a window thereon. This is quite incredible, and it is certainly not expressed by the words used. Rooms with recesses or alcoves are in use everywhere. That such recesses may no longer be built in our large cities except they be on streets, yards or courts, and with windows thereon, is not expressed by the statute. It is useless to say that was the legislative intention. No legislative intention may ever be found unless there be words expressing it. It cannot be left to inference."

In this particular case the Architect's Society of Brooklyn scored emphatically, but in other cases involving "alcoves" the department had been upheld.

Fordham in a State of Transition.

SEVERAL theories have lately been advanced as to the cause of the falling off in dwelling-house construction in the Fordham section of the Bronx, but the most recent opinion comes from a realty expert in that locality who attributes the difficulty both to high lot values and extreme construction costs. He maintained that 2-family frame dwellings of approved design are costing to-day on an average $6,200 to erect, to which must be added the price of a well situated lot, which he figures at $3,800, making the total undertaking foot up $10,000. The average rentals obtained for apartments in this type of building he estimates at from $28 to $32 per month, and after deducting taxes and interest charges there remains a net income insufficient for a satisfactory return on the investment. In addition to this the same authority points out that in many instances considerable rock is encountered in foundation work, particularly west of 3d av, and rock excavation adds greatly to the cost of an operation.

Among the finished work is Mr. A. Wexler's operation at the northeast corner of 189th st and Marion av, consisting of two 6-sty brick and stone tenements with apartments of 3 and 4 rooms and bath. The buildings are steam heated and each tenant is furnished with a supply of hot water. The rentals are moderate and range from $15 per month upwards. It is known that plans are being prepared by Fordham architects for other brick tenements similar to those on Marion av, work upon which will probably be commenced by early fall. Local brokers are somewhat divided in their opinion as to the success of these new projects, but experts are of the belief that they will prove timely speculations. Moreover, conditions, in so far as property levies are concerned, are more conducive to a renewal of building activity in Fordham than formerly, as it is known that for the first time since the development of that section was commenced the district is almost clear of the assessment nightmare.

While much property is on the market for sale in this locality very little can be had at bargain prices. Of the new 2-family dwellings which are ready for inspection mention may be made of Nos. 2586 to 2594 Briggs av, near 194th st. These buildings are 2 stories and basement brick containing 6 and 9 rooms and bath each, and would rent for about $40 to $45 per apartment.

Along Webster av there are many vacant stores which are likely to remain unoccupied until the cross streets are more thickly populated.

The best rentals are obtained near Fordham road. A store occupied by a large tea establishment on the southwest corner of Webster av and Fordham road commands a rental of $1,400 per annum, and for an unoccupied store diagonally opposite a rental of $1,000 is asked. It is not believed that any general movement toward an equalization of rents in that neighborhood will be effective until Fordham has passed through its present state of transition.

THE REALM OF BUILDING

The New Ashforth Building.

The 12 ... cy terra cotta and limestone front fireproof office ... ing now in process of construction for Albert B. Ashforth at 10 East 33d st, marks the advent of the modern business structure on the block between 5th and Madison avs. The building is to contain all modern improvements, including two Otis elevators, and will be trimmed in selected oak throughout. Mr. Ashforth has announced his intention of occupying the whole ground floor in the structure, and is arranging to make his new offices as complete with respect to appointments as is possible. Eight floors have already been rented, chiefly to the retail trade, at rentals averaging $2,500 per floor, and it is expected that the remainder will be leased during the coming fall season. The premises will be ready for occupancy by Dec. 1, 1907.

The operation is attracting no little attention, particularly since it numbers among the few office buildings in lower Manhattan erected and occupied by an active real estate broker. Mr. Ashforth will continue to devote a large part of his attention toward the sale and leasing of property in the Waldorf-Astoria district, in which field he has met with success.

Among his notable transactions was the McCreery purchase on 34th and 35th sts, which involved a sum of about $2,000,000; the sale of the New York Club, at the southwest corner of 5th av and 35th st, for about $2,000,000, and the subsequent lease of the premises to Acker, Merrill, Condit & Co., for 21 years at an aggregate rental of about $4,000,000, as well as the lease of the Martinque Hotel, including the northeast corner of 32d st, for 21 years at a rental of $4,000,000. Commencing business seventeen years ago at 1477 Broadway, the present site of the Times Building, and later moving to his present quarters, 4 West 33d st, Mr. Ashforth has succeeded in building up an enviable business and reputation as an expert negotiator.

Decision for the Empire Brick and Supply Company.

JUDGMENT has been entered in the Supreme Court of the State of New York, Columbia County, by direction of the Referee, ex-Judge Samuel Edwards, in favor of the Empire Brick & Supply Company in the three actions brought against the company by Jerome Walsh and others. Two of the actions were voluntarily discontinued. The third, which was an action to compel the payment of commissions or salary alleged to be due to Jerome Walsh individually and as executor of the estate of Elijah A. Walsh, deceased, for services in manufacturing brick by the firm of Walsh Bros. & Co., on their brick yards at Walshville, N. Y., during the period from Feb. 1, 1902, until Aug. 1, 1902, when the Empire Brick & Supply Company came into possession of the brick under an agreement dated June 30, 1902.

The Referee, after examining all documents and hearing the proofs and allegations of the parties, found as follows: "The Empire Brick & Supply Company did not become liable to the firm of Walsh Bros. & Co. for commissions on the brick transferred by said firm to the said corporation under the agreement of June 30, 1902, nor is any member of said firm entitled to commissions on said brick."

The settlement of the judgment, which was for costs, in the action above referred to, ends a long and ill-advised controversy and fully sustains the judgment of the officers of the Empire Brick & Supply Company in construing the duties and obligations imposed by the agreement, which was made between the various parties, preliminary to the incorporation and organization of the company.

The decision in this case has also permitted the rendering of a verdict by the same Referee in the accounting action between the partners, settling their interests in the firm of Walsh Bros. & Co., which firm was composed of Jerome Walsh, Elijah A. Walsh and Robert Main, who were equal partners.

---

The Empire Brick & Supply Company manufactures brick and deals in all kinds of masons' building materials, with main office at 874 Broadway, works at Stockport, N. Y., and Glasco, N. Y., and yards at Leroy and West sts, Manhattan; 12th av and 47th-48th sts, Manhattan; 150th st and East River, Bronx; Morgan av, near Stagg st, Brooklyn, and Newtown Creek, foot of 25th st, Brooklyn; thus being located and equipped to take care of a large business in any section of the city. Wright D. Goss is president; Robert Main, vice-president; Robert W. Main, secretary; William H. Edsall, treasurer; and these officers, with Mr. A. E. Foster, are also the directors of the company.

Points on the Material Market.

Looking for lower prices, iron erectors are taking their time in putting through contracts for structural steel.

Demand for sheet zinc has slackened up somewhat and prices have been reduced to $8.35 per 100 pounds f. o. b. smelter, with 8 per cent. discount.

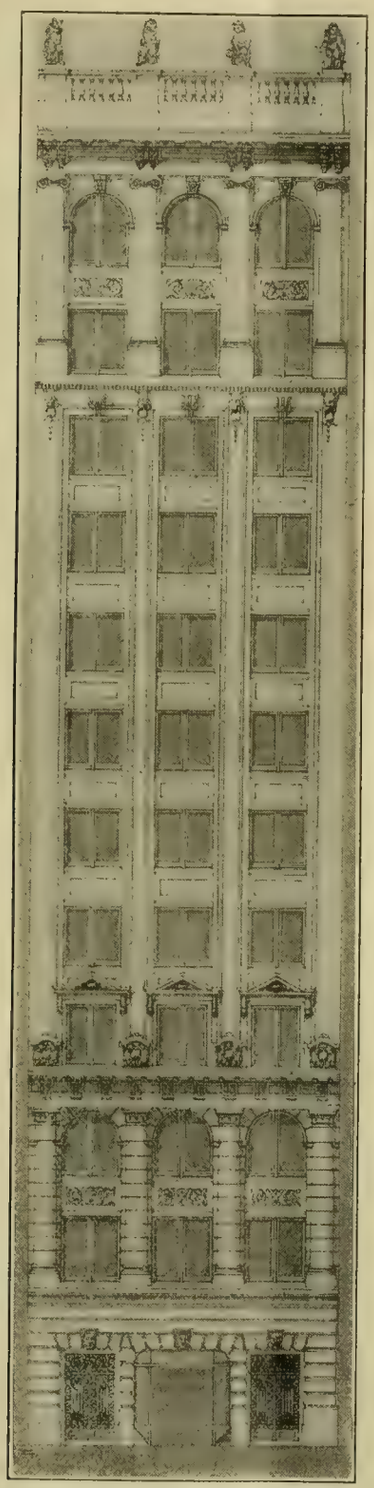
The market for tin plates holds strong under a heavy demand for all positions. Mills are working to capacity and have sufficient business on their books to keep them busy for some time.

Brick sales are a good indication of the amount of building in hand, and more bricks are being laid than in any previous week this season. And the indications are for increasing business.

Material markets on the whole have been reasonably favorable to builders this season, as prices and terms go in bumper times. Though lumber is no lower, most other fundamentals are easier in their price schedules than was expected.

Weakness still continues the keynote of the copper situation in this market. The large accumulations of the metal in the hands of the large selling agencies and the falling off in the demand for finished products has caused consumers to hold off buying. It is reported that the large selling agencies' sales are still far below the current production and that very little of the accumulation of the past three months has been disposed of.

Cement has run a course smooth and even this season, and fluctuations and incidents have been few. A great quantity of material is going out, probably more than last year, but, notwithstanding, there is a feeling of dissatisfaction among the manufacturers. The market is not eating into product as swiftly as they would like, but for the fall a larger consumption is promised. Mr. Corbett, of the Alsen works, says the cement market is in a state where it may be considered in either good or contrary form, according as the individual feels, but for the fall he is very optimistic.



Ninety-four cargoes of Hudson River brick (not counting arrivals by sail) were distributed over Greater New York for the week ending July 27, the largest week's work of the season. The demand is now taking up shipments as fast as they arrive, and shipments from the works are being made to the limit of production. Here in the city, President Hammond, of the Manufacturers' Association, says, distribution is in the usual proportion as between the various boroughs, and also as between the east and west sides of Manhattan. Material is being distributed all over Brooklyn, from Coney Island to Astoria; but Brooklyn builders are not utilizing a quantity any larger than the normal proportion for the borough. The Bronx is taking cargoes enough to indicate a decided revival of building in that borough. Nowhere is there any congestion of boats to indicate an over-supply in that quarter or anything else than an even and expeditious distribution of material, which in most instances goes direct from boat to building.

Building Operations.

Mr. Zipkes' Latest Design.

This 12-sty structure is soon to be erected in the Long Acre square section, at a cost of about $300,000. It will be equipped with all modern requirements, steam, electric lights, standard plumbing, electric freight and passenger elevators, and Guy B.

Waite fireproof floor construction. Nothing is so appropriate for a business building as an attractive exterior. A nice front, or a pretty front, gives its tenants an air of importance and distinction, and helps to represent their business to the public. Mr. Maximilian Zipkes, architect, has arranged the chief ornamentations for the front of the upper stories, which, of course, is no new idea, as may be seen on other important buildings. The front is a representation of French Renaissance, treated with strong classical construction in the order of pillars, and while the treatment of this front is not materially new, the architect is contemplating to present type of stone and iron com owner's name and location

BUILDING NOTES

An architect and building superintendent of 20 years' experience desires a position. See Wants and Offers.

The New York Electrical Show at Madison Square Garden this year will be open from September 30 to October 9.

Percy M. Hough has succeeded Hojer & Graham, old-established sign painters, and he would be pleased to meet old friends at his office, No. 8 East 42d st.

It is pretty safe to say that nine men out of ten throw away nine-tenths of all advertising matter that comes to them. The only way in which you can make it sure that your advertising does not meet that fate is to put it into a periodical which your prospective customers keep for future record and guidance. A paper with things in it that your customer really wants to read and preserve is an advertising medium that cannot be beaten.

On August 1 the Federal Brass & Bronze Company moved its office to its new building, situated on a plot 179x101 ft., at Broadway and Hopkins av, Astoria, Borough of Queens. The completion of the new works has greatly enlarged the company's capacity. They manufacture a high grade of architectural brass, bronze and wrought iron work, paying particular attention to architect's designs. The quality of the product is second to no other concern in this line.

The new building code is not coming on fast, according to reports that builders get. Some committees have held no meetings at all, and on the part of some of the members of the commission there has been a surprising disinclination to harness up and pull, either from distaste for the work or a wish to leave the code alone. At Thursday's meeting of the general body this fault was the subject of a discussion. Only about eight members out of the thirty have contributed their best efforts.

The Janusch Manufacturing Co. designs and makes all kinds of brass goods, such as brass and iron andirons, frames, screens, fenders, fire sets, wood-carriers, wood boxes, hob grates, electric grates, brass and bronze lamps (oil, electric and gas), fitted, with beautiful art glass shades, brass candlesticks candelabra, sconces, sun dials, door knockers, jardinieres, medallions, etc. The company has opened new show rooms for the display of these goods at 18 East 22d st. The goods are of a high grade character, standard in their manufacture, and command a large sale throughout the country. The company also executes to drawing or from architect's designs vestibule doors, railings, grilles, tablets, etc., in any metal. Correspondence solicited.

Building Plans for Long Beach.

THE NEW HOTEL WILL BE OF REINFORCED CONCRETE —OTHER BUILDING PARTICULARS.

Senator Reynolds, who is president of the Estates of Long Beach Company, with offices at 225 5th av, New York City, which is to build a beautiful city by the sea at Long Beach, referring to the destruction of the Long Beach Hotel by fire, said yesterday: "We will now rush the completion of the improvements that have been planned for Long Beach." To provide against fires in the future a salt water fire plant with modern engines will be established. The recent hotel fire was, in reality, a good thing for Long Beach. It will hasten in every way the construction of the new Atlantic City, and will make all those interested in the project hurry the completion of their plans for the accommodation of the thousands who will throng to Long Beach next summer. By next spring, water, gas and sewers will be installed, electric conduits will be laid, and the streets, boulevards and sidewalks will be constructed. The contract to dredge the eleven mile channel 1,000 feet wide and 12 feet deep at low water mark, extending between the island and the mainland, has been awarded to the Atlantic Gulf and Pacific Dredging Company. The hotel to be constructed by Mr. Jason Waters, from Atlantic City, will face the ocean and the boardwalk, and will be superior to the Marlborough-Blenheim Hotel of Atlantic City.

It will be constructed of reinforced concrete and steel, thoroughly fireproof, and contain 800 rooms, each provided with a bath, supplied with both salt and fresh water. Each bedroom will measure 18x20 ft. There will be tennis courts and Japanese tea gardens, and in the basement a large automobile garage where guests can run their cars right into the hotel and have their machines cared for. A novel idea will be the salt water tanks in the basement, which will be stocked with fish of all kinds, also crabs and lobsters. Here guests can enjoy actual fishing and have their hauls cooked immediately on grills kept for that purpose on the platforms surrounding the tanks.

As the hotel will be open during the winter months, it will be heated with steam and provided with sun parlors for use during the winter months, and broad piazzas for the summer season. The hotel will be designed after the Elysee Palace in Paris, and will be one of the largest in the world. The main dining-room will have a seating capacity of over 2,000, divided into three sections, each facing the ocean. Large French terraces will overlook the ocean, and in secluded spots on these terraces there will be cozily arranged places to dine.

Mr. Jason Waters has purchased the whole block adjourning the hotel site, where he will construct a modern bathing pavilion and a swimming pool over 200 ft. long, somewhat similar to the New Casino at Deal Beach, N. J., only on a more elaborate plan. Tennis courts, squash courts and racquet courts will adjoin the tanks. Mr. Waters has had plans well advanced, but has not yet given out the contracts for the construction of the hotel building. His address is Windsor Hotel, Atlantic City. F. T. Nesbit & Co. have the contract for the boardwalk, as reported last week.

The Long Beach Boardwalk.

The walk will be 5½ miles long, 50 feet wide and 10 feet above the high water line. There will be a stretch of beach 75 feet to the south of the walk. Beneath the walk provision will be made for the shelter of bathers and those who wish to enjoy a cool spot protected from the rays of the sun. A concrete plant for the making of the piles will be established at once near the beach where the piles of concrete will be moulded. These must be prepared in advance before they are placed in position in order to become thoroughly dried out. They will be 25 feet long by 11x11 inches at the top, tapering to 8x8 inches at the lower end. Instead of being driven, the piles will be jetted, and through the center of each pile is a pipe through which water will be forced by the pumps, driving away the sand at the bottom and gradually sinking the pile into place. These piles will weigh about 1,000 pounds each, and there will be 1,740 of them. On the top of the piles will be concrete beams 18x24 inches and resting on these will be the wooden structure built on 14x14 wooden beams covered by 3x6-inch pine plank. The lumber to be used on this work measures 7,000,000 feet; 48,000 pounds of nails to the mile will be used, making a total of 240,000 pounds of nails; galvanized rails to be arranged three rails high will measure 1,584,000 feet, exclusive of the uprights. On either side of the walk will be powerful arc lights suspended from ornamental iron posts and placed 90 feet apart. Between these will be festoon posts 9 feet apart from which will be stretched thousands of small incandescent lights. The effect at night will be highly ornamental and pleasing to the eye.

Joseph P. Day Invests in Jersey Realty.

Auctioneer Joseph P. Day has further signified his faith in New Jersey real estate as a speculation by the purchase of a tract of 160 acres in Millburn Township, Essex County. The property is bounded on the west by Short Hills road, where the frontage is 5,065 ft., or nearly a mile; on the east, 4,824 ft., by the Essex County Park and Water Supply Reservation, and on the north, 909 ft., by South Orange av. The property is among the highest in the Orange Mountains, and is reached from either Millburn or Short Hills station on the Lackawanna Railroad. A trolley line is planned from Orange along South Orange av, passing the property. Mr. Day plans to hold the tract for a while, and then subdivide the parcel into villa sites of from one to ten acres. The old Feigenspan house at the southerly end of the tract is to be altered and enlarged. Edward P. Hamil & Co. were the brokers in the matter.

Product and Appliance.

Paints and Enamels.

Emil Calman & Co. are preparing for a busy fall and winter. Their excellent paints and enamels are rapidly gaining the confidence of the building world, which they deserve. Samples and prices will be promptly sent on application to their New York offices, 100 William st.

Automatic Ventilators.

The Automatic Ventilator Co., of 55 Liberty st, is preparing for a campaign among architects and builders this coming fall and winter. This company claims to have fairly mastered the science of ventilating public and office buildings, as well as residences and cars, and the systems they are introducing is as unique as it is effective and economical. At present they are rushed with work on hundreds of railroad cars for the several railroad companies which have adopted their ventilators.

A Practical Metal Worker.

Hervey Thompson, architectural metal worker, of 176 East 119th st, New York, has completed an important contract for Superintendent Snyder, the architect for Morris Heights school. Mr. Thompson, while being thoroughly technical in his work, whether it be grilles, gates, railings, doors or fire escapes, is also accustomed to work out his own designs at the anvil. It is interesting to watch this busy man among his workmen, and not surprising that he can give low estimates for excellent work.

Boatloads of Mahogany.

The America West Africa Trading Co., of 64-68 Broad st, New York, has received during the past week over one million feet of Okume mahogany at Norfolk, Va., and about the same quantity in New York of vermillion and ordinary mahogany. This firm is undoubtedly conferring a boon on the building world in Manhattan in placing these beautiful woods on the market at a very low price, compared with the high prices asked by one or two dealers who have made it a rule to charge for "select" mahogany under fancy names. The mahogany imported by the America West Africa Trading Co. is all "selected" for shade, figures, development and freedom from defects of all kinds, and the difference of 25% and 33⅓% must be a great object to the trim manufacturer or contractor. The woods of this company are sold under their correct technical names and the facts and descriptions given are guaranteed.

"Snow White Portland Cement."

Editor Record and Guide:

In your issue of July 27, when commenting upon our product, you stated that the product of our company is limited, and the price of our material is high as compared with other cements. We should like very much to correct this statement, as evidently it was made under a misapprehension.

Our works are located at Clayton, Mass., where we have a bank of pure white clay covering an extent of over thirty acres and giving us a material in practically inexhaustable amount. Far from being limited our output can be extended to a very large capacity even for a cement mill, and we are equipping a new plant to supply all the demands which may be made upon us for this material.

While the cost of our "Snow White" portland cement is higher than the ordinary cements, it is produced at a price which puts it within the reach of all manufacturers who have so long been searching for this material until now without success. Our Snow White portland cement opens up a line of work which has long been desired, but was unattainable.

It is not necessary, I am sure, for us to emphasize how important a product this is to all the building trade, and if you will kindly correct the impression given, that we have but a limited supply and that our price is such that it cannot be considered for general use, I shall be greatly obliged, and remain,

Very truly yours,
BERKSHIRE WHITE PORTLAND CEMENT CO.,
W. L. Moffat, President.

Aids to Business Making.

The broker who rents business properties finds it necessary to follow up each year the expirations of such leases. The Record & Guide Quarterly gives these records, geographically arranged, thus making it easy to eliminate those outside the section covered by the office. Full sets of the Quarterly Annuals can now be obtained at a very low price.

PRIVATE SALES MARKET

TRADING in real property has settled down to a condition of midsummer calm, but although the number of reported transactions is small, the falling off is by no means a criterion by which the real strength of the market may be measured. The demand for speculative parcels is generally conceded to be equally as strong as ever, but the depressing influence of a tight money market augmented by the effect of sultry weather, may be said to have deterred many otherwise willing buyers from concluding pending negotiations. Not only has the volume of business diminished in Manhattan and the Bronx, but from all of the remaining boroughs of the city reports of sales are becoming fewer. Among the interesting transactions of the week the sale of the Goodridge holdings at the northwest corner of 5th av and 28th st (with an "L" running through to 29th st), once more illustrates the confidence of the investor in real property in that vicinity. Included in the budget of private sales below the circle is the purchase of the northeast corner of Madison av and 33d st, which the new owner purposes to rent for business. On the middle West Side the sale of another dwelling in 72d st, also for business use, again draws attention to the inevitable change of at least a portion of that thoroughfare to meet the increasing demands of trade. Above 125th st several large transactions indicate a revival of interest in that vicinity, and across the Harlem, additional to the usual deals in 2-family houses and lots, the sale and resale of a block front on Kingsbridge road, between Heath and Bailey avs, and the purchase of a two-acre tract on Pelham road, constitute the feature in that locality. The total number of private sales reported is 49, of which 17 were below 59th st, 17 above, and 15 in the Bronx.

The plot has a frontage of 38 ft. on the avenue and extends 150 ft. along 28th st, with an "L" running through to 29th st, where the frontage is 50 ft. The purchase price paid is said to have approached $1,000,000. It is understood that the buyer contemplates erecting a modern office and loft structure on the site. The plot is now covered with 4-sty buildings, with the exception of the 28th st parcel, which is encumbered with two stables. The seller has been the owner of a considerable number of choice properties in the central section of Manhattan, among them being the larger portion of the site of the Hotel Marlborough, at Broadway and 36th st. While previous negotiations for the corner parcel were recently carried on, the matter was finally dropped. A late report credits the Improved Property Holding Co. with being the buyer. The brokers in the sale were John N. Golding and Alwyn Ball.

7TH AV.—A. M. Johnson & Co. sold for Edward Mann, as trustee of the Pollack estate, 446 7th av, a 4-sty building, 18x60, 40 feet north of 34th st. ## THE AUCTION MARKET

THE ATTENDANCE at the auction offerings in the Vesey st salesroom during the week was an improvement over that of the preceding period. On Monday James L. Wells sold in partition to F. J. Barbanes the northeast corner of Railroad av and Purdy st, 105x108, 2-sty frame dwelling, the purchaser paying a round sum of $6,100 for the parcel. The four adjoining lots were struck off to Mary Entemann, on her bid of $3,100. In addition to these, Auctioneer Wells elicited a bid of $10,500 for the 2-sty frame dwelling, 58x100, on the north side of Westchester av, 50 ft. east of Purdy st.

On Tuesday at the stand of Bryan L. Kennelly two vacant parcels were the attraction. One irregular plot, about 65x149, on the south side of 141st st, 152.1 ft. east of Southern Boulevard, a foreclosure sale, was secured by William F. Olpp, for $4,600, the amount due on the property was about $4,000. Mr. Kennelly also sold by order of the Sinking Fund Commissioners, an interior plot, 13.2 north of 3d st and 200 ft. east of Lewis av, 60x102.10, to Fredk Phillips and others for $12,000, which was considered a fair price for property in that neighborhood.

Wednesday's offerings consisted of a 3-sty building, with store, 24x95, at 30 Mott st, which was struck off by Joseph P. Day to N. Niles in an executor's sale at $28,000, comparing favorably with sales of similar property in that neighborhood. At the stand of Hugh D. Smyth the southwest corner of Park av and 134th st, vacant, 99x140x99.11, was sold to the plaintiff, H. H. Jackson, for $69,334.

Thursday's foreclosure sale of 308 West 82d st, 25x100, vacant, failed to attract the expected bidders, and a very desirable parcel was struck off by Peter F. Meyer to the plaintiffs in the action, J. P. Conselyea and others, at $20,500.

Correspondence.

One Per Cent. for Procuring Loan.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

Would like to ask your opinion as to what would be an equitable charge for brokerage in the following transaction:

A party holding a lease of twenty-one years on a piece of property in the Borough of Manhattan has made extensive improvements by tearing down the rear wall and enlarging the building to cover the plot and added an additional story to same. This lessee applied to a client of mine (a mortgage loan broker) for a loan of $6,500 for three or five years, he wanting the money in two payments as follows: $2,000 when the roof was put on and the balance, $4,500, when the building is entirely completed and ready for occupancy. This, you will see, is practically a building loan and permanent loan on leasehold.

The broker secured a party to make the loan on the above conditions, and the dispute between the principal and the broker is as to the latter's charge for commission, the broker contending that three per cent. is a fair compensation for his services, and the principal thinks one per cent. is enough commission for his services.

Would you be good enough to let me know what would be the proper charge, as both parties are willing to abide by your decision?

SUBSCRIBER.

Answer.—One per cent. is the usual brokerage charged in the absence of a special agreement.

Verbal Agreements.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

"A" has plans drawn for a house, and his architect sends them out for figures. I put in a bid which is found to be the lowest. "A" makes an appointment and I go and see him, meeting the architect there also. "A" consents in the presence of the architect to give me the job, and appoints a time to sign the contract. Four hours before the time set to sign the architect telephones me he can't get the loan. After about four weeks, he gives it to another man. Have I got a case against him to sue him for the profits, or not?

J. R.

Answer.—The "Statute of Frauds" (an old provision of law) prevents recovery on a verbal understanding of this nature, which is only binding when in writing and signed.

Jamaica, A Great City?

Speculation upon the New Haven Railroad's plans for this city makes remarks about the Long Island Railroad's arrangements pertinent. We recall that at a dinner of Long Island real estate agents, Mr. A. L. Langdon, in behalf of the L. I. Company, said at that time:

"In about two years the great Manhattan Terminal and the tunnels under the rivers will be completed and the Long Island Railroad will be electrified from Long Island City to Whitestone and Port Washington and through Jamaica to Mineola, Garden City and possibly to Lynbrook and Long Beach.

"The through trains from Manhattan to points east of Jamaica will be brought to Jamaica by electric motors and taken by steam locomotives east from Jamaica. Frequent local electric trains will run from Manhattan and from Long Island City to Jamaica and through so far as the road is electrified.

"The Jamaica station will be second only in size and importance to the great Manhattan terminal, the largest in the world. Even more Long Island trains will pass through and stop at this station than the great Manhattan station, because all the Brooklyn and down-town as well as the uptown tunnel roads will center here. From this station passengers will be transferred over all the many branches of the Long Island Railroad to points on eastern Long Island.

"This means that Jamaica will have more than 800 trains daily. It will upon the completion of the tunnels and the New York Connecting Railway be the great railway freight and passenger centre of Long Island, with more rapid and substantial development than any other section of Greater New York."

Few real estate experts will agree that such a "rapid and substantial development," as is measured by Mr. Langdon, necessarily follows from being made a "great railway freight and passenger centre." "Railroad towns" are not usually preferred as residential seats, and we cannot believe that an immense population will flock to Jamaica to reside simply because it is going to have 800 trains (of all kinds) daily. The average commuter can use only two, and the 798 others are superfluous, so far as

New Jersey's Great Celebration.

REAL ESTATE EXCHANGE PLANS IT IN COMMEMORATION OF McADOO TUNNEL OPENING.

The recently organized New Jersey Real Estate Exchange is making active preparations for the opening celebration of the McAdoo tunnel. An appeal will shortly be issued to the mayors of all New Jersey cities inviting them to join in the observance of the event that is to link the two contiguous States into a closer relationship. They will be requested to appoint an honorary committee of citizens from their respective cities, who will jointly have charge of the celebration. In this way the Exchange hopes to gather together New Jersey's representative citizens—members of the various boards of trade and leading residents in every walk of life, who will arrange the details of the celebration. It is proposed among other things to hold a banquet at the Hotel Astor, to which the governors of the two tunnel-connecting States are to be invited, aside from a host of distinguished guests. The plan also contemplates a marine pageant along the Hudson River and the Bay of New York, accompanied by a display of fireworks at night.

Secretary F. W. Creighton is making an active canvass for members, and reports that the New Jersey realty men are a unit in favor of the new Exchange. In traveling through the State, Mr. Creighton has met with considerable success everywhere, and he has yet to receive his first refusal. The consensus of opinion is that New Jersey stands on the threshhold of a great awakening, particularly as to the real estate industry. In hastening this era of prosperity and in leading it along safe and conservative lines, the new Exchange is expected to prove a powerful instrument.

Real Estate vs. Gold Mines.

Because the country is unusually prosperous now an immense amount of fake financial advertising is being done in the Sunday newspapers. Most of these projects are visionary, or fakes pure and simple.

An actual investigation reveals that of 150 such companies in one particular year, 1902, vociferously proclaiming the merits of their stock and the certainty of profits to all investors, only one is now paying dividends and that at a rate lower than the savings banks pay their depositors.

Charles M. Schwab, former president of the United States Steel Corporation, is a millionaire—a multi-millionaire, in fact—who started out in life a poor boy, and he is not very old yet. So he is a pretty good authority on the subject of making money. Now, here is what Mr. Schwab says:

"Young men who want to get a start in life should invest their money in real estate. To my mind, city real estate offers good prospects, especially in manufacturing towns."

MORTGAGES

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given and the amount. The general dates used as headlines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

The first date is the date the mortgage was drawn, the second the date of filing; when both dates are the same, only one is given.

Subscribers will find mortgages in this list with the wrong block number attached. The block number we give is taken from the instrument as filed.

Mortgages against Bronx property will be found altogether at the foot of this list.

City Bonds at Private Sale.

If the city cannot sell its bonds in cargo lots at auction to jobbers, they will be disposed of by private negotiations in retail lots or otherwise to the best advantage. Should they not be sufficient for the disposal of the whole issue Mr. McCooey will sell the remainder by private negotiation.

Felix G. Isman, a Philadelphia real estate operator, has told Mr. McCooey that if the stock and bonds fail to go, he will take the whole offering at par.

Trading Income Property for Jersey Acreage.

A member of a West Side brokerage house, in speaking of the inclination of Manhattan investors toward speculating in vacant New Jersey realty, said that so great is the temptation at the present moment to enter the field that several owners of income-producing parcels situated in the middle West Side are known to be negotiating for an exchange of their holdings for large tracts within the radius affected by the McAdoo and Pennsylvania tunnel improvements. Should this movement become more pronounced, he argued, it is likely to exert a beneficial influence in several ways, including the probability of the new owners of the improved parcels marking down asking prices to within reasonable limits. This will not only stimulate trading, contends the same authority, but result in increased profits for the real estate broker.

THE ONE CLASS of improvement in which some signs of overbuilding may develop in the near future is that of the comparatively expensive apartment house. Including those which come under the head of being coöperative, an unusually large number of them are being erected to the east, south and west of Central Park, and they will be placed on the market for rental at a time of enforced economy on the part of many well-to-do people. There is a danger, consequently, that they will not rent so easily as their projectors anticipate, and in this event the losses will fall not only on speculative builders, but upon the people who are investing their money in coöperative apartment houses. The financial success of all these coöperative plans depends upon the success of the company in renting a certain proportion of the apartments. These rentals are supposed to pay the interest on the mortgage, the taxes and the running expenses of the buildings; and if they should considerably diminish, the difference would be assessed on the stockholders, many of whom could ill afford to pay it. Those of the coöperative companies which were first in the field will be able to pull through without any trouble, but it is an open question whether it would not be safer to finance these schemes on a different basis. The really safe and conservative method of erecting a coöperative apartment house would certainly be to charge the stockholders for an apartment a sum sufficient to pay a proportionate share of the whole cost of building and land, so that the building would not be subject to a mortgage. Under such a plan the apartments would cost their owners probably a third more, and each apartment would, in addition, be subject to an assessment for taxes and running expenses; but the increased security of the stockholder's position would compensate him for the increased expense. Some of the newer enterprises are, we believe, being organized on this basis, and if such is the case, it will mean that these companies can regard with indifference the ups and downs of the renting market. Furthermore the individual owner of each apartment would be in a much better position to rent his apartment, if he so desired, than he is under the current method of financing. He will not be competing with the large number of apartments rented by the company.

THE TESTIMONY which is being elicited by the investigation of the Interborough-Metropolitan Co. is, on the whole, justifying the conclusion in respect to the business of that company recently advanced by the Record and Guide. This conclusion was that, whatever improvements may be made in the company's service through administrative orders by the Commission, these improvements will accomplish very little by way of relieving the existing congestion. The system of the company, at least in Manhattan, is being operated very near to its limit at the present time; and, in view of the necessary future increase in traffic, it is desirable to leave a certain margin. Four or five years at least must elapse before any more subways can be built or completed, and in the meantime the traffic will inevitably and enormously increase. The service of the company should consequently not be stretched to the limit until definite arrangements are made for the enlargement of the subway system. If these conclusions are true, they bring with them certain consequences which should be carefully considered by everybody interested in the prosperity of New York City and the well-being of its inhabitants. What is really needed is not so much an investigation into the business of the Interborough-Metropolitan Company. The Commission was bound to undertake the examination which is now under way; but the first inference from such an examination will be to show its own insufficiency. The really necessary and helpful investigation would be much more comprehensive. It would include the whole problem of the congestion of traffic in the several boroughs of the city, and the measures necessary for relief. Its object would not be to expose and to injure the traction company, for just in so far as that company is injured its efficiency as a public servant is diminished. Its object would be to reach full information in respect to every aspect of the traffic problem, and an equally comprehensive policy for the relief of the existing congestion.

WHILE the most important part of a comprehensive method of relieving the existing congestion would be the construction of new subways, and essential as it is that such subways should be built, other means of relief are demanded which are almost equally important. New subways would, for instance, do very little to relieve the congestion on the surface lines. They would diminish the number of long-distance passengers who now travel on the surface; but their places would soon be taken by an increase in the short-distance passengers. Subways and surface lines compete only within narrow limits. In a well regulated transit system the respective services offered by the two kinds of transit lines would not be competitive at all; they would be made by means of liberal transfers supplementary one to another. No matter how many new subways are built, the congestion of surface traffic will remain, and the efficiency of the whole transit system will be very much diminished thereby. The surface cars should really do the work now performed by the local trains in the Subway; and they could do it most efficiently, provided traffic on the surface could move freely. A continuation of the existing congestion on the surface lines will, consequently, not only cause inconvenience and loss of time to the passengers in those cars, but it will stand in the way of the most economical and serviceable method of tying together the different parts of the transit system of New York. How, then, is the congestion on the surface lines to be relieved? Perhaps the answer will be made that the cure is the operation of more and bigger cars. Doubtless something can be done by the operation of bigger cars; but it can scarcely be claimed that the operation of more cars during the rush hours will be of any help. One of the worse causes of overcrowding and delays at the present time is the congestion at important intersecting points in Thirty-fourth and Forty-second streets, while it will not be long before a similar condition will develop at Fifty-ninth and One Hundred and Twenty-fifth streets. Nor is this all. The overcrowding and the slowness of the surface cars is due, not merely to the fact that they interfere with one another at intersecting points, but that they are constantly delayed by the increasing number of vehicles which use the streets. The President of the Interborough-Metropolitan Co. particularly emphasized this point in his testimony, and it is, indeed, a matter of prime importance. It is the chief reason for the failure of the surface lines to obtain their share during the past five years of the increase of passenger fares in Manhattan. The number of trucks and delivery wagons has increased enormously since 1900, and their area of distribution is much larger. The surface cars have much less room in which to move than they had; and an increase in the number and size of the cars would not enable the company to move them more freely through the streets. The streets themselves are congested. It is not merely the transit system of Manhattan which is breaking down; it is the street system.

THIS failure of the street system is a serious thing for the whole city, as well as for the Metropolitan Co., because it is destined to become even more serious in the future than it is at present. As the Record and Guide has frequently pointed out of late, the future development of Manhattan will take the form of an increase in business rather than an increase in population; and this more restricted but more intense kind of growth will place a greater strain than ever upon the existing streets. Unless something is done, the Metropolitan Company will find it much more difficult to move its cars freely ten years from now than it does to-day; and it is probable that long before the end of the decade the congestion of surface traffic of all kinds will become intolerable. The conclusion is, consequently, that the transit problem of Manhattan cannot be adequately solved either by an increase of service on the existing lines, or by more subways. More streets are quite as necessary for the accommodation of short-distance and vehicular traffic as more subways are for the accommodation of long-distance traffic. It is obvious that Manhattan is altogether wanting in the number of thoroughfares connecting different parts of the island. New and broad streets are necessary not only on the lower East Side but on the lower West Side; and, above all, certain diagonal thoroughfares are necessary which would open up new and much larger veins of traffic. We are only too well aware of the enormous obstacles standing in the way of the making of such new streets; but if it is once clearly understood that they are indispensable to the free movement of all kinds of surface traffic, perhaps something will be done to overcome these obstacles. It is not a matter of beautifying the city. It is a matter of providing a necessary condition of its future growth in business. Moreover, these new streets would be as useful for underground as for surface traffic. The great difficulty connected with the laying out of new subways concerns the method of reaching Battery Park by means of the narrow and irregular street systems of Manhattan south of Fourteenth street. Every route is necessarily made to twist and curve. The four tracks are divided into two; and the express and the local services separated. All this will mean a considerable loss of time in the running times of the trains, and a considerable diminution in the efficiency of the system—all of which could be overcome by the cutting through of new and broad thoroughfares.

Transportation and Population.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

I have read with interest your editorial of August 3, relative to the effect of transportation upon population and realty values in Manhattan. At the Long Island Real Estate Convention, held September, 1906, I made the statement that:

"The slow and inadequate transportation facilities to which we are and have been for so many years accustomed are not indicative of future methods. Passenger transportation will ultimately be much more rapid than at present. Speeds of 90 miles per hour have been attained with safety and a speed of 50 miles per hour is undoubtedly practicable if the stopping points are not too frequent. The first effect of subway or elevated systems operated under such conditions must be to greatly increase the availability and consequent value of centrally located property in the metropolis. The second effect will be a similar increase of availability and value of property at present situated at a considerable distance outside of the city, that is, in New Jersey, Long Island, Westchester County and beyond. It is an interesting inquiry, however, as to what the effect will be upon intermediate localities, such, for instance, as those included in the four boroughs of the city without Manhattan. To my mind the natural tendency will be to depress rather than to increase values in these localities unless a large foresight shall have provided in advance for local convenience, beauty, sanitation and economical living conditions.

"If the essential factors of decent living are not now anticipated and provision made for their accomplishment, I am inclined to think that the substitution of cheap, high-speed passenger transportation will place the land within the four boroughs at a disadvantage as compared with the central district where land will, of course, continually tend to become more valuable on account of its intensive use, and also in comparison with the readily accessible outlying districts where there is plenty of cheap land, light and air, and which are likely to be better organized because organized later. In other words, the undeveloped parts of New York City should now be most carefully organized if they are to successfully encounter the competition of outside localities."

I think your contention that congestion of population in Manhattan is likely to continue is well founded. The gregarious habits of the tenement population and the prejudice of the well-to-do in favor of Manhattan residence, both for convenience and as a matter of sentiment, is so strong that—considered together with the constant substraction of tenement and residence property for what may be termed community purposes, such as office buildings, hotels, etc.—it will counteract any centripetal tendency, at least so far as the lower part of Manhattan Island is concerned. Upper Manhattan and the other four boroughs of the city ARE very likely to suffer as a consequence of improved systems of transit. It is of the greatest importance to these localities that they should be now organized for the purposes of cheap, decent and convenient living so that they may continue to retain their hold on home-seekers and factories. I do not believe that the policy of the city has been sufficiently far-sighted as regards the character of public improvements necessary to accomplish this purpose, and I feel well assured that the stimulus of New Jersey competition will in the near future do more to bring about correct planning in the newer parts of New York and a proper reorganization in the older parts of the city than will be accomplished by any other social influence. Great relief from congestion will immediately be obtained as soon as adequate methods of transportation under and across the two great rivers shall be provided, and the port of New York considered as a whole will then begin to develop normally in a manner comparable to London, Paris, Berlin, Chicago and other large cities of the world. It is difficult to anticipate in imagination the far-reaching consequences of this change. Yours very truly,

CALVIN TOMKINS.

(Chairman, City Plan Comm. Municipal Art Society of New York.)

PARTICIPATING MORTGAGES

Business in participating mortgages has grown tremendously in eighteen months. For the months of January, February and March of this year over six hundred of these agreements involving Manhattan property were voluntary placed on record in the Registrar's office. Because of the growing popularity of the new method it behooves all investors or lenders to scrutinize with great care the character of any mortgage with which they may have to do. Mr. G. Richard Davis of the firm of A. L. Mordecai & Co., mortgage brokers, has responded to a request of the Record and Guide for his views upon the new line of securities.

By G. Richard Davis.

A PARTICIPATING MORTGAGE is one in which more than one party holds an interest, usually a first and a secondary interest. (I refer now only to first mortgages.) A $100,000 mortgage on a piece of property may be held by two interests, the first interest amounting to $90,000 and the second interest amounting to $10,000—the latter subordinated to the first.

Participating in mortgages is of recent date and originated with the title companies. When they found that they had on hand large numbers of mortgages which they were carrying and unable to dispose of separately to various clients, they went to some institution, and offering as collateral a million dollars worth of these mortgages, borrowed, let us say, $800,000 to $900,000 upon them. As security for these loans, they would assign the mortgages absolutely with an agreement from the lender that when the entire principal was collected and the lender had received the amount due him with interest, they would account to the title companies for the balance. This form of agreement has gradually become a standard one and is now known as a "participation agreement."

This hypothecation of mortgages as collateral is perfectly legal and proper and gives opportunity to the large life insurance companies and other institutions to invest their funds in mortgages with first class security. This form of investment then took another phase. The title companies and individuals, finding a ready market for first interests in mortgages, began taking mortgages at 5% interest and hypothecating them for from 80% to 90% of their face value at 4½% interest, the return on their subordinate interest being of course very large, as they made one-half per cent. per annum on the whole amount.

A further development was the forming of companies to take these secondary interests. They would accept first mortgage loans provided they could hypothecate with some individual or institution the first interest at one-half per cent. lower interest rate, giving them of course a large return on their secondary interest; (these secondary interests being in effect a second mortgage). This method of first and secondary interests in mortgages has made it possible to obtain a larger first mortgage of record, although as an actual fact the first mortgage is really the first interest.

The advantage of participating mortgages is that it gives opportunity to conservative institutions to invest their money together with individuals who can take larger risks, and borrowers could not afford to take a first mortgage in such small amounts as these institutions offered unless they had a secondary interest to swell the total loan.

AN OBJECTION ANSWERED.

There has been a great deal of criticism made of this new development in the mortgage business due to the fact of the obvious deception that might or has been practiced upon innocent third parties, who, having no knowledge of the first and secondary interest in the supposedly first mortgage, purchase the property thinking that they have a bona fide first mortgage held by some institution, whereas, at the end of three or five years they find a secondary interest is there that must be paid off.

The objection to recording these mortgages in two separate mortgages (first and second) is that it is harder to sell the property, and no further mortgage can be readily obtained; whereas, it is easily possible to borrow on second mortgage subject to a participating mortgage.

THE OBJECTION TO PARTICIPATING MORTGAGES CAN BE OVERCOME BY SIMPLY RECORDING THE PARTICIPATION AGREEMENT. Every purchaser, when he searches his title, will find this agreement of record and will know exactly what he is buying; although there is no law to compel this, it should be insisted on by the first interests to prevent misrepresentation. An affidavit from the holder of the mortgage stating that he held the entire interest or how it was actually held would cover the same point.

My idea, therefore, is that participating mortgages are a benefit and perfectly proper, and that the objection to them lies in the present methods of handling and not to the participation itself. A number of institutions have refused to participate because of these obvious objections, but if it could be shown to them that the participation agreement was of record and there could be no moral reason, as there surely is no legal one, why they could not loan on a first mortgage as collateral provided they hold an absolute assignment of the mortgage, and physical possession of the papers including bond and mortgage, title policy, fire insurance, etc.

When borrowers, lenders and the real estate investors are thoroughly acquainted with this new phase of the mortgage business, participating mortgages will become more popular if the methods of handling them are amended. The mortgage business in New York has assumed such vast proportions that the means of obtaining loans, and particularly of the financing of the enormous building operations started in New York, must be improved, and the participating mortgage is a progression.

Let us hope that the investing public will be educated to participating in mortgages themselves so that instead of having only a first and secondary participation, we may be able to have a hundred participations of $1,000 each in every $100,000 mortgage.

In Paris, mortgage bonds are as salable as our railroad bonds, and the obtaining of large mortgages in New York real estate will only be less troublesome when the same is possible here.

IF SKYSCRAPER BUILDING CONTINUES

AND EVERY BLOCK IS POPULATED LIKE THE SINGER BLOCK, WHAT WILL BE THE CONSEQUENCES?—MR. HORNBOSTEL SAYS WE ARE GOING A THOUSAND FEET HIGH.—MR. LUDLOW CRIES STOP!

HOW many people can the sidewalks in the financial district of Manhattan hold? And with the multiplication of skyscrapers in the financial district how long can transportation abilities cope with the increase of traffic?

On a certain Broadway block two giant office buildings are under construction. With three small parcels out, these two buildings will together cover the whole city square. One will break the record for height and the other for bulk. One will gather up ten thousand people, the other four thousand; or fourteen thousand in all—and all to arrive together at nine o'clock in the morning, go out to lunch together at noon, and at five o'clock be dismissed into the street again and there contend with other ten thousands for right of way on the sidewalks of Cortlandt and Liberty sts and Broadway.

Ten thousand men in the usual order of a military procession require three-quarters of an hour to pass a given point when they have a full and unobstructed roadway at their disposal. But here are ten thousand men and women together, poured out at once upon other ten thousands, and this great unorganized mass of humanity precipitating itself mainly into but two openings, the John st subway station and the Cortlandt st elevated station. The thousands that won't be able to crush into these transportation entrances will overflow to the Jersey ferries and the Brooklyn Bridge. When the Battery tunnel and Brooklyn subway are ready, fifty thousand of the hundred thousand that stream for the bridge will jam into the elevated and subway stations also.

Forty-one stories high is the record for this year, and ten thousand the present record for capacity. How long before we get the building that will hold twenty thousand business people? Mr. Hornbostel, the architect, says it is only a question of time when New York will have buildings a thousand feet high. All the mechanical impossibilities that blocked the way have been removed, and money is no longer an object. Just now is seems to be easier to get money to finance a skyscraper than to build a flat on Washington Heights. Nine skyscrapers in the financial district were finished this spring, five more are now under construction, and several are projected.

As probable as the continuation of good times is the continuation of skyscraper building until the whole section south of Fulton st shall be covered to the limit of practicability. Spaces will have to be left for light and air, but the light will be dim, and the air pretty well strained in the final conditions. Fourteen thousand people inhabiting one small four-sided business block! There are about fifteen other blocks bounded on one of their four sides by Broadway in the section south of Fulton st. There are twenty-four more on the West Side available for skyscrapers. In the district bounded by Nassau, Pearl, Fulton and Beaver there are twenty awaiting rebuilding in whole or part. There are twenty small city blocks south of Beaver st, and finally about twenty between Pearl st and the East River. Altogether one hundred solid blocks of skyscrapers are possibilities of the future, some of them fully a thousand feet high and some of the blocks containing twenty thousand people.

Set down a figure to represent the average population per city block under comparatively ultimate conditions, and multiply it by ONE HUNDRED. Five thousand would be too small an average. Estimate it at ten thousand per city block for any number short of a hundred the reader's opinion favors, and the result numerically is simply appalling when representing people massed together in the main thoroughfares of that section of the city. An army larger than ever fought under any flag packed into a smaller space.

These are the possibilities which make a building limit inevitable. Some authority will some day fix that limit, if the commission now revising the code does not, in the opinion of architects and other critics who have considered the question. The effect will be to distribute business interests, together with real estate values and population, more evenly over the island. Theoretically, it would be a fine thing to cover Manhattan Island with skyscrapers, with one layer of population upon another, in spots a thousand feet high, but think of the congestion in the streets!

MR. LUDLOW PROTESTS AGAINST HERDING PEOPLE LIKE DROVES OF CATTLE.

Mr. William O. Ludlow, of Ludlow & Valentine, architects, recently appeared before the Building Code Commission and advised in favor of a limit to building height. And in an interview for the Record and Guide this week, when his attention was called to the Singer block, he said:

"The block bounded by Broadway, Cortlandt, Church and Liberty Streets presents a unique spectacle in the way of skyscrapers, for two buildings both of great height occupy almost the entire area. It is claimed that the new City Investing Co.'s Building will accommodate 10,000 tenants and the enlarged Singer Building about 4,000. Now, the housing of such numbers within the limits of a single block seems certain to bring about unfortunate congestion in the adjacent streets.

"From observation it has been ascertained that about 4,500 persons pass a given point on the Cortlandt Street sidewalk between Broadway and Church Street in the space of an hour, at times when the street is uncomfortably crowded. Imagine then, pouring 14,000 more persons into the streets bounding this block, at least four times a day, for the average tenant will enter or leave his building not less than that number of times.

"These now overcrowded thoroughfares and the adjacent transit facilities will then, when the new buildings are completed, perhaps have to carry a number greater by 50% than at present, and adjacent blocks will be but little better off when the new Terminal buildings, the Trinity building and at least one other projected skyscraper that the writer knows of, are finished and tenanted.

"It is scarcely necessary to enumerate the evident evils of overcrowding. That business is retarded is the least of these. More serious is the detriment to health and comfort, for the herding of people like droves of cattle is the most prolific source of contagion of disease. Then there is the unavoidable jostling and the nervous strain imposed upon every person in a dense hurrying throng, also the added danger of accident by cars, wagons or other conveyances.

"Apparently lower Manhattan bids fair to be a place of considerable discomfort and a place to be avoided by those whose business does not actually call them there."

OF INTEREST TO PROPERTY OWNERS.

Suburban Exodus Affecting Harlem Rents.

MANY VACANCIES IN THE MIDDLE DISTRICTS—RENTS REDUCED AND CONCESSIONS BEING GRANTED.

PROPERTY OWNERS, especially those whose incomes depend more or less upon the revenues derived from Manhattan tenements, are wrought up over the number of vacancies in the middle class apartment districts of Harlem.

Until quite recently experts and others have persistently argued that Harlem flat property, owing to its nearness in point of time to the main business section of Manhattan, would continue to remain the same satisfactory income-producing investment as in the past. Like prophecies have been made respecting the maintenance of the present level of rents.

Notwithstanding, there is now a feeling among brokers that a break in rentals is inevitable, and although in doubt as to the main cause they unhesitatingly affirm that it is due in some degree to the increasing exodus of the flat dweller to the nearby suburbs of Long Island and New Jersey.

It is conceded by them that the full effect of this migration is likely to result eventually in a lowering of rentals of middle priced apartments, with a consequent depreciation in the value of the property affected.

From nearly every section of the island north of Central Park reports show a large number of vacancies in apartments commanding rents of from $25 to $28 monthly, more particularly in such streets as 113th, 114th and 115th, east of 8th av.

In canvassing the subject a prominent builder who has completed several large tenement operations in the middle districts, ventured the opinion that there would be a noticeable drop in rentals of flats upon the opening of the Pennsylvania-McAdoo and Belmont tunnels. In his judgment the prospect of this exodus was already beginning to show its effect by the falling off in the number of plans filed when compared with the corresponding period in 1906.

Mr. A. V. Amy, of A. V. Amy & Co., 7th and St. Nicholas avs, Manhattan, says that medium class apartments in that section averaging $25 per month and under are difficult to rent. Whatever the real cause, there is certainly a tendency on the part of tenants to seek the newer sections. Mr. J. A. Goodwin, of Goodwin & Goodwin, 214 St. Nicholas av, Manhattan, concurs in the statement that throughout the entire section north of 110th st, from river to river, there is a large number of vacancies in medium price apartments, the cause of which he ascribes to two reasons, the suburban movement and overproduction. Mr. Goodwin has noted that in many instances a reduction of rents is being made and other concessions granted. Mr. E. S. G. Shaw, of Shaw & Co., 113 West 125th st, Manhattan, is also of the opinion that the suburban movement is responsible for a large number of vacancies in apartments, and further expresses the belief that the present level of rentals cannot much longer be maintained.

While it is admitted by agents and managers of estates that the condition mentioned has not communicated itself to the cheaper grade of flats, nor affected apartments of the higher order, it is of sufficient importance to indicate a change which may have an important bearing on the future value of this class of tenement property. In reality, the flat house situation, aside from the mortgage question, may be said to be at this time about the only uncertain feature of the real estate market.

The Question of Title.

When an owner agrees to sell land he impliedly agrees to give a good and unencumbered title. Every purchaser has the general right to require such a title without it being written in the agreement. Certainly so where the seller contracts to give "a deed free of all encumbrances," or a "warrantee deed," or "a good and sufficient deed," unless the contract shows on its face that he merely agreed to sell the title which he has, whether defective or not.

A man cannot be compelled to pay his money and take a doubtful title or an encumbered property. It would be a doubtful title if it were to expose him to a lawsuit, but it cannot be rejected simply on the possibility of its proving to be imperfect. A buyer must take the kind of a deed that the seller agrees in the contract to give and the buyer agrees to take.

If it says that the seller is simply to give a deed in fee, that will not be satisfied by giving a title subject to encumbrance. If the words "good and sufficient deeds" are used, the seller is bound to convey a good title; he must give a warrantee against encumbrances, and must convey the legal estate in fee, free from all other claims or liens whatsoever.

If the contract says "the title to be satisfactory," that implies only that the title shall be good and marketable. The best way to put it is, "a full covenant warrantee deed."

Typical Rents in 1907.

Here in Manhattan apartment houses are built to fit a greater variety of pocketbooks than in any other city in the world. Rents are regulated largely by fixed charges based on land values and building costs that permit them to move only in an ascending scale. Thus there are apartments and dwellings which could be grouped and called "Class A," another group could be made up of dwellings and apartments capable of being leased for a lower annual sum and called "Class B," and in a descending scale classes could be arranged for suites which cannot be rented for less than respectively five, four, three, two and one thousand dollars, five hundred and four hundred.

Mathematically speaking, there cannot be an over-supply of apartments, though there may be temporarily an over-supply of a certain kind or quality. A rapidly growing population eventually fills all vacancies and overflows into the suburbs. Bumper times since the enactment of the Tenement House law have multiplied the number of high-grade houses and filled them in a satisfactory ratio. Houses in old New York were never better occupied than now, and never were high-grade apartments so easily rentable.

The houses and apartments that will be rented this fall are mainly those which are under a lease for a full year, or for a longer term. For the most part they comprise apartments renting for more than five hundred a year. Annexed are some typical rates for the year 1907:

How to Get Sewers.

Plans for four trunk sewers with certain laterals draining the Unionport section, and a total area of 7,600 acres, have been prepared by the borough authorities.

Resolutions asking that these sewers be built at an estimated cost of $2,500,000 have been adopted by the Local Board of Chester and transmitted to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment.

That body, prior to its adjournment for the summer, has authorized a construction of sewers costing $1,755,000, leaving a balance of $750,000 still unauthorized.

Citizens in streets which need sewers should petition for them in regular form, and keep at it. Its easy enough to get necessary public improvements if citizens will go about it in the right way.

Ten years ago the section known as "Belmont" was one of the most neglected and unimproved localities of any city in the United States. It did not have a legally open street or avenue, a sewer or sidewalk, hardly a water main or a street lamp.

Yet, within a period of five years, every street in Belmont has been legally opened, regulated and graded, flagged, sewered, lighted and water mained; 90 per cent. of them paved; all assessments paid, and property owners still able to sell lots at $2,500 and less with a profit. And still a large part of these improvements were strongly opposed by some property owners.

One Fare or Three Fares.

Only too apparent is it that the traction system would charge three fares between points in Manhattan and Queens, via the Belmont tunnel, but the Utilities Commission may arrange it differently.

Last Friday an official admission was made before the Utilities Commission that the Interborough-Metropolitan Company owns the so-called Belmont tunnel, and not August Belmont, as has been supposed.

The direct question, "Who owns the stock of the Belmont tunnel company?" was asked Theodore P. Shonts, president of the Interborough-Metropolitan Company. He replied that he did not know, but Paul D. Cravath, his counsel, said:

"The Interborough Rapid Transit Company."

This admission will have a radical effect upon through transportation between the Borough of Queens and Manhattan. It has been proved heretofore that the Inter-Met. owns the New York and Queens County Railway, and that Inter-Met. owns the Interborough, which in turn owns the Belmont tunnel.

Now that it has been ascertained that this corporation controls the tunnel it can be stated for the commission that it does not intend to permit the charging of an extra fare in the tunnel of passengers who have previously paid one fare either on the subway system or the Queens trolley cars. Unless the legal facts are changed in the meantime, it is probable that one fare will be ordered by the State, but the tunnel and railroad corporations may appeal to the courts and so delay a final determination.

Real Estate Investment.

CAPITALISTS INVEST ONLY IN THE GROWING CITIES.

Capitalists do not invest money in a city unless the prospects of continued growth appear favorable. When a city comes to a standstill the investment properties do not stand still; they retrograde. A city must grow or else its valuation decreases. Hence when experienced investors place their money in city property it is an announcement of their faith in the city's advancement.

Some of the shrewdest financiers hold that vacant property near a growing city is the safest and best investment that can be made, where the man can afford to let his money lie idle for a term of years. The mistake in this class of investment is made by the man who cannot afford to carry a non-dividend paying property, but is compelled to realize within a specified time. He cannot always do that and is sometimes compelled to sacrifice. The man who can afford to carry the property for a few years without receiving annual returns is almost sure to reap a large profit from a judicious investment in acreage accessible to a growing city.

The General Arbitration Board.

The General Arbitration Board of the New York Building Trades at its last meeting elected officers for the ensuing year. Mr. Geo. H. Morris, of the Master Steam and Hot Water Fitters' Association, was re-elected to the office of Chairman; Mr. Dan'l F. Murphy, a bluestone cutter, was re-elected to the office of Vice-Chairman, and Mr. Sam'l B. Donnelly was re-elected Secretary.

A report of the Secretary giving an account of the transactions of the General Arbitration Board and its Executive Committee for the year 1906, shows that there was filed with the General Arbitration Board a total of 472 grievances; 56 of these were against owners and contractors not members of the Building Trades Employers' Association; 58 complaints were filed by members of the Employers' Association against the unions for alleged violation of the Arbitration Plan, and 358 were filed by the several unions against members of the Building Trades Employers' Association.

The executive Committee of the Arbitration Board, consisting of six employers and six employees, held 82 meetings during the year and decided 247 cases; 167 cases were adjusted without reference to the committee.

The year 1906 was particularly free from strikes. During the present year, 1907, but one strike has occurred. This was a general strikes of the painters, and these unions were expelled from the Arbitration Board as a result of their violation of the agreement. The housesmiths and bridgemen, who were expelled for violations in 1905, have not been reinstated in the Arbitration Board, although their organization has repeatedly petitioned for readmission.

The expense of conducting the Arbitration Board for the year 1906 was $10,310.28, and consisted of office rent, meeting hall, salaries of office employees, and a nominal salary which is paid to the 12 members of the Executive Committee.

A Forged Deed.

11th av, Nos 833 and 835, w s, 25.5 s 57th st, 50x100, two 5-sty brk tenements and stores. Charles Appleby to Edith Stonebridge, of Newark, N J. (This deed may be withdrawn. It is now being investigated.) Jan 28, 1906. July 24, 1907. 4:1104—34 and 35. A $14,000—$20,000.—(From the Record and Guide, July 27.)

An investigation of the deed mentioned in the foregoing disclosed a forgery. Patrick Moore, a tracer employed by the Title Guarantee and Trust Co., who presented the document at the Register's office, said it had been given to him by John Bough, of 347 Bowery, a hotel keeper. The Mr. Appleby referred to in the deed is a retired lawyer, 83 years of age, who resides at Glen Cove, L. I. He pronounced the document a forgery, and Moore and Bough were arrested. The deed purported to have been drawn up by Frederick Anderson, of 234 Broadway, and marked to be returned after registry to Edward Conners, of 347 Bowery, which is the Dry Dock Hotel. Neither of them has been found.

THE REALM OF BUILDING

High-Class Apartment House Near the St. Regis.

5TH AV.—Thomas R. A. Hall, No. 39 East 42d st, has commissioned Architect Alexander M. Welch, 11 East 42dt st, to complete plans for a handsome high-class apartment house, to be erected on the site of the old Babcock estate, No. 636 5th av, in the St. Regis Hotel district. The plot measures 36.1x131 ft., and is covered by a superb 4-sty and basement dwelling, situated at the southwest corner of 51st st. It was also recently conceded in real estate circles that Mr. Hall had also practically acquired ownership of No. 634 5th av, occupied by D. Ogden Mills. This is another palatial mansion, with a 50-ft. frontage and having a depth of 131 ft. But at the office of the architect on Wednesday it was learned that the proposed structure would only cover No. 636. Facing the Cathedral it is thus insured with perpetual light, air and the imposing view of its massive work of art, the Union Club occupying the northeast corner of 51st st, with the beautiful Frick-Vanderbilt mansions on the opposite corner.

Obituary.

EDWARDS J. CARROLL.

Edwards J. Carroll, who was Building Superintendent Edward Murphy's chief of the division of plans in the Manhattan Bureau of Buildings, died on Sunday last at his home, 22 East 120th st, after a short sickness. He was one of the old-time and well-known members of the Municipal Civil Service, enjoying by virtue of his position a very wide acquaintance with the builders, architects and active members of the building industries, whose good will he had won by his manners, aptitude and capacity for the intelligent handling of the department business under his charge. He was born in this city about 55 years ago, became interested in local politics as a young man, and entered the public service about 1880, being appointed a clerk to the old Board of Health. When the Department of Buildings was established in 1892, Mr. Carroll was transferred to the new department by Superintendent Thomas J. Brady, its head, and placed in charge of the plumbing plans. In 1902, when the department was reorganized into separate bureaus for the several boroughs, he was promoted to the chief clerkship of the new division of plans in the Manhattan bureau by Superintendent Perez M. Stewart. He leaves a widow and married daughter. The funeral was held on Tuesday and the interment was in Calvary Cemetery.

Product and Appliance.

Mahogany from the French Congo.

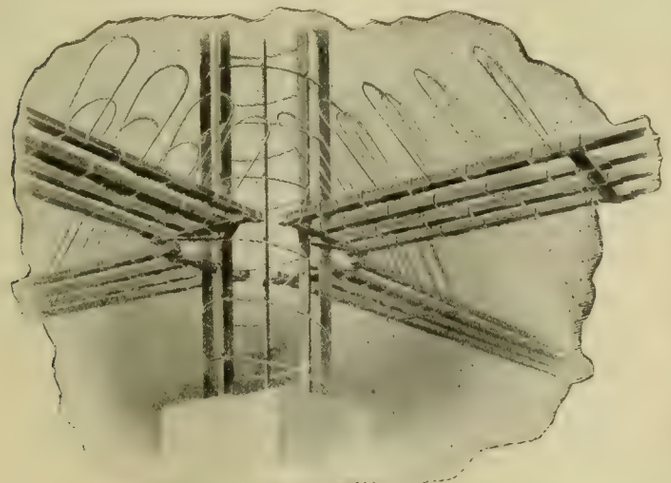
The first shipload of mahogany which ever came to the United States was brought on the good ship "Sommerford" direct from the French Congo about a year ago by the America West Africa Trading Company of New York. About ten days ago the "Sommerford" arrived at Norfolk, Va., with a second load of over one million feet of okume, a species of mahogany which grows abundantly in the French Congo.

The "Helen A. Wyman" Unloading Mahogany at New York, July 30, 1907.

The "Sommerford" Unloading Mahogany at Norfolk, Va., Aug. 1, 1907.



About a week ago the "Helen A. Wyman" arrived at New York direct from Africa for the second time with a large cargo of vermilion and other mahoganies. This cargo was also consigned to the same trading company.

African mahogany hitherto has been imported to the United States by way of Liverpool, thereby adding greatly to the expense and consequent cost to consumers. When the advantages of figuring, color and general adaptability of African mahogany first became known it was recognized as a product which might well replace the old San Domingo which can no longer be had.

The dense forests in the territory of the French Congo are rich in valuable lumber, and the enterprise of the America West Africa Trading Company in opening up an almost unlimited direct supply of useful mahogany and other lumber for the American market at reasonable prices is greatly to be commended.

Universal Reinforcement System.

A system of concrete construction that aims to meet every demand of steel reinforcement is illustrated in some degree herewith. In its completeness of attachment, which is more fully set forth in other drawings spread before us, it seems to conform to every architectural requirement with precision equal to the most scientifically constructed steel-frame structure. All parts are "in line," "centred" and united with apparently no possibility of error. It also aims to utilize the most available forms and shapes of steel, viz.: flat, round, square tee I-beam, T-rail, etc., thus securing simplicity with utmost economy of cost and the fullest efficiency of material. In place, it is like the most carefully constructed steel cage. The system is applicable to columns, beams, girders, floor, roof and partition spans, foundations, conduits, sewers, tunnels, subways, culverts, round-houses, towers, arches, bridges and chimneys.

Columns.—The vertical or main members are made from tee or flat steel bars. Each bar is slotted on the outside edge at regular intervals to conform to the number of rings used, or to the dip of the spiral in each column frame. These slots are cut at a down angle, to a degree that is practical to the shape of steel used in the ring or spiral. The ring or spiral members are placed or "buried" in these respective slots on each vertical to a depth well clear of the edges of the vertical members. When all ring or spiral members are in place in their respective verticals then the lower point of the opening of each slot is bent in or clinched to come in tight contact with the ring or spiral. The clinching of the lower point of the slot reduces the size of the opening and makes it impossible for the spiral or ring to come out. This fixes every joint or junction permanently secure and provides a united column frame that will stand perfectly true and "in line" capable of the most rigid demand in reinforcement service.

John T. Brady and His Times.

MR. JOHN T. BRADY, who died this week, was widely and favorably known in the building trades, though for a number of years preceding he had been living a retired life. His activities were most numerous in the period preceding the opening of the present remarkable era of steel construction, 1897-1906, and while he was yet a comparatively young man. [illegible] ate the two first began business, which was in the seventies, New York in 1890. John not acquired adequate transit facilities. We still depended upon the horse-car and omnibus, for the elevated was not. But the city had acquired great wealth, and a fashion had been set for elegant private residences; and Mr. Brady at first made a specialty of mason work in residences, he being a mason by trade.

He acquired a reputation for good work, and as the city recovered from the panic of 1873 and began to plan the elevated roads, a distinct building boom set in, nearly the whole benefit of which fell to Manhattan, whereas a large share of the present real estate rush has fallen to the other boroughs.

Particularly on the middle and upper East Side did the new transit plans stimulate the builder, who was already busy in that region. Everywhere people were buying, selling and building, and at first it was mostly brownstone dwellings. Prices were advancing, but were still below the figures ruling before the panic. Inflated trading was heavy, and much of the building was carried on upon extravagant loans. While a large amount of the work was purely speculative, a great deal of solid work was done, especially in the fashionable district immediately north of 59th st, and it was at this time that society first intrenched itself on the upper part of 5th av and on Madison av, adjacent to Park. Mr. W. H. Vanderbilt purchased about thirty lots on and contiguous to 5th av about that time. In August, 1879, he bought the property between 51st and 52d sts at a cost of $700,000.

These were the times in which Mr. Brady lived—the school in which he and other builders and operators of the present were trained. It was the greatest era of dwelling-house construction in the history of Manhattan—that which attended the building and opening of the elevated railroads. At an early date in this period all lots as far north as 85th st, between 5th and Madison avs, passed into the hands of the richer families, and beyond the reach of speculative builders.

Mr. Brady's work consisted largely at first in doing the mason work in the better class of residences, of which he erected several hundred in various sections of the city. Subsequently he made a specialty of making over old style dwellings into modern residences. The work which brought him the most prominence was the building of Grant's Tomb, for which he was the general contractor. He also erected the Knox Building at 40th st and 5th av, the old Lotus Clubhouse at 46th st and 5th av, the New York Press Building, the Jewish Theological Seminary, and he was the general contractor for remodeling the interior of the City Hall in 1897. The building corporation which bears his name was formed in 1900, and it now has the contract for the brick work in the reconstruction of the Singer Building, at 149 Broadway.

Mr. Brady was born in Ireland in the year 1852, and coming here as a child he was educated in the New York public schools. He was a brother of Thomas J. and James Brady, also builders in this city. Thos. J. is the chairman of the Building Code Revision Commission now sitting.

PRIVATE SALES MARKET

The continued dullness in the real estate market is again emphasized by the small number of reported sales, and although there has been a slight quickening in tenement transactions for the week just passed, there is no denying the fact that the movement in this direction has received a considerable check owing to the effect of the process of decentralization in population, which is already manifesting itself by the large number of removals from the apartment centres to the rural districts within the commuting zone. This disturbance in income realty fails, however, to account for the decline of trading in mercantile parcels, of which but few sales are being made. In the absence of any definite information in this regard, it is not unreasonable to assume that its cause may be traced in part to the general wave of retrenchment, which seems to be the present rule among Manhattan business firms. Moreover, prices are stiff and money is still difficult to obtain, and unless a change in prevailing conditions is reached before the opening of the fall season, there is little prospect of the desired revival of activity in that class of property. Over on the West Side there is still a call for small dwellings, while from the Bronx the demand for 3 and 4 room apartments is becoming more and more pronounced. There is no important change in the building situation in that locality, but it is known that plans are being prepared for a large number of 2-family frame houses which are likely to be the feature of the fall market above the Harlem. Among the interesting transactions contained in the budget is the purchase of a large parcel in the Chelsea section foreshadowing the erection of a modern factory building, and the sale of a business property in 125th st, which breaks the monotony of an otherwise quiet week. The total number of private sales reported is 55, of which 15 were below 59th st, 17 above, and 23 in the Bronx.

THE AUCTION MARKET

The week's offerings at the Vesey street salesroom were made up entirely of legal sales, which were more numerous than for the corresponding period in 1906. This condition is not to be wondered at since it is largely the result of much untimely and injudicious buying which has occurred within the last two years. On Monday Joseph P. Day sold three 6-sty brick flats on the south side of 122d st, 200 ft. east of Broadway, 125x90.11, to the plaintiffs in the action for $142,563. The amount due was $17,662.40; taxes, etc., $1,500.67. A vacant plot, 149.11x100, at the southwest corner of Broadway and 135th st, was struck off by the same auctioneer to the plaintiff, A. I. Spiro, for $118,000. The amount due in this instance was $33,371.66; taxes, etc., $500; subject to two mortgages equaling $85,000. Mr. Day also sold 324-326 East 56th st, 44.10x100.5, 6-sty tenement, with store, to Louis Lese for $51,600. Amount due, $16,048.24; taxes, etc., $313.83; subject to four mortgages aggregating $21,500. On Tuesday the entire list of offerings were either adjourned or withdrawn, including three 6-sty brick flats on west side of Brook av, 50 ft. south of Anna pl. Better results were secured on Wednesday, however. The parcel at 157 East Houston st, 25x74.5, 5-sty brick tenement, with store, was knocked down by Auctioneer Day to A. Silverstone for $37,550. Amount due, $15,331.02; taxes, etc., $1,603.83. In addition to this the same auctioneer disposed of a vacant parcel on the east side of Washington av, 199.9 ft. north of 169th st, to Chas. S. Block for $8,930, the amount due being $4,655.37, including taxes, etc., equaling $142. This lot was subject to two mortgages aggregating $4,350. On Thursday at the stand of Samuel Goldsticker the northeast corner of Audubon av and 182d st, 5-sty flat, with store, 79.7x70, brought $75,200, I. Marcuson proving the successful bidder. Joseph P. Day's offerings included a property on the same thoroughfare at the southeast corner of 166th st, two 6-sty brick flats, 70.3x100x183.5x95, which were struck off to the plaintiffs in this action, Isaac Liberman and others, for $102,500. The total amount due in this case, including four mortgages, equalled $111,950.55. Five 5-sty brick flats, 207.7x125.10 and irregular, at 11 to 15 Crotona Park East, were also knocked down by Mr. Day for $194,725, the total amount due in this instance approximating $199,393.66.

Creating Business in a Quiet Market.

There seems to be a general belief in real estate circles that the unparalleled activity of 1905 and 1906 will not be duplicated in New York City in the immediate future. This is due to several very apparent causes, the tightness of money, the drift to the suburbs caused by rapid transit and the opening of new bridges and tunnels, and last but not least the firmness with which real estate is being held for a higher level of values. Another fact to take into consideration is that Manhattan realty is held by approximately seventy thousand owners, while in 1904 the number was about forty-seven thousand. The natural inference is that property is largely out of the hands of the professional operator and in the more tenacious hands of the investor.

There are to-day in Manhattan less than twelve hundred offices which can be strictly classed as brokerage firms dealing in Manhattan realty, the last few months of contracting business having eliminated a great number of the weak and incompetent. To those remaining in business the principal difference will be the necessity of scientifically creating business, instead of being deluged with commissions. Probably to them the elimination of numberless mushroom brokers is far from an unmitigated evil.

It is self-evident that among seventy thousand owners in various states of financial strength and mental attitude towards the market, and as many more would-be buyers, that there must be considerable activity.

It is to reach this market that the broker who wishes to survive must use modern methods or be hopelessly lost in the ruck. Each week under the heading of "Aids to Business Making" the Record and Guide embodies in short paragraphs the best methods of the successful offices. Such subjects as how to list the greatest number of bargains with the least expenditure, and to locate the serious buyer and money lender, as well as the borrower, will be discussed. At no time greater than the present are these methods necessary to the broker. His only salvation is an active and aggressive campaign.

FIRMS in the Building Trades find that it pays in more ways than one to be represented in the advertising pages of the leading Metropolitan Real Estate and Building paper.

Adequate office records must be the basis of all scientifically planned campaigns. For forty years the Record and Guide has made a study of the needs of the realty offices, and its cumulative work as evidenced in the Quarterly and Real Estate Directory is proving of inestimable value at this time to its subscribers. By its present co-operative plan a system which costs many thousand dollars to maintain is made available to the broker at a nominal cost.

Aids to Business Making.

Would it prove a convenience to you to have the local Register's Office as an adjunct of your own office? The Record & Guide Quarterly is a digested transcript of the Register's Office records. Cost, a few cents per week.

Ashokan Dam Features.

Bids for the large masonry dam and for the appertinent earth dams and dykes for the Ashokan reservoir have been opened by the Board of Water Supply of New York. The bidders were the John Peirce Co., Bradley Contracting Co., O'Rourke Construction Co., McArthur Bros. & Co. and Winston & Co. Features in the plans which will impress engineers and builders at first sight are the provisions for a series of wells throughout the length of the main masonry structure, placed a few feet from its upstream face, for the purpose of draining away any seepage, and a number of joints through the structure enabling it to be built up in sections and at the same time affording provision for expansion and contraction. The bonds required amount to $1,000,000 in addition to a certified cheque for $250,000 to accompany the bid, but the payment of progress estimates is made obligatory within thirty days of date, and the final estimate within forty days of date. By prompt payments to contractors, the prices tendered for the work will be reduced to a minimum by relieving the bidders of an interest account which they would otherwise have to carry.

MANY architects in their anxiety to get a safe durable cement, overlook the important question of color. One glance at finished Alsen work shows its much finer shade. No yellow or blotchy effect so common in most good brands, a clear bluish tint, perfect for artificial stone. Of course color doesn't count in work like the Panama Canal. There American Alsen was given preference at equal prices only because of ultra high quality. The bids are on record at Washington.

ABOUT three years ago a new phase of the mortgage question arose in New York. In its inception it was most legitimate, but its development has since dangerously approached the character of things and people which find an alias necessary. In fact, "subordination agreements" or "participating agreements" are in the majority of cases the aliases of second, third and even fourth mortgages. It has always been the recognized policy of all governments who legislated wisely regarding real estate to give the greatest possible publicity to all transactions relating to it, and for that reason the Subordination Agreement, which goes far to conceal the actual transaction, should be viewed with suspicion. On its face the mortgage which will afterwards admit of a subordinating agreement differs no whit from any first mortgage, while the "Junior" interest, which no statute requires shall be made a matter of public record, contains all the noxious features of a second mortgage. To begin with, the rate of interest is higher, there is a large bonus to be paid, and at expiration an extension of time is as difficult to negotiate as with any second mortgage. Probably the rate of interest paid on money borrowed under a participating agreement amounts in the majority of cases to 10% per annum. For example, a mortgage at 5% is given for $100,000. With a "junior" interest of $10,000 it would admit of paying 4½% on $90,000 and 9½% on $10,000. This does not take into consideration the larger brokerage which a "full" mortgage demands. While the amount of mortgage which a parcel carries is never conceded as a basis of appraisal, it is undoubtedly true that the amount of the first mortgage very strongly influences the purchase price of the property, and many buyers draw their inferences as to value from the amount loaned by well-known institutions. Viewed in this light a mortgage with a subordination agreement is manifestly unfair. Should the terms of the agreement be recorded and made accessible to a prospective purchaser or to a third mortgagee, there would seem to be no necessity for any method of procedure except that which has held in the past. It is undoubtedly true that real estate will profit by making small sums of money available for mortgages, but this would probably be better accomplished by issuing bonds of small denomination against the mortgages held on individual parcels of property.

IT DOES not appear that the demand for a limitation of the height of skyscrapers is the kind of demand which cannot be denied. There are undoubtedly a great many property-owners who feel vaguely that the time has come for some such limitation, and there are also a great many engineers and architects who regard the unrestricted construction of skyscrapers as in the long run dangerous to the public welfare. The skyscraper in their opinion might be permissible in case the streets on which it was built were wide, but to erect thirty-story buildings on a street less than 60 feet across is from their point of view a danger to public health and safety. It means a congestion, which is inconvenient in normal times, and which would be absolutely fatal in case of a serious accident. Opinions of this kind are very generally held, but we doubt whether they will be sufficiently influential to effect a legal limitation in the height of office buildings. The interests favoring the existing lack of restriction are very powerful, and are much more aggressive than their opponents. They have on their side the advantage of a long-established precedent, the idea that tall buildings tend to economic efficiency, and a species of public pride in the spectacle they create. It may be doubted, consequently, whether any limitation will be admitted in the revised code. Indeed, it is probable that the interests behind skyscraper construction will be able to alter the building law in a way which will help rather than hinder the construction of skyscrapers. It is unquestionably an extremely dangerous and foolish thing to erect buildings fifteen stories or more high in a part of the city where they are and will continue to be surrounded by inflammable structures, and if skyscrapers are to be permitted it certainly follows that business buildings of all heights should also be thoroughly fireproofed. But if business buildings six stories high have to be fireproofed, there will be very much smaller inducement to erect structures of this class than there is at present. It will be more economical to build ten or twelve stories and in this way get back in space and rentals some of the increased cost of fireproofed construction. It is extremely probable consequently that hereafter there will be an increase rather than a diminution in the average height of business buildings and that structures twenty stories high with towers running up twenty stories more will be of frequent occurrence. Such will certainly be the case if no restrictions are placed in the building code; and up to the present time there is no sufficient indication that such a restriction will be introduced.

FOR the third time since the panic of last March, the believers in higher prices for stocks have failed in an attempt to raise prices to a higher level, and the extent of the failure has, in each case, been proportioned to its earlier success. There can be no doubt that from the merely technical point of view this last attempt in particular was ill-advised considering the existing condition of the money market and the probable increased stringency in the fall. Any campaign for higher prices which went beyond narrow limits was bound to be unsuccessful. Important, however, as technical conditions were in bringing about the recent break, they are not alone sufficient to explain the fact that the reaction carried prices below the level of last March. If these technical conditions had not been assisted by such incidents as the enormous fine imposed on the Standard Oil Co., and the difficulties which several different railroads had with the authorities of various Southern States, it is probable that the decline would not have reached as much as half of its recent proportions. It was the renewal of radical anti-corporation activity on the part of the authorities of different Southern States, which has been responsible for much of the speculative discouragement; and it is this aspect of the matter which is of much more than temporary interest. The owners of railroad securities may well ask themselves how far a policy inimical to their interests will be carried by the various state governments, and what will be the effect of such a policy upon the earnings of their properties. They may well ask themselves, also, whether they have more to fear from State or from Federal regulation, and what system of regulation they should favor in their own interest and in that of the general economic and political well-being of the country.

IN considering the answer to these questions, the experience of the past year has surely been very illuminating. Both the State and the Federal governments have been passing legislation in respect to corporations, and while this legislation has been in both instances designed to restrict corporate activities, the action of Congress has been much more carefully considered and much more fairly conceived than the action of the State Legislatures and State executive officials. It looks, consequently, at the outset as if the owners of corporate, and particularly of railroad securities, could depend upon fairer treatment from the national than from the State authorities, and that consequently they should exert their influence on behalf of strengthening the hands of the national as compared to the state governments. Such a conclusion would not, indeed, follow in case the present policy of increasing governmental regulation and control should prove to be only a temporary aberration; but action based upon the idea that such regulation is only a temporary aberration would be based upon a grave and mischievous error. If the railroads and the large corporations are being regulated, it is because the policy of careless and inefficient regulation proved to be a failure. The large corporations have brought this hailstorm of legislation on themselves, and while its virulence may diminish, it has, on the whole, come to stay. Back of the whole movement is a sincere and patriotic desire on the part of disinterested citizens to make a place for the activity of large corporations in a democratic state which will be fair to corporate wealth, and at the same time conducive to the public interest. The most intelligent and public-spirited men in the community, as well as its demagogues, recognize that the growth of railroad and industrial corporations constitutes a serious problem. The owners of corporate property must understand that in the future it is a question not of immunity nor of neglect, nor of merely spasmodic activity. The question is not whether railroad and other corporations are or are not to be subject to governmental control, but what kind of governmental control will be placed over them.

WHEN the question is put in this way, it seems as if there could be only one possible answer from the point of view of the owner of corporate, and particularly of railroad securities. His interest lies wholly in the direction of regulation by the national government. It is true that regulation by the national government has more chance of being effective than regulation by the local authorities, because the powers of the national government are co-terminous with the actual area of the largest part of corporate business. For this reason the corporation managers have in the past resented Federal interference and have preferred the relatively inefficient and frequently purchaseable supervision by the state authorities. But now that the state legislatures and officials are no longer purchaseable, and now that they are determined to pass all the restrictive laws that the ingenuity of their leaders can devise, it is obvious that state supervision becomes a much less desirable thing. It is true that it still remains only partial and inefficient because the state jurisdiction extends only over a small part of the mileage of a great railroad system, or a small fraction of the business of a big manufacturing concern. But just because this state regulation is only partial, it is much more irresponsible; and just because it is inefficient beyond certain boundaries, it is peculiarly active and radical within those boundaries. The limited jurisdiction and powers of the state legislatures, the fact that at most their laws and commissions are void outside of a few hundred square miles, makes them seek compensation for lack of power by an increase of stringency. Moreover, even when a state legislature does not wish to be unfair, its restrictive legislation is nearly always dangerous to the economical and efficient operation of a great railroad system. Its laws are passed for the benefit, not of all the people who use the railroad, but merely for the benefit of the citizens of one State, and the benefit of the citizens of one State may mean an injury to the citizens of other States and to the proper interests of the railroads. The possible efficiency of Federal regulation is, consequently, all in its favor. It means that Congress will be more responsible in its restrictive legislation and that the effect and tendency of its supervision will not necessarily look in the direction of breaking up the unity and injuring the economical operation of the great railroad systems. Of course, no matter how much the owners of corporate securities might come to prefer Federal regulation, the existing powers of the state governments will remain and will for many years to come continue to be exercised. The fact, however, that such powers do exist will in the long run be very injurious to the business efficiency and prosperity of the country, and if possible these powers should be so modified that Congress would possess exclusive jurisdiction over all corporations engaged in interstate business. Public opinion is not ready as yet for such an alteration in American institutions, but it looks as if during the next generation many of our political contests would turn upon this point. The attempt to solve the corporation problem will, in the long run, demand a readjustment of the distribution of State and Federal authority in respect to corporations conducting an interstate business, and the owners of corporate securities should consider carefully what kind of a readjustment they should favor, both in their own interest and in that of the whole country.

Recommendations in Concrete Construction.

RECOMMENDATIONS of an extreme nature made by the Association of Architectural Engineers before the Committee on Reinforced Concrete, of which Mr. Rudolph P. Miller is chairman, will call forth a brief in opposition from the concrete-steel engineers and contractors. The Architectural Engineers hold that cinders should not be allowed in reinforced concrete construction as part of the aggregate, as in their opinion the corrosion of steel is caused thereby. The aggregate should consist of clean, sharp building sand and crushed trap-rock from which the dust has been screened. Limestone should not be allowed, as it disintegrates in a fire.

They consider that the unit stresses in the present code are satisfactory and should not be changed; but if a factor of safety of 4 is considered advisable on timber or steel, it should be at least 6 in the case of reinforced concrete. Further:

The steel used for reinforcing should be medium structural steel having a maximum tensile strength of 55,000 to 65,000 lbs. per square inch, minimum elongation of 20 per cent. in 8 inches, elastic limit of at least one-half the ultimate strength. The use of so-called high carbon steel bars is not recommended for the reason that ordinary steel may be substituted at the building, and furthermore for the reason that it is invariably brittle and liable to break on bending. The evidence lately forthcoming as regards the unreliability of steel rails is not of a nature to inspire confidence in the use of high carbon steel.

If twisted or deformed bars are used, this twisting or deformation should take place at the rolling mills when the metal is at red heat, and not when it is cold.

The floor construction in reinforced concrete buildings should be tested with a load equal to twice the live load, which should be allowed, to remain for at least one week before removal. We do not believe that a test can be properly made in this class of work by putting the load on for a few hours only.

New methods of construction should have sections prepared and tested to destruction, and a factor of safety of 6 applied to such results.

Regarding the carrying on of reinforced concrete construction in cold weather, the Association of Architectural Engineers recommend that no work should be done when the temperature is below 32 degrees Fahr., and that it should not be started when the indications are that the temperature will fall to this point within six hours after the work has been started.

It is only by adopting the most extreme refinements of procedure that this class of work can be done in cold weather, but we believe that it would not be safe practice to generally permit it.

Reinforced concrete construction should be required to be fireproofed in the same manner as steel construction. There should be an exterior covering of concrete, brick or terra cotta, which in case of fire can be replaced without affecting the strength of the construction. If part of the concrete is assumed to be the fireproofing, it should not be considered in calculating the strength of the columns, beams or girders.

Interior columns should have at least 2 inches of fireproof covering, exterior columns 4, slabs and girders at least 1 inch beyond reinforcing bars if these are ¼ inch or smaller, or four times the diameter of reinforcing bar over ¼ inch in diameter, not to exceed 4 inches in thickness.

The Architectural Engineers, in a brief which they have presented to the Commission, through the Committee on Reinforced Concrete, further recommend that the use of reinforcing bars in columns, whether straight or hooped, does not add materially to the strength of the column:

A plain concrete column without reinforcing is better than one in which there are reinforcing bars, for practical reasons, namely: that it is much easier to make a good job of the columns in a building than if they have numerous reinforcing bars, which tends to split up the concrete, and cause voids and pockets.

The use of reinforcing bars having prongs should be prohibited, for the reason that it is a very difficult matter to make the concrete flow between these prongs, so as to make a homogeneous mass. If reinforcing bars are used, they should not be considered as adding to the strength of the column.

The mixture to be used in columns should not be leaner than a 1-2-4 mixture.

The Concrete Association will probably enter an objection to most of the new recommendations in a brief to be hereafter submitted. This was intimated at the hearing by Messrs. Ross F. Tucker and H. C. Turner, of the Turner Construction Co. The recommendations were presented by Vice-President E. W. Stern, of the Association of Architectural Engineers.

Quick Work in the Register's Office.

Contrary to what used to be the case before Register Frank Gass was admitted to office the work of recording all instruments for public record is being done with great celerity. At the present moment, documents are duly recorded and returned in about eleven days from the date of receipt. It will be distinctly remembered that there have been times when instruments, such as deeds and mortgages, have been held at the office of the register for as many as three and four months to the annoyance of both purchaser and mortgagee. In all fairness to the previous incumbent it must be admitted, however, that a large part, if not all, of the labor of copying is now done by book typewriting machines, thus reducing the time consumed in comparing to a minimum.

Lawyers who lend their clients' funds on real estate experience great difficulty in selecting from the mass of applications presented, those which may be worthy of investigation. The collated mortgage records in the Record & Guide Quarterly will show at a glance what loans have been made in a street or block during a quarter or year.

SUCCESSFUL MEN MAKE OPPORTUNITIES

POINTS FOR BUYERS TO REMEMBER—HOW A MAN WHO WAS NOT AFRAID DEALT WITH A VEXATIOUS LAND PROBLEM—THE LAST BIT OF UNDEVELOPED OCEAN FRONT.

SENATOR REYNOLDS, who has done as much as any one man to make-over Long Island, does not believe that Opportunity knocks but once, and if not seized and dragged in, goes off in the sulks and never returns. He does not consider that it has much to do one way or the other with the success of a business man.

We shall let the Senator have his way about that, and will ask those who know that Situation has a great deal to do with Opportunity, to stop arguing and listen.

Senator Reynolds is one of the largest men in real estate in Greater New York: a man who does things himself, indistinction from one who merely gets other men to do things—for a commission. He is a city builder—the most useful type of citizen in any age.

HON. W. H. REYNOLDS.

"In my judgment," said the Senator one day this week, "a successful man of affairs converts situation into opportunities, and when they are in the right shape he grasps them and uses them to his own advantage.

"For example, the East Side Park lands, with clouded title, formed a situation vexatious to every real estate man in Brooklyn. I saw that it could be made an opportunity and by pushing right ahead, at what seemed to many an impossible situation, it was gradually moulded into shape and I found that I had created an opportunity when I took title to this property.

HIS OFFICE IN THE BRUNSWICK BUILDING, Fifth Avenue and 23d Street, Manhattan.

"At first every one said, 'this is where Reynolds will go broke,' but ultimately so much money was made out of this speculation that people began to say that my luck still held good.

"When I was bringing my East Side operations to an end, I began to look around for another situation which could be converted into a money-making opportunity. I found that the farm lands where Borough Park is now located were to me the most attractive, for the reason that they were almost exactly of city grade, they were near to the railroad lines and could be bought at reasonable prices. There had been some development work on this property, but the people who controlled it were in Philadelphia, too far away to see the advantages and use the energy and nerve that was needed to properly develop such a large tract.

LONG ISLAND CAN'T STOP GROWING.

"I felt then, as I feel now, that the population of Long Island must continue to grow and at a marvelous rate. I believe it will not be many years before all of the western end of Long Island, 25 miles from the East River, will be thickly populated within a reasonable distance of the railroad service.

"I had plenty of faith in Borough Park, but faith without works is dead, and I started in to develop Borough Park in a way which surprised every one. I laid out streets, put in sidewalks, built houses and turned it into a small city within a few years. Every promise made to Borough Park purchasers was lived up to, and I have found it to be the case that any one who wishes to build up a reputation as a successful developer, and to continue in business, must give the public all that he promises.

"Borough Park lots doubled in value in three years. In two years more they doubled again, and as the population grows these lots will continue to increase:

"Probably the three most important things for a buyer of real estate to remember is, to get ground that is on the grade, to buy it where the railroad service is good and to be careful not to pay more than the property is worth.

"It has been my experience that the developer who has achieved a reputation for doing things rather than for saying things can be more successful in the long run and give better satisfaction to customers by spending money in improvements and less in advertising promises of improvements. A mistake is made by the developer when he sells a piece of property at a price which affords no opportunity to the customer for its profitable re-selling.

"Those who have noticed where I have conducted a development cannot but be impressed with the fact that every one of them has some especial reason for being a good purchase.

"Borough Park's advantages I have already mentioned. Bensonhurst had its water front to recommend it. Vandeveer Crossings had its location near the rapidly growing Brownsville, and immediately after my buying it was bisected by an electric railroad connected with the elevated systems of Brooklyn. Laurelton has the advantage of being naturally a beautiful piece of ground and it is located where the steam railroad and third rail electric system passes directly through it.

"Long Beach, my last and greatest real estate enterprise, is an absolute monopoly, being the last bit of Ocean front without completion that is left undeveloped between Maine and Florida, and possessing the additional advantage of being within twenty-four miles of Greater New York, which means that in another year or two it will be within a half hour's running time of the heart of the greatest city in the United States."

The Balance in Transit Projects.

Mr. L. Napoleon Levy asserts that the expenditures by the Consolidated City for Brooklyn, exclusively, last year exceeded the taxes collected therefrom in the sum of $25,000,000 and more than $150,000,000 since the consolidation, and that the financial straits of the city are largely due to these expenditures:

The requirements of the Bronx have been almost neglected in transit and other improvements; a subway on the east side of Manhattan and several routes in the Bronx, notable the Westchester av, Jerome av, etc., should be first constructed before any other subway is allowed; the necessity therefor is more urgent.

Some mysterious influence has forced the 4th av scheme ahead of all other subway projects, possibly in order to absorb the limited capital available, so that the present Manhattan subways will monopolize the business for an indefinite period, owing to the inability of the city to construct opposition lines, due to want of money.

It is a difficult matter to decide. South Brooklyn unquestionably needs a subway, and there should be another in Manhattan to extend up Jerome av in the Bronx. We should have both lines put under construction at once, in order that one section of the city should not thrive at another's expense. A subway to Coney Island would draw heavily on the population of the Bronx, should there be no new counteracting force.

THE REALM OF BUILDING

Fireproofing Sections to be Rewritten.

NOT SIMPLY AMENDED—PROPOSED TEST FOR FLOOR CONSTRUCTION.

THE Committee on Fireproofing of the Building Code Revision Commission announced at a hearing on Tuesday that it had been decided that the matter in the Code governing fireproofing should be rewritten: not merely to change a provision here and there, but to rewrite all the sections relating to fireproof construction and materials. This remark was drawn from the chairman by the unwillingness of his hearers to engage in a public discussion. Several engineers and contractors when called upon for an expression of opinion upon certain provision in the existing Code, simply replied that they would prefer to submit briefs. The chairman said he hoped that they all would be satisfied with this part of the Code when it appeared.

A timely and authoritative report on the subject of Floor Construction has been issued by the Committee on Fireproofing Materials of the American Society of Testing Materials which should not be overlooked while our Code is undergoing revision. The report, after stating that the test structure may be constructed of walls of any material not less than 12 inches thick, properly buttressed on all sides, specifies that the floor construction to be tested shall form the roof of the structure.

At a height of not less than 2 feet 2 inches, nor more than 3 feet above the ground level, a metal grate, properly supported, shall be provided, covering the whole inside area of the building. In the walls below this grate level, draught openings shall be provided, as many as possible, furnishing opening with an aggregrate area of not less than one square foot for every 10 square feet of grate surface. Means for temporarily closing these openings should be provided. In the wall immediately above the grate level, a firing door 3 feet 6 inches by 5 feet high, must be provided in the side of the building at right angles to the floor beams. A second door must be added when the span of the floor slab under test exceeds 10 feet.

Flues should be supplied at each of the corners, and oftener in case of a test structure exceeding 250 square feet of grate surface, with sufficient opening to insure a proper draught, securely supported and disposed at the sides of the structure in such manner as not to rest on the floor under test. In no case should a flue area be less than 180 square inches.

The horizontal dimensions of the test structure will depend upon the number and the span of the systems under consideration. The clear span of the floor beams is to be 14 feet. The distance between floor beams or span of slab may be varied according to the design of the system to be tested, and should be as near as possible to usual practice. The under side of the construction under test must be not less than 9 feet 6 inches nor more than 10 feet above the grate level.

Then as to the construction to be tested the report specifies that it should be designed for a working load of 150 pounds per square foot, and no more; this load to be uniformly distributed without arching effect, and to be carried on the floor during the fire test. The floor may be tested as soon after construction as desired, but within 40 days.

Artificial drying will be allowed if desired. The floor is to be subjected to the continuous heat of a wood fire averaging not less than 1,700 degrees F. for four hours. The heat obtained shall be measured by means of standard pyrometers, under the direction of an experienced person. The type of pyrometer is immaterial so long as its accuracy is scured by proper standardization. The heat should be measured at not less than two points when the main floor span is not more than 10 feet, and on additional points when it exceeds 10 feet. Temperature readings at each point are to be taken every three minutes. The heat determination shall be made at points directly beneath the floor so as to secure a fair average.

At the end of the heat test a stream of water shall be directed against the under side of the floor, discharged through a 1⅛-inch nozzle, under 60-pound nozzle pressure, for 10 minutes.

After the floor has sufficiently cooled the load on the same shall be increased to 600 pounds per square foot, uniformly distributed.

But the committee considers that this test should not be regarded as successful if fire and smoke pass through the floor during the fire test; and, finally, the floor must safely sustain the loads prescribed and the permanent deflection must not exceed one-eighth of an inch for each foot of span in either slab or beam.

Notes on Caisson Foundations.*

BY DANIEL E. MORAN, C. E.

CAISSON FOUNDATIONS are to be considered as, first, Open Caissons where the concrete deposited on the rock or other natural foundation, and forming the base of the pier or foundation wall, is done in the open air, and, second, Pneumatic Caissons, where the concrete is placed on the natural rock or other foundation with the protection of compressed air.

OPEN CAISSONS.—Going below local water level. Piers or walls built in open caissons, whether constructed by means of sheet piling or by sinking a box through soft material to rock, shall be considered as a column or an extension of the wall above, and the safe load shall disregard any skin friction on the sides of such construction. The safe load on such pier or wall shall be figured at not more than 10 tons per square foot on the cross-section, being taken as the minimum cross-section of the pier, and any timber embedded in the concrete shall be deducted from the cross-section on which the load is to be figured.

The foregoing is based on our judgment that where concrete is placed in open boxes there is generally a deterioration of the concrete at the bottom of the excavation, due to the inflow of water, and to the fact that it is practically impossible to keep the bottom of the excavation satisfactorily clean. Also any benefit due to skin friction is destroyed by the lack of permanence of the timber sheeting and its faulty connection with the concrete pier. Where cross braces are used to brace the sheeting or form part of the construction of the box and are left in place, it is so difficult to satisfactorily pack the concrete under such pieces that we feel that the area on which the load is figured should not include any such embedded timber.

PNEUMATIC CAISSONS.—In pneumatic caissons the load allowed on the concrete to be limited to 20 tons per square foot. On the cross-section of concrete above the working chamber no allowance is to be made for steel or timber on the outside of the pier, and no allowance is to be made for skin friction, except for concrete coming in actual contact with the soil; solid timbering in the roof and walls of the working chamber to be considered as concrete, provided same is sunk to a point below city datum, where it will be always immersed in water.

STEEL REINFORCEMENT.—No allowance is to be made for steel reinforcement in such caissons unless the steel reinforcement is continuous for a suitable base resting on rock to the superstructure, and unless same is entirely enclosed in concrete.

ALLOWANCE FOR SKIN FRICTION.—In the case of pneumatic caissons where the concrete comes in direct contact with the soil an allowance of not in excess of 500 lbs. per square foot of actual pier surface in contact with the soil may be allowed, provided said allowance does not exceed the weight of the pier. In all other cases the weight of the pier itself shall be figured as forming part of the load as coming on the natural foundation. Bearing on rock when clean and solid raised to 24 tons per square foot.

Consumption of Lime in Greater New York.

DURING the last few years many articles have appeared in regard to the advantages and uses of cement for building purposes, while little has been written about lime. The last few years have been prosperous for the lime manufacturers. For but few kinds of work has cement replaced lime. While cement plants are springing up like mushrooms and old established firms have increased their production, the sale of lime has also increased.

The reason for this is obvious. This is a great period of railroad reconstruction and building, and reinforced concrete has taken the place of stone and woodwork where very little lime was used; then the skyscrapers with their fireproofing consume large quantities of cement.

The 8 or 10-sty building of a few years ago, where lime was almost exclusively used for brickwork, has been replaced by an office skyscraper. While cement is used for brickwork, lime is generally mixed with the cement mortar, for without the lime, cement mortar works very short. The lime also decreases the cost of labor and material without materially affecting the durability or strength of the cement mortar.

With the increase in height the wall and ceiling area is greater, this requiring a larger amount of lime for plastering. In other words, while relatively less lime is required for exterior walls, a great deal more is utilized in the interior, so that on the basis of ground area more lime is being used than ever before.

For tenements, flats or apartment houses, lime is almost wholly used. Take it all in all, the lime manufacturer sees a bright future, notwithstanding cement competition.

There are numerous grades of lime in the market, and in Greater New York alone there are over twenty different brands, all differing in their physical and chemical properties. The majority are what are called "lump" limes, belonging to the calcium carbonating class; and the others belong to the magnesia or dolomite class.

Last year approximately 2,000,000 barrels of lime were used in Greater New York. A high grade of lump or calcium carbonate lime comes from Maine, a State which shipped about 1,400,000. Of this amount the Rockland-Rockport Lime Co. shipped 1,200,000. Other States which shipped lump lime into Greater New York were Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New York and Virginia. The magnesia limes come principally from Connecticut and Massachusetts.

*Submitted as a brief to the Building Code Revision Commission.

A Wood That is Popular.

WHITE OAK is a favorite timber with New York builders. It is probably treated with more respect than any other. Mahogany is often only "skin deep." Cherry is tortured into trying to look like mahogany, and some other kinds of wood are stained to imitate cherry.

But white oak is generally allowed to speak for itself. When a man has a building trimmed with oak he feels that he has the real thing, whereas mahogany or cherry might be under suspicion. Oak is not gay, but like a coat that is real wool it wears well, and it does not cost more than it ought.

White oak is one of the most widely distributed and commercially important trees of the United States, and its total annual product of over 2,000,000,000 feet of lumber is more than double that of any other hardwood. The wood is compact and close grained, hard, tough, strong, heavy, and durable in contact with the soil. By a peculiar mode of sawing by which the boards are cut nearly parallel to the pith rays, the silver grain is shown, furnishing the handsomely figured panels, ceiling and molding of "quarter-sawed" oak.

The Southern Appalachian region, including the Allegheny ranges and the plateaus which slope westward to the Mississippi and Ohio rivers, is now the chief source of supply of white oak, as well as the region of its greatest commercial importance. West Virginia, with an estimated stumpage of 5,000,000,000 board feet has more than one-third of the standing white oak in this region. The State of Kentucky still has over 2½ billion feet, and Tennessee a little over 2,000,000,000 feet. Virginia and North Carolina follow next in order with over 1,000,000,000 each.

An Apartment House of the Highest Type.

(See illustration, page 252.)

Stanley Court is a 12-sty, brick and stone, steel-frame, fireproof apartment house, at the northwest corner of West End av and 106th st, facing south on the latter. On the east it fronts the triangular park made by the intersection of Broadway with the two streets named. Its architecture is on simple but dignified lines, with no meretricious ornamentation. With a restricted residential block on the west, and a handsome church of moderate height on the north, its upper floors overlook the Hudson River and all of the upper West Side. All the living and sleeping rooms are on the perimeter of the building, with but two apartments on each floor.

De Lancey Kountze and James Henry Smith. (See also issue Feb. 10, 1906.)

Charles A. Cowen & Co. to Build New York Law School.

FULTON ST.—C. P. H. Gilbert, 1123 Broadway, has awarded the general contract for the New York Law School office building to be erected on the property Nos. 172 and 174 Fulton st, opposite St. Paul's churchyard, to Charles A. Cowen & Co. of No. 1123 Broadway. The building will be 11 stories in height, strictly fireproof and of the very highest class of construction and finish. The facade will be of limestone and brick, and the interior hallways and stairs will be trimmed in marble. The building will also be equipped with heating, electrical and special ventilating apparatus, and four quick service elevators..

The four upper floors will be used for the purpose of the New York Law School, Library, Lecture rooms, offices, etc.; the lower stories will be rented for banking and office purposes.

The old buildings on the site have already been torn down and the new structure will be commenced immediately.

The building is to be completed and ready for occupancy May 1st, 1908.

Plans for Another Riverside Drive Improvement.

RIVERSIDE DRIVE.—L. A. Goldstone, 110 West 34th st, is preparing plans for another high class apartment house to be situated on the northeast corner of Riverside Drive and 138th st for the Hensle Construction Co., of 302 West 120th st. The structure will be 6-stys, covering a plot 132.6x145 ft., with entrances on both Riverside Drive and 138th st, and each floor will accommodate nine families. The adjoining apartment house now under way by the same company will be joined with an Italian garden, which will complete the entire block on the Drive. The interior finish will be of hard wood, marble, mosaic, tile, and every up-to-date improvement. Operations will be pushed rapidly as soon as plans are approved by the Bureau of Buildings. The cost is placed at about $200,000. The same builders are erecting similar structures at the southeast corner of Riverside Drive and 139th st, and the southeast corner of 135th st. The estimated cost of both these operations is placed at $500,000. All contracts are handled by the owners.

Morningside Park and 118th Street.

MORNINGSIDE AV.—The West Side Construction Company, 321 West 92d st, of which Jacob Axelrod is president, will soon begin the erection of still another high-class elevator apartment house, containing all modern improvements, on Morningside av, northwest cornor of 118th st, to cost about $250,000. Messrs. Neville & Bagge, 217 West 125th st, are preparing the plans. No building contracts have yet been awarded. At the southwest corner of Riverside Drive and 118th st, immediately opposite, a similar structure is being erected by the same builders, from plans by Geo. Fred Pelham, 503 5th av. ## BUILDING NOTES

Tell sometimes what you won't promise to do—when it makes what you do promise clearer.

Readers do not always hear what is once said. But the repeated story rivets their attention.

Men do not gather the grapes of success from the thorn tree of ill-advised advertising undertakings.

If you name one cogent fact and make it concise, it will serve. A great American said once that one good reason will suffice for anything.

On Tuesday, Aug. 20, in the Council Chamber, City Hall, the Committee on Advertising Signs of the Building Code Revision Commission, will hold a public hearing.

Prizes for best designs submitted for suitable dwellings to be erected at Ostend, Far Rockaway, by the Banister Realty Co., have been awarded as follows: First prize of $500, to Emery Roth, No. 20 East 42d st; second prize of $150, to J. P. Powers & Co., 9 Jackson av, Long Island City; third prize of $100 to Messrs. Copeland & Dole, 135 William st, Manhattan.

The Milliken contract at the Pennsylvania depot was for material alone and did not involve any of the building construction work. It is understood that the receivers have been able to sublet their contract to the Carnegie Company on advantageous terms. The contract called for originally some 20,000 tons of steel shapes. It is understood that the contract as taken by the Carnegie Company includes some 6,000 or 7,000 tons of additional material.

Health without fresh air cannot be maintained, and one of the great problems of the snug home has been to obtain adequate ventilation and privacy at the same time. The Schulz window shade regulator provides this most effectively without draught or the annoying flopping of the old style of shade. It is made of steel and has neither ropes or pulleys to get out of order. It is simplicity itself both in the fixing and operation and the cost is so small that it cuts no figure compared with its advantages. All you have to do to operate the Schulz window shade is to pull the knob with spring on right and left simultaneously and raise or lower shade at will. Every hardware dealer has this unique shade. He cannot afford to be without it. The Schulz Manufacturing Co. have offices at Nos. 98-100 Beekman st.

William Sax, Samuel Sussman and Harry Halpin, who composed the firm of Sax, Sussman & Halpin, builders, of 18 West 114th st, have filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $516,000, and no assets. The secured creditors are the Lincoln Trust Company, $120,000, by mortgage on 114 to 124 West 143d st; Abraham Nevins, Harry W. Perelman, and the State Bank, $180,000, secured by mortgage on 135th st, near Amsterdam av; Nevins & Perelman, $30,250, secured by mortgage on the same property, and estate of T. B. Myers, $32,000, secured by mortgage on 233 West 148th st. Among the unsecured creditors are John J. Falihee, $19,500; John A. Philbrick & Brother, $12,337; J. Di Benedetti and L. Forliano, $9,500; Dewey Engineering Company, $9,000; Simons & Morsfelder, $9,000; Empire City Wood Working Company, $25,000, and S. Billante, $12,500.

Points on the Material Market.

An advance in front brick is impending, as shippers have received notice of an increase of railroad rates, which will make a difference of eight or ten per cent. on the material delivered, or about $1.50 to $2 per thousand. Particular shipping rates for each district have not yet been announced, and the matter is still in the air. The manufacturers are moving to oppose the raise.

The "drop" in the price of Standard Oil, referred to in large types this week in the general press, does not, unfortunately, refer to the stuff we burn, and lubricate machinery with.

Demand for sheet zinc has slackened up somewhat and prices are steady at the new base price of $8.10 per 100 pounds f. .o. b. smelter, with 8 per cent. discount.

In July the American Bridge Company received contracts amounting to about 46,000 tons of steel, which is regarded as a record for a summer month.

Product and Appliance.

Corrugated Piling.

One of the most important features of corrugated piling is its adaptability to a greater variety of conditions than any other piling. The Wemlinger Steel Piling being made of steel plate, it is possible to furnish the corrugated piling in an almost unlimited range of sizes and weights. It is not considered good engineering to employ the same weight of steel piling per square foot under any and all conditions, any more than it would be to use the same thickness of planking for a 10-ft. excavation as well as for a 40-ft. excavation. The Wemlinger Steel Piling Co. can furnish steel piling as low as 5 pounds per square foot, suited to water pipe and sewer trenches, up to any particular weight, which may be required for some very heavy foundation work. In any case they can furnish the right piling for the work to be done.

A Finish for Stucco Work.

While the advantages of stucco work in general are not to be spoken lightly of, it is readily conceivable that a coating of a pure white marble stone would act as a preservative, besides adding external beauty. A builder who looked over the stucco work on the Monolith Building on 34th st the other day, remarked that it needed "a coating of white stone which would resist the atmosphere." There is only one pure white cement stone known, and that is "Snow White." It is a stone in every sense of the word, and can be thinly coated over stucco work under all conditions, adding the beauty of marble with almost the imperviousness of granite. The cost is a bagatelle compared with the advantages.

"Rothrock" Metal Bridging.

In the use of "Rothrock" Metal Bridging, a builder may know what his bridging costs in place, and the architect will have the assurance of obtaining superior work with a bridging that is actually a brace, with no split ends, as is so often the case with wood.

Many architects are already specifying the Rothrock metal bridging, and first-class builders are rapidly recognizing the advantages of metal over wood for bridging purposes.

Samuel W. Rothrock, of 156 5th av, New York, N. Y., is the manufacturer, and he will be pleased to send samples and prices on request.

Waterproof Compound.

The waterproof plant of the Sandusky Portland Cement Co., which has been twice doubled, is now crowded with orders. We are advised that their Medusa waterproof compound is being used for waterproofing the concrete construction of the following jobs. Metallic Casket Co. addition to plant at Springfield, O.; M. J. Brandenstein Bldg., San Francisco; Joseph Brandenstein Building, San Francisco; Mechanics' and West Bank Bldgs., San Francisco; Delger Bldg., San Francisco; Proctor & Gamble factory, Staten Island, N. Y.; Packard Motor Car Co., new building, New York City; Pugh Printing Co., power building, Cincinnati, O.; Bostwick-Braun warehouse at Toledo, O.

Asbestos Wood.

The Asbestos Wood Co. is very busy in furnishing material for insulating purposes, such as arc deflectors, terminal boxes, etc., for general insulating purposes. They are receiving many inquiries regarding fireproof sash fire doors and fireproof lining for bank vaults.

Building Situation in the United States.

FIGURES on building covering thirty-five principal cities for the first half of the current year showed an average decrease of 13 per cent., Manhattan and the Bronx together 34 per cent., Chicago 15 per cent., compared with the corresponding period in 1906.

Mr. Paul Starrett, president of the George A. Fuller Company, speaking of the situation throughout the country, said it looked to him as though building was going to be rather quiet for awhile:

"There are quite a number of large building enterprises which were talked of, and on which preliminary estimates have been made, which have been indefinitely postponed on account of the general financial outlook. There are quite a number of high buildings being put up in the smaller cities of the United States, say, from 60,000 inhabitants up. We are closing some contracts of this sort.

"Our company is very comfortably situated, as we have enough large work to keep us fairly busy for a year or a year and a half. The slackening of the building business is such that I do not anticipate any labor troubles. It seems to me that before we are through with the present contraction, wages are very apt to suffer along with other interests."

In regard to the advisability of restricting the building height in New York City, Mr. Starrett said:

"I doubt very much whether it should be done. The height at one time was restricted in Chicago, but the restriction was removed after trying it for a few years. It seems to me the elevator problem is the one which will govern the height of tall structures."

JULY BUILDING.

Official reports to the American Contractor from 55 building centres for the month of July shows a loss in twenty-six cities and a gain in 29, as compared with July, 1906. The losses are comparatively light from a monetary standpoint, except in the case of New York City. The average loss is 11 per cent.

Banzai Enamel.

"Banzai," the famous matt enamel, has found favor with many architects on account of its absolute purity, spreading qualities and silky finish. It has already been specified for many leading buildings.

IN THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

The Harlem Heirs and Undivided Lands.

By REGINALD PELHAM BOLTON.
(Member of the New York Historical Society and of the American Scenic and Historic Preservation Society.)

II.

THE TOWNSHIP OF NEW HARLEM.

THE BOUNDARIES of the old township were very fairly defined, and to-day admit of very exact definition. The southerly boundary was a straight line, running due north and south, approximately from 130th st at the Hudson to 74th st on the East River. This line did not include the "Commons," as to which a dispute arose with the City of New York, which was eventually settled by commissioners under legislative authority in 1774. That particular parcel having had no individual ownership, does not come into consideration as representing an interest in the rights and titles of the town. The township included the whole of the upper portion of the island of Manhattan, above the line to which reference has been made, together with two parcels of salt meadow upon the Bronx side of the Harlem, capable of perhaps less ready definition. The Nicolls charter, of 1667, "by virtue of the commission and authority" given by the Duke of York, after describing the southerly line, proceeds:

"And all the lands lying and being within the said line, to draw north and south as aforesaid, eastward to the end of the town and Harlem River, or any part of the said river on which this island doth abut, and likewise on the North and East Rivers, within the limits afore-mentioned described, doth and shall belong to the said Town ———. Together with all the soils, creeks, quarries, woods, meadows, pastures, marshes, waters, lakes, fishing, hawking, hunting and fowling, and all other profits, commodities, emoluments and hereditaments to the said lands and premises, within the said bounds and limits set forth, belonging or in any wise appertaining."

This wide description, which is repeated verbatim in the later Dongan charter of 1686, does not appear to confine the extent of the township to the then land area, but includes waters, creeks and marshes, and only limits its boundary by "any part of" the rivers, Harlem, North and East, "on which this island doth abut." If the land boundary, therefore, should be anywhere extended, say, by the drying out of marsh land, or land priorily under water, it is clear that such land would come under the terms of the charter, and be a portion of the township. The charter of Governor Dongan, confirming and ratifying the act of his predecessor, on behalf of the same landlord, confirming as King, his own acts as Duke, uses exactly the same language in defining the town limits, enlarges the detail in its confirmatory clause, and describes it as follows:

"All and singular the before-recited tract, parcel and parcels of land and meadow butted and bounded as in the said Patent (Nicolls) is mentioned and expressed, together with all and singular the messuages, tenement houses, buildings, barns, stables, orchards, gardens, pastures, mills, mill-dams, runs, streams, ponds, woods, underwoods, trees, timber, fencing, &c., &c.

Bearing in mind the fact that the Nicolls charter had contained a restriction upon any person—"building upon this island within two miles of the limits and bounds"—any house or building without the consent of the major part of the inhabitants, this new charter of Dongan's added a clause designed to relieve the growing City of New York from that restriction, reserving to it full power, liberty and privilege "to build, cultivate and improve all such tracts and parcels of land as the said City of New York now have or hereafter shall have, within or without, or adjacent to the limits of the town of Harlem aforesaid, and also the commonage of the town of Harlem, aforesaid is to be confirmed within the limits aforesaid," &c., &c.

This clause has been used in an attempt to make it confer power upon the City of New York over lands under water around the Harlem boundary, a general grant of all waste, vacant and unappropriated lands to low water mark, and creeks, ponds, &c., &c., upon the island, being included in the charter granted to the city by Governor Dongan, a month after the grant to Harlem. This later charter privilege, however, very carefully limits the privilege to such lands and waters, "not heretofore given or granted," and is therefore inapplicable to lands or waters which had prior to that date been given to the town of Harlem. It is clear, moreover, that whatever right and privilege in all lands existed in 1691 and in 1712, was not interfered with by any claim on the part of the City of New York, and the property owners continued to divide up lands and waters under the privileges of their charter. These same rights and privileges extended beyond the Harlem to certain lands in the Bronx, also abutting on the Harlem and such claims as have been referred to, certainly could not apply to them.

It would not be possible here to enter into all the legal points surrounding the question between the city and the town, but the elementary facts remain as stated, and the only legal or lay question really is, were the lands within New Harlem below low water mark, the property of the City of New York as a whole, or the property of that portion of it which once formed the township of New Harlem. Facts and equity are decidedly adverse to the former view, and inasmuch as the continuance of a vexed claim is decidedly adverse to public advantage, strong reason exists why the city should once and for all abandon a questionable position, and clear up all Harlem water-front questions, and quiet all titles in favor of the locality.

The fact that much of the water front along the Harlem has already been utilized by the city for the construction of the Speedway, an improvement which is a great benefit to the locality, has disposed desirably of one large section.

Much of the Hudson shore front from 160th st northwards is evidently destined to pass into city ownership as an extension of Riverside Park, which would offer a favorable opportunity to settle the disposition of any lands beyond low water mark, on that side, as well as the right of way of the Hudson River Railroad over such lands.

Those portions of the bed of Spuyten Duyvil Creek, parts of which, at Inwood Hill, Cold Spring hollow and around Marble Hill, have been cut off by the construction of the United States Ship Canal, might well be secured as part of the future Inwood Hill Park, and of the Hudson Memorial Bridge site and its necessary strips of parkway.

Part, by act of the Legislature, has been vested in the city with right of sale, as to the power to effect which some doubt may exist, but if the area be retained for park lands, as desired by the residents of that portion of New Harlem, the question need not have to be raised.

There would then only remain three or four sections of land which do not come under the head of lands under water, and which also do not appear in the allotments of 1691 and 1712. It would seem as if it would be to the advantage of all concerned, if action were to be taken to establish a proper title to these areas, which are those which were held out as an incentive to the Harlem heirs. That the present owners, whoever they may be, would be glad to secure the consent of the city to their title, is even less apparent than that the great title insurance companies that have vouched for the titles at some time or other, and still carry the risk, should be willing to arrange for placing any question connected with them, out of future controversy.

It was alleged by the exponents of the rights of the Harlem heirs, that in order to evade such controversial action, the records of the township, together with other public documents, relating to its divisions of lands, had been sequestrated by interested parties, and were detained from their proper places of public custody. If that be so, and there are few real estate authorities of whom you can enquire who will not confirm the assertion, it is a public wrong that should be rectified, and one also that has neither right nor good common sense to justify it.

I have written the foregoing necessarily brief statement of the whole matter for the main reason and in the hope that it may advance a quieting and settlement of a subject which it is undesirable for all parties to keep alive, and also to disabuse that numerous body of worthy descendants of our sturdy settlers of the false hopes engendered by the unwarranted ideas of the promoters of the Harlem Heirs scheme, and finally, in the interests of the general body of property owners of Harlem and Washington Heights who should benefit directly as to public improvements due to the locality as the fruit of a settlement, and indirectly by the final disposition of any vexed or mooted question, which is always, if adverse to the security of any titles, an affliction to otherwise secure property. If necessary to appeal for legislative action, that might take the form of just recognition of the rights of the respective charters as between the town and the city, and while directing and compelling a settlement of disputed points, and effecting a release of doubtful titles, direct that all proceeds resulting and the use of all public lands remaining shall enure for the benefit of the inhabitants and property owners, who are the real "heirs, successors and assigns" of the original patentees of the old township of New Harlem.

A Tenement Department Order.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

Has the Tenement House Department any right to require owners to cut doors in back yard fences? I have received an order to comply with such a requirement on a building that extends only sixty feet in depth on a hundred foot lot. Would not such a communication between yards be an easy means for burglars to rob our houses? Can such an order be enforced?

"OWNER."

Answer—We are not aware of any provision in the Tenement House Law requiring such openings in back "yards."

The City or the Country?

WITH WASHINGTON HEIGHTS FOR AN ILLUSTRATION.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

I AM very glad of this opportunity, in response to its request, to say a few words to the Record and Guide on the subject of renting in the Washington Heights section, particularly in view of the tone of some of the articles that have been appearing in its columns during the past few weeks, both editorially and from contributors.

Judging from the opinions of Mr. Harmon, the future prospects of poor old Manhattan Island seem to be dark indeed, and while it hardly seems natural to expect optimistic views on city property's future from one whose entire interest is in the development and exploitation of suburban lands, yet it seems to me that a careful study of the past history in New York City real estate and of present-day conditions would show predictions for the future far different from those recently outlined in these articles.

The Record and Guide has asked me for a prognostication of the fall renting season, and its request comes at just the right time, for the season is now sufficiently well advanced to enable us to form an opinion as to its success or failure. I have talked with a number of builders during the past few days, and I get practically the same report from all, and that is a brisk demand and little fault found with rents asked.

I could quote a number of instances such as one case of two houses not yet finished, containing 48 apartments, of which 42 are rented; two other houses in an entirely different section of the Heights, with the same number of apartments, and but three to be let. I have found many apartments full and naturally many with numerous vacancies, but there are in almost all cases good reasons why the percentage of vacancies seems inordinately large, and in many instances this condition can be attributed to poor location, bad planning or inferior construction. It must also be remembered that the renting season is still young, thousands of families are still out of town, and the extreme heat of the past few weeks has not made house hunting a pleasurable occupation.

I confidently expect that within a week or two after Labor Day the bulk of the finished apartments at present vacant on Washington Heights will be rented, and I am sure that this result will be accomplished without sacrifices of prices now scheduled.

EFFECT OF THE SUBWAY.

The effect of the completion of the subway through Washington Heights has in my judgment amply justified its anticipation. Not in many years has real estate been subjected to so severe a test as during the past year, and of this Washington Heights has had to bear its full share. The condition of the money market with its attendant effect on real estate activity has been so often and so ably discussed in your columns that it needs no comment here. Builders and investors have been forced to struggle against the most adverse conditions, and that Washington Heights has come through this period with a small percentage of foreclosures is good proof of the stability of its values. So far, all that we have hoped for in the past has been accomplished, and the development of the Heights has progressed along the lines anticipated by most of us. Judging by past experience in the upper part of Manhattan Island, and the beneficial effects produced by a transit system by no means perfect, I fully believe that the other boroughs and outlying districts are going to reap enormous benefits when they are made more accessible, but I cannot see that this is to be at the expense of the Borough of Manhattan.

We have found so far that perhaps the greatest demand has been for apartments of small number of rooms, and that in most apartment houses the flats of eight and nine rooms have been the last to rent, from which it would seem that large families, particularly those with young children, have listened to the call of the suburbs, and it is quite logical that this should be the case.

I become more and more convinced each day that the great bulk of our population has no desire to leave Manhattan so long as it is provided with a satisfactory place of abode and adequate transit.

To sum up the situation as far as the future is concerned, it appears to me that those who for reasons of increase in the size of family, or of desire to "own one's home," or for love of outdoor life, will desert the flat and the city for the joys of a house in the suburbs, while on the other hand those who cannot or will not live otherwise than in an apartment (and their name is legion) will stick to Manhattan Island in the future as they have in the past. And surely with our city's tremendous growth in population there are plenty of people to occupy all the few hundred apartment houses built in the past year and to fill to overflowing the few thousand such houses as there is but room to construct on Manhattan Island in the next few years.

CHARLES GRIFFITH MOSES.

A man experienced in renting business properties will see an opportunity in Wants and Offers.

Three Words Cost $500.

By a decision just handed down by Judge Giegerich, in the Supreme Court, the omission of three words from a mortgage on their property, 82 Eldridge st, will cost Weil & Greenebaum $500. They bought this property subject to a mortgage which provided that if it be paid before maturity the mortgagor, the then owner, Mrs. Rubinsky, should receive a discount of ten per cent.

Mrs. Rubinsky sold the property to Weil & Greenebaum, who before maturity offered to pay the mortgagee, Jacob Lippman, the $5,000, the balance of the mortgage, less a discount of $500; but on advice of his attorney, Jacob Friedman, of 302 Broadway, Mr. Lippman refused to grant Weil & Greenebaum the discount, upon the ground that the mortgage provided that such discount should be allowed to the mortgagor, Mrs. Rubinsky, but the words "or her assigns" were not mentioned in the mortgage, and that therefore this discount was accorded only to Mrs. Rubinsky and not to any subsequent owner of the property.

Weil & Greenebaum thereupon brought suit to procure the cancellation of this mortgage on payment of $4,500. Upon the trial before Judge Giegerich, Attorney Friedman moved for a dismissal of the complaint upon the ground that it was the duty of Weil & Greenebaum to deposit into court the $4,500, which they admitted to be due, at the commencement of the action, which, however, they failed to do, as well as upon the ground that the right to the discount did not pass to any subsequent owner of the property.

Judge Giegerich granted the attorney's motion, saying: "It is unnecessary to express any opinion now as to whether or not the sum tendered was sufficient. The tender was ineffectual in any event, because the money offered was not paid into court, until more than three weeks after the trial. Since the plaintiffs sue in equity for affirmative relief, i. e., to procure the cancellation of a mortgage upon real property, they were bound to keep the tender good by bringing the money into court, at the time of the commencement of the action, and alleged that fact in the complaint, there is no pretense that the plaintiffs did this. The complaint must therefore be dismissed with costs."

New Jersey Men at the Astor House.

LARGE MEETING OF THE NEW JERSEY REAL ESTATE EXCHANGE.

A large gathering of New Jersey real estate men took place on Aug. 13 in the parlors of the Astor House. The object of the gathering was to organize the committee of one hundred, appointed to arrange for the McAdoo tunnel celebration. Incidentally, it was intended to promote the general necessities of the New York-New Jersey Real Estate Exchange. In his opening address, President Kempner predicted that New Jersey was on the eve of a great awakening. He spoke of the great changes which will soon bring about a revolution in the transportation facilities for reaching the great metropolitan centre of New York. He then called upon Mr. Kanaley, the father of the movement, to address the meeting.

Mr. Kanaley said he recognized the necessity for united action and for calling the public's attention to the many benefits and advantages of New Jersey. He advocated a system of advertising under the Exchange emblem, which he thought would prove doubly valuable to the advertisers.

Mr. J. Ward Smith, president of the Newark Real Estate Exchange, said that his organization had the strongest sympathy for this new movement. He predicted that the new Exchange would prove a valuable enterprise, and accomplish much good for New Jersey.

Mr. Frank Stevens, president of the Jersey City Board of Real Estate Brokers, stated that he was very much interested in any movement that would give New Jersey the prominence she deserved. The Jersey City Board of Brokers had over one hundred and fifteen members, and they have fixed things in such a way over there that a good real estate man cannot keep out of the organization. He predicted that a similar result would follow the efforts of the New York-New Jersey Exchange.

Mr. Joseph P. Day, chairman of the tunnel celebration committee, then took the chair, and suggested that several subcommittees be appointed to divide the work of arranging for the celebration. He spoke of the promising outlook for New Jersey and stated that the McAdoo tunnel would open up a new era in New Jersey's prosperity.

Mr. Worrell, a representative of the McAdoo tunnel system, delivered an interesting address, and paid a glowing tribute to New Jersey's situation. He said the McAdoo tunnel system welcomes everything tributary to Jersey's prosperity. Mr. F. M. Welles said he was interested in the development of New Jersey, which offered the best opportunities of any section around New York. He spoke of the common ignorance about the New Jersey conditions and favored an educational campaign so that the public may know that New Jersey is something more than a lot of swamps and mosquitoes. Before adjourning it was decided to hold similar meetings in Jersey City in two weeks and in Newark the week after.

Prospects of Fall Renting.

With the fall renting season close at hand agents are beginning to make the usual preparations, collecting data and arranging systems of indexing properties which will be to rent on October first. The fall of the year has become the agents' busy period, and judging by the reports received from all sections of Manhattan and the Bronx many offices even at this early date are overwhelmed with inquiries regarding accommodations from prospective tenants who are anxious to make the best selections.

Regarding low-priced flats, renting at $19 and under, it can be stated that the demand about equals last year's. This cannot be said, however, of the medium cost apartments commanding rentals of from $25 to $30 per month. In this connection it has been previously pointed out that vacancies in apartments of that type are becoming more numerous, and that this is attributed to the attraction of the suburbs.

With respect to apartments of the higher order reports from agents, especially on the West Side, show that fewer removals are contemplated than last year. The call for 3-sty dwellings west of Central Park is more pronounced than formerly, in fact agents affirm that the supply at this time is inadequate. Over in the Bronx, while there are still many new apartments of six rooms and bath these are being slowly but surely rented. The principal demand in that locality is for apartments of three and four rooms. On the whole, fewer changes are being made than during the previous corresponding season.

Regarding High-Cost Apartments.

Mr. W. F. McClelland of F. R. Wood & Co., Broadway and 80th st, said, relative to the renting of high-class properties, that the demand is very strong and at higher rentals than last year:

In the properties under our management the leases have been more generally renewed than at this time last year, which shows that fewer changes are being made by apartment dwellers. We look for a continuance of the present conditions and believe that the people who wait until September will find it difficult to secure what they require. The demand for private dwellings, at present, is greater than the supply, especially those ranging in price from fifteen to twenty-five hundred dollars.

The West Side.

Mr. Alfred E. Toussaint, of 400 Columbus av, corner of 79th st, conceded that the problem of renting a home in Manhattan was getting more serious each year. For every family moving out of town there seemed to be two coming in.

How can this be accounted for? Simply in this way: New York is the greatest city in America, consequently people having their business in the city want to live as near as possible to it. This condition causes a general congestion.

The scarcest article in the market is, of course, the 3-sty house, as most of the houses are built 4-stys high. Three-story dwellings which formerly rented for $1,000 now bring $1,200; those which rented for $1,200 now bring $1,500, and so on. Four-story houses which formerly rented for $2,000 now bring $2,300; $2,200 now $2,500, etc.

Good houses at medium prices are hard to find, and this state of affairs has turned many a renter into a buyer, as rents have gone up more in proportion that the selling price of houses. There is no doubt that at last the West Side has awakened from its slumber and its real worth is being appreciated.

Asked if prices would continue to advance, Mr. Toussaint said, Yes, as long as the supply is below the demand, which is now undoubtedly the case.

More Families Come Than Go in Harlem.

Mr. A. P. Shaw, of Shaw & Co., 113 West 125th st, said it had been their experiences so far that the better class of houses have rented very easily:

This fall there seems to be an ever increasing demand for moderate price apartments, which are situated near any of the rapid transit lines. For this reason nearly all the apartment houses in this location are practically rented. Owing to the good rapid transit facilities of Harlem, the cheaper apartments or flats ranging in price from $18 to $30 seem to rent fully as well as the higher class ones. And at certain times of the year it is almost impossible to get any cheap flats in anything like a fair neighborhood.

Regarding private houses, there seems to be a question in many people's minds whether the day for private houses is not over. For the past few years large numbers of houses have been torn down and in their place apartments erected. However, we notice this fall the supply is not equal to the demand, and we have no doubt but that if we had a hundred or more well located houses ranging in price from $900 to $1,200, we could rent them. As it is there are comparatively few houses on the market this coming fall, and the ones which are being offered will undoubtedly be rented long before October 1.

It would seem that the large exodus to the country of well-to-do families in this location would leave sufficient houses for rent, but apparently the houses are either purchased by other home seekers or, as we have before said, sold to builders to demolish and erect apartments on the land.

Success on the Heights.

Mr. Charles Griffith Moses, of Amsterdam av and 157th st, remarked:

For the past ten days I have been making a careful study of the situation and have covered the section thoroughly, and I feel fully justified in saying that the fall renting not only is going to be but is now an assured success. It would be idle to deny the fact that the opening of new means of access to suburban districts will attract many people, but that these improvements have affected Washington Heights I am unable to see.

That the future effect of this suburban development will be injurious to this section seems most improbable to me, in view of the fact that there has been so good a demand for apartments on the Heights from families coming from further downtown, and even from Brooklyn. Surely if these people intended leaving Manhattan in the near future they would not move to the Heights with the intention of remaining but a short time, and the very fact of their coming and filling the hundreds of new apartment houses recently put up shows a marked desire on the part of thousands of people for a permanent residence on this island.

Mr. Moses' views will be found more in full in another place.

Fewer Removals in the Bronx.

Arthur Weyl, at L. J. Phillips & Co.'s branch office, 786 Prospect av, said that their experience in the renting line this summer has been most satisfactory:

"Not so much that we have had good renting, but what we consider more important, a smaller percentage of removals than in previous summer seasons. In this respect I believe most of the Bronx agents will agree on the same experience, this condition applying more to the smaller apartments of four and five rooms and bath, the demand for this class of apartments having been very strong and continuous, especially so in the Longwood av and Prospect av sections, and in the vicinity of the Subway and "L" stations.

"There is also a persistent demand for the rental of 2 and 3-family houses along and near the Subway line, and as the demand continually exceeds the supply, it would be to the advantage of enterprising builders to erect more of this class of property. Although the actual renting period is still some months away, judging by the numerous inquiries for Bronx apartments I look for a busy and permanent renting year and a numerous influx of removals from Manhattan to the Bronx."

No More Grade Crossing in Subway.

The Public Service Commission passed an important resolution on Friday by approving plans for relieving the intolerable congestion in the subway at 96th st. The plan as adopted provides for the elimination of the grade crossing at that point by the construction of a new track on the east side and two new tracks on the west side, additional to those in use at the present time. The contract is to be made with John B. McDonald and the Interborough Company, and the work is estimated to cost $850,000.

A New Harmon Development.

Clifford B. Harmon, of Wood, Harmon & Co., purchased from the New Holland Realty Company a tract of 30 acres at North White Plains, the terminal of the new electric system on the Harlem Railroad. This parcel, which is at the railroad station, adjoins the 25 acres purchased recently by Mr. Harmon from the same company.

Not to be Expected.

(From the Evening Post.)

It is during August and September, however, that the real estate market generally reaches its lowest level through the absence from the field of the human element—owners, traders, brokers and money lenders. Were any real business to be done it would be quite without precedent; but such a thing is not to be expected.

PRIVATE SALES MARKET

The underlying drawback to real property transactions at the present moment can be traced largely to the indirect effects of the condition of the stock and bond market. There have seldom been better opportunities for the profitable investment of funds in this direction than those which exist at this time. More particularly is this true with respect to the purchase of high-grade bonds, which may be said to be selling at bargain prices notwithstanding the promising outlook for continued business prosperity. Although it follows that when stocks are low real estate values are high, there appear to be exceptions to this rule. Throughout the city it is affirmed that the prices of flats, dwellings and even business property have fallen since early spring, despite assertions to the contrary. This decline is attributed to the inability of speculators and investors to finance prospective purchases which is due to the mortgage loan situation. Certain funds that have heretofore been freely loaned on real estate security are now being invested in bonds offering not only equally good returns of interest, but promising additional profits by future increases in their market value. It is not unlikely that a continuance of the present money situation will retard fall trading, resulting in some liquidation, particularly among builders and others whose operations are confined to the outlying districts. In the meantime, buying is desultory although fairly well distributed. In Manhattanville builders are still experiencing difficulty in obtaining cash offers for recently completed apartments, which again illustrates the effect of overproduction in that zone. Over in the Bronx, building loans are more difficult to obtain, the same condition applying as well to Brooklyn. In the private sales market several interesting transactions have taken place during the week, although their importance has been somewhat shaded by the element of trade which has entered into many of the larger deals. Included in this number can be mentioned such purchases as that of Chatham Court on Central Park West, and Temple Hall at the southwest corner of Lenox av and 121st st. The total number of reported sales at private contract is 51, of which 15 were below 59th st, 19 above, and 17 in the Bronx.

Clifford B. Harmon, of Wood, Harmon & Co., bought from the New Holland Realty Company about 25 acres of North White Plains, where the electric terminal of the Harlem Division of the New York Central Railroad is located. Negotiations are pending for the purchase of another large tract adjoining.

THE AUCTION MARKET

THE auction budget for the week was made up entirely of legal sales, and although the number of offerings of that character was reduced to less than a half dozen parcels there was no improvement in the total results when compared with the business done for the preceding period. While not altogether unexpected, legal sales have been more numerous for the first fifteen days of the present month than during the corresponding fortnight in last August.

On Monday Joseph P. Day offered 415-417 East 61st st, a vacant plot upon which charges amounting to $5,020.38 were due, not including taxes, etc., $184.85. The parcel was subject to three mortgages equalling $13,057.40. The plaintiffs in the action, Isaac Libermann and others, as trustees, secured the property on a bid of $14,347.

On Tuesday Mr. Day knocked down to Isaac Graf, at $66,000, 153 to 157 West 64th st, three 4-sty stone front dwellings, 54x100.5, against which was due $17,835.08; taxes, etc., $34; subject to two mortgages aggregating $63,750. On Wednesday he offered two parcels, one in 237th st and the other in 147th st, near Robbins av. In both instances the plaintiffs were the purchasers. On Thursday no better results were obtained, and Mr. Day reluctantly struck off 219 West 49th st, a 4-sty brick dwelling, 20.8x100.5, to the plaintiff, E. O. Minocks, for $37,300.

A Use for a Card Catalogue.

Question: Will you outline a system for listing properties on hand for rent and for following up rentals?

For keeping a list of the properties for rent, small cards are the most convenient. Each card should hold the record of one piece of property. Have the cards printed to give a complete description of the property. Use cards of different colors to denote different classes of property, as, for instance, a white card for flats, a salmon card for dwellings, a buff card for business property, a blue card for factory property, and so on.

As a further convenience in locating properties, have cards printed with projecting tabs on which are printed amounts of monthly rentals. Each price tab will have its definite position at the top of the card, so that the tabs of the same rate will be in the same position, thus forming a straight line from the front to the back of the file.

File the cards geographically, dividing your list first into the general divisions into which by custom your city is divided—for instance, north, south, east and west. Use blank guide cards, with one-half, one-third or one-fifth cut projection for subdividing the grand divisions by streets and blocks.

All these things are done to facilitate the location of any kind of property with the greatest ease. The color scheme enables you to select the class of property desired at a moment's notice. The locality method of finding tells you instantly whether or not you have the desired class of property in the required locality. The projecting tabs allow you to secure instantly all the properties at the required rates. The standard size for cards is 3x5 inches.

Aids to Business Making.

The stock broker has a ticker in his office, because he has found that he cannot do without it; the up-to-date real estate broker has the Real Estate Directory, otherwise he would not do half the business. The stock broker uses the ticker whenever he wishes to be posted on the activity of certain stock. The real estate broker uses the Directory whenever he needs information regarding the inactivity of Manhattan realty, and to find how it has stood for the past hundred years. Inactive property is often cheap property. The Realty Records service is as necessary in the real estate broker's office as the ticker is to the stock broker.

OF INTEREST TO PROPERTY OWNERS.

Modern House Furnishing.

GERMAN DECORATIVE STYLE NOW RUNS TO EXTREME SIMPLICITY.

A MARKED change in the general character of interior decoration has occurred in Germany. The present school of architects, painters, decorators and designers is aiming at artistic effects in which simplicity is the dominant note. The current "Jugendstil" seeks its results through symmetry and grace of outline, and broad, even surfaces with effective chromatic harmonies, but discards the mass of minor accessories and the elaborate detail, which have hitherto charcterized the treatment of a German interior and the art of the upholsterer.

This change was strongly pronounced last year in the exhibits of furniture and decorative designs at the industrial expositions held at Nürnberg, Zwickau and other points, and especially at the Exposition of German Industrial Art in Dresden. At the latter there were exhibits of over 100 completely furnished rooms. Nowhere were fringes, tassels, galloons, or the like visible. Woodwork was almost invariably smooth and but rarely touched by the carver's tools.

The change in public taste is so marked that it has seriously affected several well-established Saxon industries so seriously that the government has felt compelled to carefully consider the situation and ascertain whether any measures can be taken to relieve the stagnation in the group of trades directly involved. The minister of the interior recently called upon the Chemnitz Chamber of Industry for a full report upon the matter, with recommendations.

Upholsterers complain that heavy fringes, tassels and similar accessories, which formerly gave them remunerative employment, now are completely banished or are replaced by modest, inexpensive edgings. Until recently they were frequently called upon to undertake complicated designs of folded stuffs in the interior decorations of rooms which involved preliminary sketches and a high grade of artisitc ability in the execution of the plans. The present style of decoration calls for simple materials, free from folds, with a limited amount of embroidery, which are found ready made in stores and involve no special ability in arranging. Plaster decorators and wood carvers and turners state that their trades have all suffered seriously from the prevalent fashion for smooth surfaces on furniture and in decorative architectural features.

Changes at 59th Street and Second Avenue.

A proposed change of grade of East 59th st and 2d av at their intersection will consist of increasing the surface elevation of these two streets 1.5 ft., the change affecting East 59th st through a length of 175 ft. east of the east line of 2d av and of 200 ft. west of the said line. The 2d av change extends from a point about 140 ft. north of the centre line of East 59th st to a point about 181 ft. south of the said centre line. From information furnished by the Department of Bridges it appears that the subway which is being provided for the trolley lines crossing the Blackwell's Island Bridge, cannot be depressed sufficiently at 2d av to permit of the retention of the present grade, and it has been found necessary to ask for the change described for the purpose of carrying out the construction.

The abutting property on both 2d av and East 59th st, excepting that at the northeast corner of this intersection which is occupied for bridge purposes, has been solidly built up with brick buildings ranging from 3 to 5-stys in height and all of these approximately conform with the present surface of the streets.

On Feb. 8, 1907, a resolution was adopted by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment providing for changing the map by widening 2d av, between East 57th and East 61st sts, by adding 65 ft. to its width on the westerly side through the two southerly blocks and 67 ft. through the northerly one, while between East 59th st and East 60th st provision was made for laying out the entire block extending to 3d av as a bridge approach. If this widening is carried out and if the block bounded by East 59th st, 2d av, East 60th st and 3d av is acquired for bridge purposes, the only damages which will have to be paid for in buildings injured by reason of the change of grade will be those on the south side of East 59th st with a frontage of about 175 ft. east of 2d av, and about 35 ft. on the west side of 2d av; and on the east side of 2d av with a frontage of about 150 ft.

Free Material for Filling in Lands.

Owners of vacant low land in the vicinity of New York Bay may procure, free of charge, ashes and material for the purpose of filling in by applying to the Commissioner of Street Cleaning, 13 to 21 Park row, Manhattan.

Tilting at the Central.

A great deal of the backwardness of the northern suburbs is chargeable against the ungracious policy of the New York Central system, for the company has not adequately responded to the necessities of the times. What the nature of public feeling is on the subject was manifested in part by the petition which the Civic League of the Bronx sent this week to the Public Utilities Commission, arraigning with bitterness the management of the local service.

The "petition" of the league was signed by its president, William M. Niles, and its secretary, John Davis. "Every conceivable charge that could be thought of seems to be embodied in this communication," said one of the commissioners, "and if they are substantiated the New York Central must certainly have many serious charges to answer."

In line with the Bronx protest was a letter, signed "Commuter," in last Saturday's Evening Post. It said that the New York Central had long shown symptoms of organic derangement:

The president is a trained railroad officer, believed to be fully equal to the responsibilities of his high place, if he had commensurate authority and the advice and support of a competent board.

The New York Central staff includes trained men of the highest ability, but this does not insure "intelligent operation." The horse with four perfect legs and a wretched body wins no races.

The president who is whimsically checked and dominated cannot maintain a policy. When the operations for the first quarter of this year were tabulated for criticism, he is said to have made a vigorous protest and this picturesque summary "We are going to hell at twenty-five miles an hour."

In the Wall Street slump of this week New York Central stock fell to 102, a drop of more than fifty points from the high mark of last year. Public confidence in the New York Central seems to be on the wane judging from all manifestations.

Final Action on New Street Systems in the Bronx.

The Board of Estimate has approved of a street system in the area bounded by Bronx River, Bronx Park, Rhinelander av, Bear Swamp road, the line of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad, Bronx River av and East 177th st, in the Borough of the Bronx, in accordance with map or plan submitted by the President of the Borough of the Bronx, with the understanding that the westerly line of Unionport road shall meet the southerly side of Morris Park av, at a point 197.345 ft. distant easterly from the easterly side of Filmore st, and shall continue southerly as shown by the alternative line for the Unionport road indicated on the aforesaid map or plan.

The Board of Estimate has approved of a street system for the area bounded by Boston road, the northerly boundary line of the City of New York, Pelham Bay Park and Hutchinson River, in the Borough of the Bronx, in accordance with map submitted by the President of the Borough of the Bronx.

Party Walls.

If one is buying it is important to know if a house has party walls on either side. While each adjoining owner has an easement in the land of the other upon which the wall stands, such a wall is not an "encumbrance" under the covenant in a contract or deed against encumbrances.

But a sound party wall cannot be taken down except by mutual consent. Repairs to it must be paid for by each owner ratably, but one party has not the right to make the other pay towards rebuilding it should it be totally destroyed by fire.

The right to such a wall continues as long as it is sufficient for the purpose and the adjoining buildings remain in a condition to need it. Division fences must be maintained in New York at least under State statutes and city ordinances.

Dwelling Construction in the Bronx.

Of the forty buildings for which plans were filed in the Bronx last week, twenty-six are to be dwellings. About half the plans for these call for 2 or 2½-sty frame buildings, only two brick dwellings being in the list.

In the tenement house class there were plans for only two. The only large undertaking was a 6-sty brick storage building, costing $100,000, to be erected at the northwest corner of Tremont and Park avs.

Assessments for Regulating and Grading.

Notice is given that an assessment for the regulating, grading, curbing, flagging, laying crosswalks, building approaches and placing fences from Walton av to the Concourse, Bronx, was confirmed by the Board of Assessors July 30, 1907, and entered on the same date. The area of assessment includes both sides of the street from Walton av to the Boulevard, and to the extent of half the block at the intersecting streets.

Vesting Title to Manhattan and Brooklyn Approaches to Manhattan Bridge.

Title to the lands needed for the Manhattan and Brooklyn approaches to the Manhattan Bridge will vest in the city on October 8, 1907. The lands are particularly shown on a map filed by the Commissioner of Bridges in the office of the Register of the City and County of New York, on the 20th of February, 1905. The marginal streets have been abandoned for the present, it being believed that they can be acquired at a subsequent time at no greater expense. These strips are to be acquired under the street opening sections of the charter, so that title cannot be vested until six months after the Commissioners have been appointed and filed their oaths. It will be impossible, therefore, to secure title to them during the present year.

Assessments for Street Openings.

The attention of property owners is directed to the following notices of the confirmation by the Supreme Court and the entering in the Bureau for the Collection of Assessments and Arrears of the assessments for opening and acquiring title to the streets below mentioned:

BATHGATE AV, BRONX.—From 188th st to Pelham av. Confirmed July 8, 1907, and entered August 12, 1907.

172D ST, BRONX.—From Boston road to Southern Boulevard. Confirmed May 20, 1907, and entered Aug. 2, 1907.

New Rule at the Registrar's Office.

The attention of property owners and conveyancers is directed to the necessity of conforming to the new regulation of the register's office which requires that all acknowledgments by Notaries Public must be certified by the Notarial Clerk in room 1a, second floor front, Hall of Records, before presentation for record.

Committee of Forty Urge Transit Improvements.

Commissioners Eustis, McCarroll and Maltbie of the Public Service Board held a hearing on Thursday afternoon in the City Hall for the purpose of discussing possible methods of improving facilities for transportation between Manhattan and the Bronx. The hearing was given at the request of a joint committee of 40 civic organizaions from the Bronx. The third-tracking of the Second and Third Avenue Elevated lines was advocated, as well as the building of a four-track subway through the East Side to the Bronx, and the extension of the present elevated and subway routes to the city boundary. About 200 persons were in attendance. Among the speakers were Borough President Haffen, James L. Wells, Julius H. Haas, Charles Baxter, M. E. Penfield, Douglas Matthewson, Ed-

Assessments for Sewers.

An assessment for a sewer in Whitlock av, Bronx, was confirmed August 13, 1907, and entered on the same date. Affects that section between Longwood av and Hunt's Point road, and in Tiffany st, between Southern Boulevard and Whitlock av. The area of assessment takes in both sides of Whitlock av, from Longwood av to Hunt's Point road; both sides of Tiffany st, from Southern Boulevard to Whitlock av; both sides of Lafayette av, between Whitlock and Garrison avs; northeast corner of Longwood av and Lafayette, and both sides of Barretto st, from Southern Boulevard to Whitlock av.

MORTGAGES

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given and the amount. The general dates used as headlines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

The first date is the date the mortgage was drawn, the second the date of filing; when both dates are the same, only one is given.

Subscribers will find mortgages in this list with the wrong block number attached. The block number we give is taken from the instrument as filed.

Mortgages against Bronx property will be found altogether at the foot of this list.

ONE PER CENT. GAINED — A three or four-story building may be built which will net you about seven per cent. on your investment. If you put in the Luxfer System of Sidewalk Lights you can make the basement as well lit with daylight as are the upper floors, and can in consequence get one per cent. more, perhaps, out of the investment. Anyway it will pay you to send for our man who will explain it to you. 'Phone 3276 Gramercy.

AMERICAN GERMAN

MANY architects in their anxiety to get a safe durable cement, overlook the important question of color. One glance at finished Alsen work shows its much finer shade. No yellow or blotchy effect so common in most good brands, a clear bluish tint, perfect for artificial stone. Of course color doesn't count in work like the Panama Canal. There American Alsen was given preference at equal prices only because of ultra high quality. The bids are on record at Washington.

Quick or slow set.

THE way in which general business manages to maintain its volume, in spite of the scarcity of money and the decline in security values, is extraordinary. If there is one department of business which ought to feel most severely the effect of tight money it is that of building; but the figures for July, 1907, show a comparatively small decrease from the large figures of last year. The decrease amounts only to $6,000,000, of which $4,500,000 is attributable to New York. Throughout the middle West, particularly in the larger cities, building is more active than it was a year ago. Chicago, Cleveland, Detroit, Kansas City, Milwaukee and St. Paul all report substantial increases in the amount of new construction projected. On the other hand, Pittsburgh, Minneapolis and the majority of the eastern cities have not succeeded in doing so well. On the whole, however, the showing is remarkably good, and it looks as if the building industry could count upon another year of substantial prosperity. So it is in other lines. Many manufacturers report that not only that they are working overtime to fill existing orders, but that new orders are coming in in a larger volume than ever. It is probable that the farmers will suffer no abatement of the good times of recent years, for the higher prices they will receive, will constitute more than a compensation for any diminution in the yield. In short, it seems entirely possible that the course of business during the coming year will be that which the best friends of the American business public could desire. There will be a slowing up in certain lines, which will, in the course of time, have the effect of easing the money market; but the volume of business will be well maintained and there will be no sudden contraction either of credit or of activity.

THE plans for the new National Theatre in Central Park West and Sixty-second street have been filed, and its construction will be awaited with interest. No private manager would have dared to invest several million dollars in a theatre in this particular neighborhood, because the location is too remote from that in which the other high-class theatres are assembled; but for the purposes of this particular enterprise the site has been admirably selected. It is easily accessible from those large areas on the West Side and in Harlem where live the majority of the theatre-goers, while it is also sufficiently accessible from the more fashionable districts to the south and east of the park. The only regions from which it will be comparatively inaccessible are the suburbs. It will be difficult to reach either from Jersey or Long Island, even after all the bridges and tunnels are in full operation, and this will undoubtedly be a somewhat serious drawback, because an increasing proportion of prosperous New Yorkers will hereafter find homes on the other side of the waters. The drawback will be partly remedied by the completion of the Blackwell's Island bridge, but the remedy will be very partial, indeed. We have no doubt that the location of the Pennsylvania and McAdoo terminals will tend to help theatres, restaurants and shops, as far south as possible until new subways have been built. On the whole, however, the location of the new National theatre is as good a one as could be found. The projectors of the enterprise needed a site which was large, which was capable of effective architectural treatment, which was sufficiently accessible, and which, at the same time, was not too expensive. It is difficult to see what other location would have met with greater sufficiency these various needs. The site includes a whole block front, facing on a park, and in a location which is tolerably accessible at present, and will constantly become more so. The neighborhood of Columbus Circle may, indeed, eventually be the busiest and most important place in upper Manhattan. When Washington Heights, the Bronx and Westchester are more densely populated than they are at present, the tendency will naturally be to push the center further north, but it cannot travel any further north than Columbus Circle and Fifty-ninth street. Some day the Metropolitan Opera House will be moved into that neighborhood, and the whole of Fifty-ninth street fronting on the park will be converted into theatres, restaurants and stores.

SECRETARY TAFT was quite right in protesting against the attacks which have been made upon President Roosevelt in connection with the recent break in the stock market. That break has been due more than anything else to world-wide conditions which have made loanable capital extraordinarily scarce and which has consequently resulted in the sale of all kinds of securities. The responsibility for a condition which has depressed the price of English consols and New York City bonds so as to make them cheaper than they have been for a generation cannot well be imputed to President Roosevelt or to the policy upon which, under his influence, the Federal government has embarked. If railroad securities have declined in price more in proportion than other securities, the reason is chiefly that they were more weakly held and that they have, during the past year, been subject to radical legislative action on the part of the State governments. Doubtless the fine imposed upon the Standard Oil Company by Judge Landis did something to unsettle confidence, because it seemed to be dictated more by a purpose of doing an injury to the Standard Oil Company than by a wish to exact a reasonable and sufficient penalty under the statute. But if Judge Landis exhibited an unjudicial disposition to tag revenge on the most conspicuous of the "Trusts," the President cannot be held responsible. He has never encouraged such a disposition. All that the executive department of the Federal government has done was to seek the enforcement of a law against rebates, which was passed with the full approval of all shades of public opinion, and if the penalty exceeds the crime the fault lies with the statute. In any event the Standard Oil Co. has been notoriously an unscrupulous offender in the matter of rebates, and it can scarcely be denied that even if something more than justice has been done in this one instance, the fine has been imposd on the people who have most deserved it. If President Roosevelt's policy has been inimical to the value of railroad securities, why the reason must be that the value of railroad securities is dependent upon violations of the law. He has done nothing for a year except to seek the enforcement of laws. Some of these laws may not be wise, but their unwisdom cannot be charged to his account. No act of the Interstate Commerce Commission under the rate bill has as yet been dictated by the intention of injuring the railroads, and it is the rate bill for which the President is peculiarly responsible. The railroads would be far safer under the exclusive supervision of a Federal government committed to President Roosevelt's policies than they are under the existing system of mixed Federal and State control.

THE FOREGOING considerations seem so obvious that the abusive and unscrupulous attempts to make the President responsible for the decline in the price of stocks wears the appearance of a conspiracy. Either the enemies of his policy of Federal regulation are merely taking advantage of a necessary decline in the price of securities for the purpose of an attempt to make the President unpopular, or else a decline in the price of securities beyond a certain level has been deliberately brought about in order to provide ammunition for an anti-Roosevelt campaign. In either event it is impossible to see what the perpetrators of these attacks expect to gain. President Roosevelt has declared in the most explicit and final way that he will not be a candidate for renomination in 1908. The man whom he wishes to be his successor is as conservative as any Republican, except those Senators who are frankly allied with the corporate interests. The nomination of any Republican, who was frankly or even furtively allied with the corporate interests would be merely an invitation to the country to elect a radical Democrat. No Republican can either repudiate the policy of regulation on which the Federal government has embarked or be lax about the enforcement of the laws. The owners of securities have far more to fear from the people who control the policy of the Democratic party than they have from President Roosevelt and his followers. In seeking to discredit the latter by unscrupulous misrepresentation they are riding for a fall. The consequences of success would be more dangerous than the consequences of failure, and the sooner they make this discovery the better it will be for them.

A Colossal Profit From Real Estate.

REAL ESTATE is now the investment with a future. The best financiers are making no effort to explain the near-panic in Wall Street. The big investors in real estate are the only men "sitting steady in the boat," profiting from the constant enhancement of their holdings.

It is a grotesque view to take that the country is suffering from a surplusage of prosperity, but it is apparently unwilling to believe in itself. In the face of legislative and popular hostility the railroads have been making financial progress. Their earnings exceed their wildest hopes. But either the future has been too heavily discounted or there is a lack of confidence.

Turn the shield over. Rapid transit improvements in New York together with the tremendous growth of population were responsible for A TOTAL RISE OF LAND VALUES in Greater New York during the last fiscal year amounting to $190,357,758. IMPROVEMENT VALUES INCREASED $187,238,784.

Present values in most of the suburbs are rising under the influence of steady buying. There are advances every week. Every year or two adds from 10 to 20 per cent. to values in many of the more desirable sections. The work of the city's appraisers was closed before current high price levels had been attained. It is believed they will show even greater increases for the current year.

The total assessed value of real estate in all the boroughs of the greater city was $5,326,413,110 for 1906. This year the total assessed values in the greater city are $5,704,009,652.

All of the $190,000,000 which represents land enhancement has gone to the profit account of patient real estate holders. How much of it has come to you?

The increase in the assessed value of all real estate is $501,993,357, of which $105,375,700 is on special franchises, assessed by the State Board, $19,021,115 on the real estate of corporations, and $377,596,542 on ordinary real estate. The largest proportionate increase was in the Borough of Queens, where values have been rising very rapidly, the increase being 36.5 per cent.

IN NINE YEARS THE ASSESSED VALUATION OF ALL REAL ESTATE IN MANHATTAN HAS INCREASED $2,637,000,000; IN BRONX, $295,102,000; IN BROOKLYN, $571,399,000; IN QUEENS, $114,116,000; IN RICHMOND, $12,700,000.

The value of land to-day in the City of New York is so enormous that it is hard to realize its amount without some comparisons. The assessed value of land alone exclusive of improvements in the City of New York is greater than the assessed value of all real estate, improvements included, in the State of Pennsylvania, and nearly twice as great as the value of all the real estate, including improvements, in the State of New York outside the city. The assessed value of land of six square miles of Manhattan in the neighborhood of Central Park is greater than the assessed value of all the real estate of the State of Missouri.

For those living in other cities to comprehend the meaning of the figures some knowledge of the conditions existing in the different sections of New York is necessary, as also a knowledge of the principles underlying the relation of the value of land to the improvements on it. In a newly-settled country improvement value must precede land value, and this condition can still be observed at a distance from railroad communication even in some parts of the State of New York. As population increases the value of land increases more rapidly than the value of improvements, until a condition is reached, like that of the financial section of the Borough of Manhattan, where it is almost impossible to erect building equal in value to the land on which it stands. Some land near Wall st is assessed as high as $300 a foot, though an office building 25-stys high rarely costs more per square foot of lot area than $200, and generally considerably less.

During 50 years all other forms of business and investments have been exposed to reactions, panics and bad financiering. Yet New York land value has risen steadily. It has called for no business shrewdness or technical sagacity on the part of its owners. It has grown in worth and importance with the growth of the metropolis.

To make the story alive and personal, we shall close by relating the experience of a leading man in the commercial life in this city. A good part of his fortune has come to him from real estate investments, but some years ago he concluded to try the stock market. So he put forty thousand dollars into a Brooklyn stock, and saw the investment shrink in value to half that sum. Said this man, in relating the story in our office, "If I had taken a map of Greater New York and vicinity, shut my eyes, then stuck a pin into any part of the territory and invested my forty thousand on that spot, I could not have made a mistake. My investment would have been tangible. I could have gone and looked at it every day, if I had wanted to. Nobody could carry it off or cause it to shrink up. It would have constantly grown in value, and would pretty nearly have doubled."

A New Type of City House.

The house is on the north side of 40th st, 150 ft. east of Park av. The lot is 29 ft. wide and 98 ft. 9 ins. deep. The exterior is of red brick and white marble, the latter used very sparingly. The desire was to make the exterior indicative of modest comfort and good cheer. The windows were made large so as to admit an abundance of light and sun, and the white marble was used to enliven the otherwise sombre monotony of the brickwork.

The most unusual feature of the house is its entrance and garage. In this respect it is probably the first one of a class which will multiply greatly in the future, for it affords a practical demonstration of the possibility of combining with the ordinary city house a garage, the need for which is daily becoming more urgently felt.

The garage is on a lower level than the street, and a large lift, operated by an electric motor, is used for raising and lowering automobiles.

The garage is on the rear of the lot and is entirely separated from the house. The building regulations require that 10 per cent of the area of the lot be left vacant, but there is nothing to hinder one building on that area below the level of the curb, and this is where the garage is placed. It was at first intended to confine the garage entirely to the vacant space on the lot occupied by the house, which would have answered very well for electric automobiles, but would not in this case have been large enough for gasoline cars. To provide space for two or even three cars the garage was extended across the end of the adjoining lot, providing a room 16 ft. wide and 36 ft. long. It is lighted by skylights.

There is no connection between the house and the garage except through this passage leading to the porte cochere, which is cut off from the garage both by swinging fireproof doors and by an automatic fire door. Thus protected, the insurance rate on the house is not affected by the garage. The house is fireproof throughout; as its construction complies with all the rules of the fire underwriters, the lowest rate applies to it.

One enters the stair hall from the porte cochere.

NEW LEADS IN ILLUMINATION

WHILE architects and building contractors are brought almost constantly into contact with the subject of incandescent lighting, the subject of proper illumination has been paid but slight attention, and little or no consideration given to the results that could be obtained. About the only calculation ever done was to allow one lamp (always understood a 16 C. P.) to a certain number of square feet of floor space, or perhaps to a certain number of cubic feet in a room, the question of the actual results thus obtained both from the practical and artistic standpoint being left largely to chance.

Illumination is beginning to receive the attention that so important a subject deserves. Architects, building contractors and those interested in problems of illumination will be pleased to learn that the engineering department of the National Electric Lamp Association has placed at their disposal, in bulletin form, considerable information on incandescent lamps and illumination. This will enable them to design properly the illumination in any particular case. The following outline shows the scope of these bulletins.

The first two serve to describe the National Electric Lamp Association and its engineering department where the experimental and development work of the Association is performed. The third deals with the 50 watt Gem metallized lamp, and the fourth describes the Gem high candle power and prismo lamps and units. The Gem lamp is a great advance over the ordinary carbon filament lamp, both in efficiency and in light quality. The Gem requires but 2.5 watts per candle in place of 3.5 which the ordinary carbon lamps take. Tables are included in the bulletins which show the cost of operation and renewals per 1,000 hours and other data on the performance of the lamp. Curves of the candle power distribution of different lamps with various types of reflectors and cuts showing these units are also given, together with descriptive matter and information.

The fourth bulletin describes the Tantalum lamp. This lamp has a filament composed of a metal wire called Tantalum. This filament can stand a much higher temperature than an ordinary lamp, or even a Gem, and hence gives a still higher efficiency, namely, 2.0 watts per candle in place of 2.5 for the Gem and 3.5 for the ordinary carbon filament lamp. Curves of the candle power distribution of this lamp with various reflectors are given. An interesting table of cost comparisons is found in this bulletin. The combined cost of power and lamp renewals per 1,000 hours has been calculated for the ordinary carbon, the Gem and the Tantalum lamp, for costs of power from 0.6 to 12 cents per Kilo watt hour.

Taking all things into consideration the Gem is found to be the most economical lamp to use up to where the cost of power is 6.0 cents per K. W. H. Above this the higher efficiency of the Tantalum effects a saving in power which more than counterbalances its slightly greater cost of renewal per 1,000 hours. The saving effected by using this lamp increases rapidly as the cost of power increases and as the average cost of power to the consumer is considerably greater than six cents, the Tantalum lamp is used to great advantage.

Although the Tantalum lamp has reduced the amount of energy per candle to about 57% of that required by the carbon lamp, the limit is not yet reached, for the Tungsten lamp operates at 1.25 watts per candle with a life of 1,000 hours. This is but 36% of the power required by a carbon lamp of the same candle power, or an actual saving of 65% of the energy used. Bulletin No. 6 gives a general description of the Tungsten lamp. So far no Tungsten multiple lamps have been made commercially, but the street series Tungsten is on the market and gives excellent satisfaction.

Bulletin No. 7 deals entirely with the subject of illumination and wiring. The principles of illumination are briefly explained and a method of calculating the illumination produced by a lamp and reflector upon a plane any distance beneath it is given, several problems being worked out to show the method. Ordinarily such calculations is somewhat involved so that a table has been devised to lessen, as far as possible, this labor. By its use the calculation of illumination becomes a very simple matter. Other tables are given which show the reflection factors for different colored walls, the intensity of illumination required for various classes of service, etc. Several labor saving tables calculated especially for this bulletin are given in connection with the subject of wiring.

It is the object of the National Electric Lamp Association to embody in these bulletins information that would be of practical benefit to any one who is interested in incandescent lighting. Any one so interested may obtain copies entirely without charge by sending their name, address and occupation to the Engineering Department, No. 4411 Hough av, Cleveland, Ohio, U. S. A.

The New Offices of Carrere & Hastings.

The new offices of Carrere & Hastings in the Brunswick Building were planned to suit the special requirements of their business. The most unique feature is the filing room. Everything that enters the office is brought through the hall to the filing room, where it is recorded and distributed to the staff. Everything leaving the offices likewise passes through the filing room for record, verification and forwarding. In this same room are provided the files for all correspondence and all the drawings for work in hand, which are kept in sliding files manufactured and installed by the Dryer Manufacturing Co. The work recently completed is kept in the rack over the files, the full sizes in the drawers. In this room the materials and office supplies are purchased and distributed.

The reception room is used only as a waiting room from which clients and contractors are directed to the different private offices.

Brick Manufacturers Oppose the New Rates.

MANUFACTURERS of brick in Pennsylvania, Ohio and other States will ask the Interstate Commerce Commission to give them relief from rates adopted by the Trunk Line and Central Freight Associations, to take effect on eastbound business Sept. 1. Failing in this, it is proposed to seek an injunction to restrain the railroads from putting these rates in effect, and then have the matter adjudicated in the courts.

One firm in the Pittsburgh district is under contract to make delivery of about 800 cars of brick in the East after Sept. 1. As they cannot get the shipment under way before that time, the new rates will apply, and having made the contract on the basis of present rates a loss of $25,000 is in prospect.

The prospective controversy concerning rates on freight has its origin in the recent ruling of the Interstate Commission in response to complaints of an Ohio manufacturer against the Pennsylvania lines and the Baltimore & Ohio, in which it was held by Commissioner Lane that all classes of brick look alike to the commission and must, therefore, be hauled at the same rate, instead of diversified classification for paving, building and fire brick, in the order named. As a result, the Trunk Line Association has advanced all brick rates to the fire brick scale.

The Central Freight Association immediately concurred in this action, making a new rate of $5 a ton, Chicago to New York, an advance of $1, the present rate being $4 on paving brick. From Pittsburgh it is now $3 on fire brick and $2.40 on paving brick, so that the increase is 60 cents a ton from the Pittsburgh district, which is considered exorbitant and restrictive of trade.

In consideration of the attitude of the commission, and as at present rates on paving brick are considered by manufacturers to be all that the traffic will bear, the brick men are hopeful their petition to the commission will not be in vain. Building brick manufacturers also object to the advance on their product, although it is less than on paving brick.

Suggestions for Improving the Fireproofing in Buildings.*

By JOHN W. RAPP.

HAVING been engaged in the manufacture of fireproof materials for a period of over 25 years, I would therefore suggest that in all buildings over five stories in height the doors, windows, trim, etc., should be made of steel or metal covered woodwork, as experience has taught us that the building that was so equipped in the San Francisco fire withstood the test to such an extent as to prove beyond doubt that it is the only material at the present time suitable for the purpose of retarding fire.

While I am aware that the fact of being engaged in the manufacture of this material will bring forth considerable criticism, still you will learn upon investigation that the metal covered woodwork being furnished at the present time is in favorable competition with a high grade of non-fireproof material; furthermore it could be demonstrated to the satisfaction of the owner and architect, in case any extra expense is incurred, that they will be amply repaid by the material reduction in their insurance.

I could state several cases where additional expense in complying with the requirements of the Board of Fire Underwriters has ranged as high as 25 per cent. on the capital invested, and one case a short time ago where three buildings were rated as one, by reason of the fact that there were large openings between the walls, an investment of $1,300 reduced the premium $1,400 per annum. I might cite an instance of my own at my works in College Point: my insurance was $2.85 per thousand, and at an expenditure of $12,000 I reduced the premium from $2.85 per thousand to 25 cents per thousand on $200,000 insurance.

If you will take into consideration that of the $200,000,000 or upwards that was lost in San Francisco by fire, it is safe to say that if $50,000,000 had been spent in fireproofing on the buildings, etc., at least $150,000,000 would have been saved, if not the whole amount. Statistics show that we have been burning up for the last three or four years at a rate sufficient to almost pay the national debt.

The trouble has been, in revising the code these matters have not been given the proper attention for bringing forth the subject to the owner and the architect, who have held up their hands in horror at the possibilities of the additional cost of producing a building of this kind and have not thought of the saving effected in the insurance.

The committee of the Building Code Revision Committee on the Height and Area of Buildings will give a public hearing at the City Hall next Wednesday.

*Submitted as a brief to the Building Code Revision Commission.

Points on the Material Market.

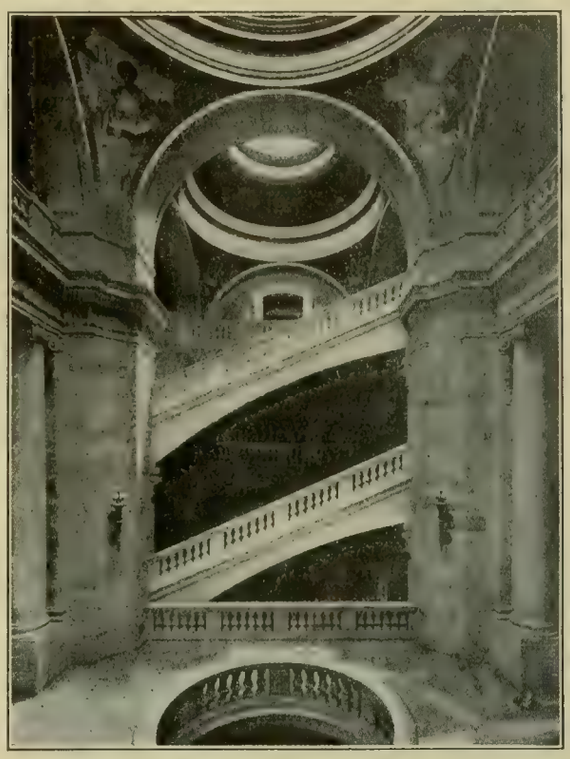
The "seasonably slow" market will soon be out of date.

The yellow pine sawyers of the South are curtailing production by shutting down their mills.

Not so much cedar is being used as a year ago and the market is rather overstocked. Receipts from Cuba have been heavy.



The present prices for mahogany are ruling from 8 to 12 cts. a foot, according to quality, with an average of about 10 to 10½ cts.

From August the first to the 15th the American Bridge Company's steel contracts were equal to those for the entire month of July.

The scarcity of steel is again becoming a factor in the wire nail situation. While deliveries are better, there is still some room for improvement, but mills still have a large tonnage of unfilled business on their books.

There was little of interest in the turpentine market at the close of the week, business on Friday being of small proportions, and confined to sales of a few barrel lots. Prices are pretty well maintained here on the basis of 59½ cts.

The business of the American Bridge Co. bids fair to break all previous records this month. Among the contracts that the company has taken during the week is one for 1,000 tons for the Lawyers' Title & Trust Co., at No. 160 Broadway.

ROTUNDA IN THE ESSEX COUNTY COURT HOUSE, NEWARK, N. J.
Cass Gilbert, Architect.

A quiet tone continues to pervade the hardware market. While there is every indication that business going forward is fully of normal proportions for this season of the year, it is also evident that the jobber is holding off to some extent, and is not over anxious to stock up at the present figures.

Perhaps the most significant feature in connection with the traffic in lumber during the past three months is the fact that in practically all classes of stock there has been but little tendency to shade prices in order to find a market for mill product. This is not absolutely true of every class of lumber, but the exceptions are few.

North Carolina pine is about steady at the range of prices previously noted, and while there is little tendency on the part of retailers to place well rounded season orders, there is a wealth of small business coming in all the time, so that practically all of the large operators are finding an outlet for their entire product.

Hemlock continues to move at the base price of $22 per thousand, and while the trade is somewhat erratic it is absorbing the full product of the mills, for the trade throughout New Jersey and in the Hudson River territory has been buying freely enough to offset the lighter demand right here in the Metropolitan district.

Spruce lath have been received in large quantities during the month, but there has been little difficulty in finding a market for all arrivals, and prices are quoted quite steady to-day at a range of $3.75 to $3.85 for standard 1½-inch slab lath. It is believed that this price or better will be maintained during the balance of the year.

Hardwoods have been dull and a trifle druggy of late, though the market for quartered oak, almost anything in the line of ash and good poplar, is very strong. Poplar still is being quoted on a basis of $59 to $60, and good standard cars of 1-inch quartered oak at $80 and $83. Plain oak is a trifle easy, though when of good quality it finds a ready market. Mahogany is very firm and active, and will continue to hold its present position or better during the balance of the year, as there can be no accumulation of dry stock for many months to come.

The weather has been fine for brick manufacturing on the Hudson River this summer, and material has been made very fast wherever the works have been able to obtain sufficient labor. The market cannot take more than is now being shipped, and yet if manufacturing is to continue much longer shipments must be heavier. Some few manufacturers have made no shipments at all this season, though they have been steadily producing. Expectations of an extremely busy fall are beginning to wither, and an over-supplied market is rather what must be contended with. Under present prices and costs manufacturers say they cannot afford to hold cargoes for long periods at the city piers, while paying demurrage thereon. If bricks must be stored, it is cheaper to keep them under the sheds—at the works. President Hammond, of the Manufacturers' Association, is consequently of the opinion that manufacturing must and will mostly end with September, and he expects to close his own works early next month; but this will not interfere with shipments, which will continue until the end of the season, there being plenty of material in sight.

New Catalogues.

TACONY TURBINE PUMPS.—Catalogue 3, Bulletins 1-6; 16mo, 40 pp., illustrated. Issued by the Tacony Iron Company, Land Title Building, Philadelphia.

Almost without exception present-day catalogues are elegantly printed. The best paper, the newest type faces, the choicest engravings and typographical designs are to be found in catalogues. These bulletins describe the advantages of turbine pumps as compared with reciprocating pumps, give directions for installing and operating, information for inquiries or orders, and pictures and descriptions of the "O," "M" and Sewage pumps, and a price list.

PERFECT GREENHOUSE CONSTRUCTION.—16mo, 100 pp., illustrated. By John C. Moniger Company, Chicago, manufacturers of Red Cypress Greenhouse Construction Material.

This catalogue contains photo-engravings of notable greenhouses in the West, architectural plans and detail drawings of various types of houses, and much information for anyone thinking of building a greenhouse.

FIREPLACE SCREENS.—36 pp., illustrated. Issued by Robert Rossman, 149-153 West 24th st, New York.

The Screens illustrated in this booklet are carried in stock in both four and five folds. A number of new designs are displayed. Styles Nos. 589, 25, 141 and 584, in brass, are particularly handsome. The highest quotation is $6.60 per fold. Brass Repousse Wood Boxes are shown in several designs, and also some Hammered Swedish Steel Antique Fire Sets.

UTILITY STEAM SPECIALTIES.—50 pp. From the Standard Steam Specialty Co., 542-544 West Broadway, New York.

Contains drawings of numerous articles, with dimension tables and price lists, notably the Utility Pump Governor, Exhaust Muffler, Oil Separator, Return Tank and Feed Water Heater as applied in condensing plants. There is also a steam receiver and steam separator combined in one apparatus and gives a storage of steam at the throttle valve several times greater than the displacement of the piston, a feature of much value to an engine running under variable loads, and particularly so when the boilers are located some distance from the engine. This apparatus also prevents wire drawing and the annoyance of vibrating steam mains.

FOR ROOFING AND WATERPROOFING.—8 pp., illustrated. From the Barrett Mfg. Co. We quote:

For roofing and waterproofing purposes the use of Coal Tar Pitch and Tarred Felt has grown from small beginnings, fifty years ago, to almost universal adoption. A great majority of all the first-class buildings of the country are now covered with roofs of Coal Tar Pitch and Felt, with a top surface of either Slag or Gravel. For waterproofing cellars, foundation walls, vault arches, tunnels and all underground construction, Coal Tar Pitch and Tarred Felt are recognized as standard materials. That the United States Government considers this form of waterproofing as best is evidenced by the fact that it was used in the construction of the new Custom House in New York City.

KAHN SYSTEM OF REINFORCED CONCRETE.—24 pp. Part 4. From the Trussed Concrete-Steel Co., Detroit.

This is the system followed in the Marlborough-Blenheim Hotel at Atlantic City, which is one of the largest reinforced concrete buildings in the United States. Its width varies from 60 to 200 feet and the length is 560 feet. The main building is 9-stys high; the front, with the dome, 13-stys.

Rapid and noiseless construction was absolutely necessary. Speed was required because immediate use of the building was of great importance. Reduction of noise was required as guests were being entertained in the older portion of the hotel.

The Kahn System of Reinforced Concrete renders a building soundproof, dustproof, clean and sanitary. The soundproof quality is insured not alone by the concrete being a poor conductor of sound but where the Kahn System of Reinforced Concrete and Hollow Tile construction is used the air spaces in the tile also act as insulation against the passage of sound. Moreover, the dead weight of the construction is so great in proportion to the live load that the ordinary noises, such as moving of furniture and other heavy bodies, or the rapid and noisy moving about of people, has no effect.

WHITE PORTLAND CEMENT.—18 pp. Parthenon Brand. From the Art Portland Cement Co., Kimmel, Ind.

This booklet discusses a subject of the utmost importance to everyone interested in the use of Portland cement.

Since the beginning of the manufacture of Portland cement chemists have been striving to secure a cement white enough for practical purposes. The Parthenon is non-staining and yet a true Portland cement. It contains waterproofing qualities, which is important for building block manufacturers to know.

For all kinds of ornamental work, porch columns, balustrades, vases, cast stone figures, ornaments, etc., for both interior and exterior decorations, Parthenon Brand commends itself. It gives this class of work a distinction never before attained. It can be also used to advantage in connection with ornamental plaster and stucco work.

Plans for the Fifth Avenue Hotel Site.

BROADWAY.—It is reported that plans for a skyscraper office, store and loft building are being designed by Messrs. Maynicke & Franke, No. 298 5th av, to be erected on the site of the Fifth Avenue Hotel, which has a frontage of 139 ft. on Broadway, 63.5 ft. on 5th av, and 217.9 ft. on 23d st. Although no conveyance of the property has yet been recorded to new purchasers, it was reported in June last that a syndicate would acquire the land and erect a building. Messrs. Henry C. and Henry L. Eno are still the owners of record, having bought the property on Dec. 1, 1902, from the "Fifth Avenue Hotel Land Company," to which corporation it had been conveyed on May 28, 1900, by Amos R. Eno, Sr. The Record and Guide was informed on Friday upon apparently good authority that it would be some time distant before such an improvement, if any, would actually be commenced. It now looks as though if such an improvement is made, it will be by the Enos themselves.

SPEED OF ERECTION

In the rush of business in busy New York "Time of Completion" is generally the main item of controversy at the closing of the contract.

Designs and estimates are agreeable to the architect, contractor and owner, but on the speed question the occupant must be satisfied.

SYSTEM M

furnishes the correct design, the lowest price, and above all, the quickest structural scheme on the market.

The members, being light, are handled quickly. The frame goes up ahead of the concrete and is straight and rigid.

The pouring of the concrete can be done on the roof before the floors below, if necessary, to aid other crafts in their work.

The greatest aid to rapid erection is the large stock of Beams, Channels, etc., we carry.

Fabrication starts at once; there is no wait for mill shipments.

BUILDING NOTES

Never explain—your friends do not require it and your enemies will not believe you anyway.

Nine times out of ten the fellow who is let in on the ground floor falls through the beams and lands in the cellar.

Getting replies to an advertisement is not half the battle. It is the follow-up system that makes the most customers out of inquiries.

C. E. Kennedy, local sales manager for the Shepard & Morse Lumber Company, has returned from a trip through Canada, during which he combined business with pleasure, though working a fair measure of the latter.

The steel work on the Metropolitan tower, Madison av, southeast corner 24th st, to be the highest building in the world, is now up above ground four stories. Messrs. Post & McCord, 24 East 23d st, are erecting the work.

Frederick W. Cole, lumber wholesaler at 29 Broadway, is located for the summer at his cottage at Seagate, facing on New York Bay. He has been located many summers at this point and finds it convenient on account of its proximity to New York.

About 3,500 tons of steel will be required for the new 22-sty office building to be erected at the northeast corner of Broadway and Exchange pl, to cost $1,700,000. The Downtown Building Co. is the owner, and Geo. A. Fuller Co., builder. (For full particulars see issue Aug. 3, 1907.)

Harris A. Dunn, 253 West 91st st, is president, and John F. Kane, 25 Madison st, Brooklyn, is secretary and treasurer, of the Downtown Building Co., No. 66 Broadway, which is to erect the 22-sty office building on the north side of Exchange pl, from Broadway to New st, to cost approximately $1,700,000. (For full particulars see issue Aug. 3, 1907.)

The United States Civil Service Commission announces an examination on Sept. 11-12 to secure eligibles from which to make certification to fill three vacancies in the position of miscellaneous computer, Naval Observatory, Washington, D. C. Age limit, 20 years or over on the date of the examination, but preference will be given to eligibles under 35 years of age.

At the meeting of the Association of American Portland Cement Manufacturers at the Marlborough-Blenheim Hotel, Atlantic City, Sept. 11, Mr. E. S. Larned will read a paper on what the cement industry needs in the control and regulation of the cement block trade. Mr. R. L. Humphrey will give an illustrated talk on the work of the Structural Materials Testing Laboratories at St. Louis, and Mr. J. B. Porter will discuss electrical equipment in cement plants.

It is said that construction work on the Panama Canal is developing faster than was contemplated when the estimates for expenditures during the year were made. The estimate is made that about $8,000,000 in excess of the appropriations could be used to advantage in pushing forward the work during the present year. Already reports show that the monthly estimate expenditure for labor is being considerably exceeded, and work at the Gatun dam has progressed faster than was anticipated.

A Western "middleman" introduces a somewhat fine point on the general subject of refunds by railroads for overcharges. He refuses to receive the refund on the ground that he added his excess charge to his selling price, so that the one who really paid the overcharge was the final owner or consumer of the stock. Logically, however, it would better serve the ends of justice to have this refund paid by the law-breaking railroad to the innocent shipper, rather than have it remain in the hands of the former.

The members of the local society of the International Association of Employing Plasterers had an enjoyable outing at Lohbauer's Bay View Park, Pelham Bay, on Tuesday. Baseball teams headed by George Phelan and T. J. Mannion had a close contest. The officers of the association are T. J. Mannion, president; J. H. McCahill, vice-president; J. H. Niebuhr, secretary; Joseph Van Note, treasurer. Among the guests of the occasion were Messrs. Allen J. Huik, Charles Troxell and W. A. Croker, of the Rockland Rockport Lime Co.

There have been few important changes in the local lumber market during the past thirty days beyond the final winding up of the affairs of the Export Lumber Company by Receiver Waterman A. Taft, who has discharged all of the obligations of the old company, which was a New York corporation, and has now organized and incorporated under the laws of Maine another Export Lumber Company, with a capital of $500,000. Its main offices will be in Boston, but it will maintain an important branch in this city at 42 Broadway.

Building in San Francisco.

Information from a trustworthy source to the effect that building in San Francisco is fast approaching stagnation owing to the high prices of material and a fear of further demands for higher wages by the artisans. The labor situation appears to have reached a point where the supply is far greater than the demand, and under ordinary economic conditions the competition for employment would cause a reduction of wages were they not artifically supported by the unions. How long wages can be upheld by these agencies remains to be seen. For the 40,000 men reported to be idle, the prospect of obtaining employment in other cities on the coast does not appear to be encouraging. One of the largest construction companies in the city reports that it has contracts to erect forty-two new buildings of all sorts, on which work has not been begun on account of the outlook regarding wages. Meanwhile, the decline in the cost of building material appears to be general. Brick has fallen 5 dollars per 1,000, lumber has declined 6 to 10 dollars per 1,000 feet and is expected to go lower; lime and cement and wire lath have all dropped materially, and only structural steel remains stationary with no immediate prospect of change.

Recent Decisions by the Board of Examiners.

Appeal No. 44 of 1907, new building 364 of 1907, north side of 66th st, 100 feet west of West End av, Manhattan, Oscar Lowinson, architect and appellant.

1. Building exceeds size allowable for non-fireproof building (Section 32 of the Code).

3. Rear wall of unlawful thickness (Sections 32 and 33 of Code).

8. Suitable foundations should be provided.

The superintendent has refused to approve of the mode, manner of construction and materials proposed to be followed or used in the erection of this building.

It is respectfully submitted that this is practically two buildings and if filed as such would be approved; that to expect fireproof of this class of construction in such a neighborhood is wrong and that it would work a hardship on the owner and prevent the construction, and for the purpose of this construction would be of little value, there being practically no difference between a fireproof and a non-fireproof garage. An examination of the plans show that as far as protection against fire is concerned every requirement other than fireproofing the building of the Municipal Authorities has been made.

That a building of the size shown be permitted. That the rear wall of thickness shown be permitted. That foundations shown be permitted if excavation shows proper material.

(1) That a non-fireproof building be permitted, provided it be built as shown on amended plans. (2) That the rear wall be permitted to be constructed as shown because the building practically is two buildings, and if considered as such, would be legal. (3) That amendment 8 and Building Code sufficiently cover the question of foundations. Mr. Lowinson appeared before the Board. On motion, denied.

New Building 368 of 1907, premises Nos. 222 and 224 West 59th st, Manhattan; Charles W. Buckham, appellant.

No. 3. "Counting the mezzanines as stories, the building will exceed twelve stories in height and should conform to all the requirements of section 105 of the Code, relating to the use of fireproof material." The provisions of the law do not apply.

Does the building exceed twelve stories in height within the meaning of section 105 of the Building Code?

First—The building does not exceed 150 feet in height. Second—The building does not contain over twelve stories.

There are eight main floors in the front and fourteen mezzanines in the rear. The total floor area in the building divided by the area of one complete floor shows less than twelve stories. On motion, denied.

Few people who purchase from the New York Metal Ceiling Co. embossed metal ceilings and side walls of Enametile, know that the concern are also decorators of metal and that they also manufacture an extensive line of embossed lithographed art metal signs. These they make in large quantities for some of the most critical purchasers of advertising material in the country. The plant has been increased considerably during the past year and there are few manufacturers in the country who can show a more complete equipment. The work not only embraces the small decorated novelties, like the scratchers referred to, but also the largest metal signs that can be handled at a rotary press. In some of this work they employ ten, twelve and a greater number of colors, and are prepared to execute the work in the most artistic manner.

IN THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Real Estate Men Meet.

HEAD OF STATE ASSOCIATION ADVISES FORMATION OF DISTRICT ORGANIZATION AND UNITED ACTION ON LEGISLATION.

The Real Estate Association of the State of New York held its annual meeting in Syracuse, Tuesday, Aug. 20, 1907. The meeting was called to order by President J. Clarence Davies, of New York City. Real estate men from all parts of the State were in attendance, and after the address by J. Clarence Davies, extracts of which are below, it was unanimously decided to organize local board of brokers and taxpayers' associations in larger towns and cities of the State, to cooperate with the executive committee of the New York State Association. The question of Land Title Registration was taken up at length by Mr. A. N. Gitterman, representing the New York Real Estate Board of Brokers, who explained the workings of the Torrens system here and abroad to the delegates. He said in part: "The Board of Brokers of the City of New York heartily endorse the measure now before the Governor, asking for an appointment of a commission to consider the expediency of adopting the system of Land Title Registration. We do not insist on the adoption of the present Torrens system, but we heartily recommend a modification which would enable a vendor of real estate closing his transaction with greater ease and rapidity than under the present cumbersome methods. The present searching and researching of titles, issue and reissue of title policies has become a heavy burden to the purchaser of all realty in this State. Should a simpler method be adopted a larger number of people would invest in realty, knowing their security to be absolutely of the best and its vendability assured at short notice." He further recommended the formation of a Congress of Realty Interests, which the president also referred to in his address, and which was unanimously agreed upon at the convention. The following officers were elected: President, J. Clarence Davies, of New York; vice-president, John H. Prather, of Jamestown; secretary, T. W. Weston, of Liberty; treasurer, Samuel T. Betts, of Syracuse.

In the address before the association, President Davies said:

First—Every effort should be made to make realty a quicker or more liquid asset than it is at present. The quicker one can sell or borrow on a security the more market value it has and the more staple that value is. If realty could be sold or used as collateral as readily as city, county or railroad bonds it would be quite as favorite a form of investment. While this is practically impossible at the present time, much can be done to make it a quicker asset than it is.

I would suggest some systematized method of obtaining this market value. This could be done by means of local associations in every city, town or county in the State, such an association to be composed of property owners and representative dealers, and each association to have an appraisement committee, from which committee a conservative appraisal could be had for a nominal fee, very much along the same lines as in New York City, where certified appraisement can be obtained from the Board of Brokers should any one desire to make absolutely sure of the value of a piece of New York realty.

Fourth—Our State should do its utmost to encourage the ownership of land among the masses of people. Nothing so much tends toward making good, patriotic, law abiding citizens as those who have property to protect. Whether this can best be done by exemption from taxation of real estate or below a certain assessed value, or perhaps when one considers the enormous foreign immigration and the low order of intelligence among the vast number of our newly made citizens, together with the constant attentions directed to socialistic theories by our newspapers and magazines whether the time is not now ripe for discussing the question that a man must be an owner of real estate as a condition for exercising the rights of citizenship and the holding of public office.

Fifth—Problems of transit facilities and good roads and cost of transportation are questions vitally affecting the value of real estate and should receive the greatest consideration from the realty interests in every part of the State.

Sixth—Our State government should use due diligence in protecting our forests, waterways and agricultural interests, as they are all matters which make for or against the value of land, no matter where situated.

Seventh—Realty interests should take a much greater interest in legislation. Our laws are now made mostly by members of the legal profession, who, as a class, perhaps, are the smallest holders of real estate, and therefore least able to frame laws to protect the real estate owner.

Eighth—As before suggested, associations of property owners should be formed in every city, county or township. Delegates could be sent to periodical meetings to combine the realty interests of the State, and perhaps this association might be made the nucleus of such a central body.

Ninth—The real estate brokers and agents should be protected in their business, and it is a subject of discussion whether a legal scale of compensation for selling different classes of property could be adopted. At the same time the public should be protected against frauds and dishonest dealing, and I gladly submit for discussion the question of a State license for reliable agents and brokers.

The New Jersey Exchange.

PLANS A STATE CAMPAIGN—DEMONSTRATIONS ARRANGED FOR JERSEY CITY, NEWARK AND PATERSON.

An important meeting of the Board of Governors of the New Jersey-New York Real Estate Exchange was held on Aug. 20 at 347 5th av, New York City. Secretary Creighton reported over forty new membership applications from every section of New Jersey. The new organization is gaining recruits very rapidly, and even from the remotest sections of the State real estate men in large numbers are joining the Exchange. Mr. Joseph P. Day announced that after conferring with the officials of the Hudson and Manhattan Railroad Company it was safe to set the date of the tunnel opening celebration around Dec. 1. Mr. F. M. Welles brought up for consideration the subject of organizing local branches in all the leading cities of New Jersey, which should include representatives of other industries as well as real estate men. It was agreed to empower the secretary to select local vice-presidents in the various towns and cities, who are to gather about them the nucleus of a branch organization. In this way the Exchange, according to Mr. Welles, is to be made a powerful factor throughout the State, in furtherance of its development and prosperity.

Mr. Frank Stevens, president of the Board of Real Estate Brokers of Jersey City, reported that his Board had tendered the use of their rooms for an open meeting of the Exchange on Wednesday, Aug. 28, at 3 P. M. The tender was accepted with thanks. Arrangements are being made for a large meeting in Jersey City on Aug. 28, and for a similar demonstration in Newark on Sept. 4. Other cities will be visited in rotation, until New Jersey resounds with the motto of the New Jersey-New York Real Estate Exchange, "New Jersey to the Front."

Walks and Talks.

A talk with the Alexander & Reid Co., Tiles, Mantels and Fireplaces, 127 East 23d st, developed the fact that, while there was some business doing, there was little activity as to the situation as it appeared at present. The outlook was not particularly encouraging. This was attributable, first to money conditions; second, to the high price of labor, and third, to the high price of materials. By the work that the company had been doing, their impression was that the best classes of apartments were likely to be in demand; but there had been overbuilding of small apartments.

A member of a prominent real estate firm, who did not wish to be quoted, has a new theory about a contributing cause to New York's non-progressiveness, or rather not advancing in certain directions in the way that it should. He says that dock monopoly is the drawback, and that docks and piers should not be in the hands of private corporations. He had heard that a movement was on foot by the Pennsylvania Railroad with the object of making New York a free port. It was notorious that port charges, owing to the private monopoly of piers and docks, made New York dreaded by many foreign shipping merchants and shipowners, in spite of the city's being the principal port in the Americas and the greatest commercial center of its character in the world.

In discussing real estate matters with the Cruikshank Company, 141 Broadway, it was learned that, while the private house situation was not satisfactory, there were good prospects for the better and higher class of apartment houses. In fact, a great many of the latter had been rented. In the spring of 1906 it was predicted that property would be higher than ever, but this year, owing to financial conditions, it is most difficult to predict. Many people have gone to the suburbs and moved across the rivers. There are also many others who desire a good class of apartment at about $1,400 a year who formerly have been willing to pay from $3,000 to $3,600 for the highest class of accommodation. Nothing positively definite could be said, however, on this subject, as August was always the dullest month in the year. General rental business is fair, but no booms are looked for at present, or are likely to develop in the immediate future.

"In view of the Wall Street situation," remarked Mr. Van Pelt, of George R. Read & Co., 60 Liberty st, "it is impossible to predict what kind of business we shall have this fall. There is undoubtedly a want of confidence and too much direct or indirect manipulation in high quarters. But this is the dull season, and there is really nothing to be said."

PRIVATE SALES MARKET

REPORTS from previous centres of activity in the city, more particularly those known to be free from damaging influences of intermittent "booms," show a substantial increase in the demand for good investment property and private dwellings, which indicates that the fall market will at least be characterized by these two features. Regarding new-law houses, while the situation in this respect is less encouraging, a slight improvement has already been manifested in the number of inquiries for this class of investment, which will doubtless be further accentuated when the results of the coming renting season are known. It must not be inferred, however, that new-law houses at present prices are likely to offer many opportunities for the quick turning of capital, for the element of speculation in flats erected under the amended Building Code is practically precluded by the insufficient net returns when compared with the cost of production. The outlook for the coming Fall, as applied to downtown business property, is considered excellent, and while but few important sales have recently been consummated, it is known that negotiations are now under way for the purchase of several plots in close proximity to the McAdoo terminal, one of which foreshadows the building of another skyscraper. Rentals in that quarter on the whole show no break, except in certain sections, which is due to the excessive competition at this time of the year. Money conditions remain about the same, but if expected activities are to be influenced by the financial situation the hardship will be felt most by the speculators who require large sums for their operations. The week's budget is small and purchases unevenly distributed. In Manhattan the sale of dwellings is the feature, while over in the Bronx the monotony of a quiet market was broken by a slight quickening in the sale of vacant lots. The total number of private sales reported is 47, of which 11 were below 59th st, 17 above, and 19 in the Bronx.

A remarkably interesting report from the Department of Taxes and Assessments—one of the most valuable reports ever made by that department—appears in the City Record of Friday, Aug. 23. It includes an article from the Record and Guide, by the Hon. Lawson Purdy, on the Assessment of Real Estate in the City of New York.

An experienced broker, with a thorough knowledge of values, having many parcels for sale and lease, and with an exclusive clientele, is ready to take the management of an office for a real estate firm who may care to open a branch in the Times sq section. His advertisement appears among the Wants and Offers. In the same column it will be noticed that a man experienced in renting downtown offices is required, and an advertiser wishes it known that he desires a small stable for private use, preferably on the West Side.

THE AUCTION MARKET

SUMMER quiet still reigns in the auction room, and the attendance at the legal sales is as large as can be expected, considering the character of the offerings. On Monday Joseph P. Day offered in foreclosure the 5-sty tenement at 517 and 519 West 159th st, 50x99.11, subject to mortgages equalling $52,321, and a judgment of $2,822. The parcel was secured by the plaintiff, M. W. Weill at $57,900. On Tuesday Mr. Day met with better success and succeeded in securing a bid of $60,616 for Nos. 1337 to 1347 Brook av, three 6-sty brick flats, with stores, 125x90, at which figure the parcel was struck off to Henry Russell subject to charges of $36,422, and other mortgages for $15,000.

He also offered at public auction the property Nos. 418 and 420 East 52d st, 6-sty brick flat, with stores, which was knocked down to Leon Noel for $57,000. On Wednesday William Kennelly offered in partition No. 1040 Fairmount pl, a 2-sty frame dwelling, 34.11x62.5x24.3x62.5, which was secured by R. and J. Roberts for $4,150. On Thursday, at a foreclosure sale, affecting No. 248 West 22d st, a 3-sty brick dwelling, Auctioneer Day struck off that parcel to M. S. Simpson on a bid of $19,100. The amount due on judgment in this instance being $10,778.

On Friday Samuel Goldsticker sold 124 to 128 East 107th st, a 6-sty brick tenement, 50x100.11, to Golde & Cohen on a bid of $50,250. The amount due was $20,560.88; taxes, etc., $225. At the stand of Bryan L. Kennelly 318 to 326 East 78th st, two 6-sty tenements, 87.6x102.2, were struck off to Mary M. Ehrmann for $128,000. The amount due in this case being $10,486.11; taxes, etc., $338.

Quit Claim Deed.

A quit claim deed does not give a very good title; it simply conveys whatever right or title or interest the grantor may have in the property described, at the same time that he signs and delivers the deed. It will, however, take precedence over a prior unrecorded warrantee deed from the same grantor, if the purchaser under the quit claim has no notice of the prior deed and if there is nothing stated in the quit claim which suggests the earlier conveyance. But a quit claim deed will not operate as a warrantee deed does to carry subsequently acquired title of the grantor.

If a purchaser takes such a deed he can hardly be regarded as a bona fide purchaser without notice of outstanding titles and equities. The buyer obtains just such a title as the seller had, and the land in your hands would remain subject to all the equities attaching to it in the hands of the seller, though they may be unknown to the buyer. Even in the absence of fraud by accepting such a deed one takes the risks of the title, for the seller virtually declares that he will not warrant the title even as against himself.

Getting and Holding Good Brokers.

Undoubtedly a serious question to the head of a real estate office is how to get and hold competent salesmen. The solution obviously lies in making it easier for the salesman to do business than if he hired deskroom somewhere. Note any of the offices where salesmen remain year after year and invariably you will find that the records in that office are excellent. That is the secret of their holding good men. Also you will find the Real Estate Directory and the Record and Guide Quarterly are the basis of the system. If your success is not so pronounced as it should be in this line, strengthen your records and show your salesmen how to use them. Watch these paragraphs for suggestions, and by all means install a service that costs very little and makes a real system possible.

Real Estate Values in Principal Cities.

The following tables have been compiled from statistics furnished by the respective tax departments of the several cities at the request of the Department of Taxes and Assessments of the City of New York. The figures given for the City of New York are for the year 1907. Those for Pittsburgh, Detroit and New Orleans are also for the year 1907, and those for Boston, Newark, Philadelphia, St. Louis, Chicago, Baltimore and Milwaukee are for the year 1906.

In Pittsburgh the land value is assessed once every three years, and the improvement value assessment is corrected each year. In Chicago the land value and improvement value are not separated, and the assessment is made once in four years. In Baltimore the assessment is made once in five years.

A Transit Scheme for the Bronx.

PROPOSED BY THE CIVIC LEAGUE—AN EAST SIDE SUBWAY THE MOST PRESSING NEED.

THE Civic League of the Bronx, of which Commr. John E. Eustis was formerly president, presented some practical suggestions to the Public Service Commission at the Bronx hearing last week. The Civic League is opposed to the third-tracking of the elevated roads, not believing it will afford the relief which its advocates claim for it. It was said that the routes for new lines laid out by the Rapid Transit Commission are comprehensive and well suited to the needs of the Borough of the Bronx: they include a direct East Side Subway up 3d av to 138th st, to the Southern Boulevard, to Westchester av, to Westchester and Pelham Bay Park, with extensions from 138th st to the present subway at 149th st, and also to Jerome av; a West Side Subway extended up Jerome av to Woodlawn; an extension of the present viaduct from West Farms up the White Plains road to Williamsbridge; and several subsidiary branches. But it was urged that the sooner that these can be placed under construction the quicker will this borough receive the relief it needs:

Inasmuch as it is generally conceded that the 3d av elevated railroad carries the heaviest Manhattan-Bronx traffic, the most pressing need would therefore seem to be a direct East Side four-track subway.

In the report of William Barclay Parsons, chief engineer, on a Comprehensive Plan of Rapid Transit, submitted to the Rapid Transit Commission Feb. 19, 1903, he stated that by "The pecuniary limitations which the Board was held by the debt limit of the city, or by the judgment of its executive and financial heads or by the determination of the Supreme Court . . . the Board was compelled to lay out one line to serve both the East and West sides of the city. This attempt necessarily involved a certain sacrifice in directness, which directness is essential to quick time. This effect should now be removed."

In all rapid transit discussion for 15 years or more, the need of a direct East Side railway has been urged; and this need is accentuated with the passage of time. Impressed with the urgency of this need, we cannot too strongly recommend such action as will initiate the actual construction of a direct East Side Subway. It seems to us that the city might, with funds now available, commence a short section of this, and thereafter seek such legislation as will eliminate bonds issued for subway construction from being charged against the debt limit, so that a municipally constructed line may be completed from the Battery to the Bronx, subway, construction from being charged against the debt limit, so that a municipality constructed line may be completed from the Battery to the Bronx. Subway, dock and water bonds seem fairly entitled to exemption from classification with bonds issued for non-revenue producing public utilities.

To ascertain the extent to which the present capacity of the elevated railway in the Bronx is being utilized, a sub-committee consisting of Mr. John Davis and the chairman made a personal test on the morning of July 31 and the afternoon of August 1. The time that each southbound train passed a given point between half-past six and half-past eight o'clock in the morning was taken, and the number of cars and condition as to crowding noted. Similar observation of northbound trains was taken in the afternoon between the hours of five and six o'clock.

"In the morning the headway ranged from forty-five seconds to four minutes, the average being one minute and thirty-seven seconds. Between seven and eight o'clock a one-minute headway was maintained most of the hour, the average being one minute and twenty-one seconds. The Third avenue trains consisted of seven cars each, most of them with an open car in the centre. The expresses were crowded to the platforms, while many of the locals had room to spare with vacant seats in the rear cars. The Second avenue trains consisted of five cars each, run on an average headway of six minutes, not overcrowded, and most of them with seats to spare in the rear cars. The headway was increased somewhat in the evening, and the Second avenue trains were more crowded, while the Third avenue expresses were packed."

The conclusion reached was that the train capacity of the elevated railway in the Bronx was not being used to its fullest extent and that it might, with safety, be increased 20%. It may be that on Manhattan Island the 129th st trains fill this apparent gap; if so, by extending them to Bronx Park the Bronx congestion would be relieved by that much.

Further relief can be obtained and additional facilities provided by running the Second avenue trains from South Ferry to Bronx Park instead of from Canal street to 161st street; and by running as many trains out over the Westchester avenue viaduct to West Farms as the number of passengers to whom transfers are issued at this point demands, thus eliminating the congestion caused by the change of cars at 149th street. By actual count as many as 125 passengers from a single train, more than the seating capacity of two cars, transfer here and pass down the narrow platform and stairs north-bound; or cross the street in continuous procession from subway to elevated south-bound, exposed to the elements in all kinds of weather. Northbound during the rush hours, the passengers from one train have not all reached the exit stairs before those of another are discharged upon the same platform, and a minute of running time is lost; while south-bound the stream of subway passengers meets another from the elevated railway, causing confusion and congestion on the narrow stairway platform.

As another means of relief to the Bronx we would strongly recommend the giving of free transfers between the Manhattan and Bronx surface lines, which would cause them to be patronized for the short interborough travel which now uses the elevated road to save the extra fare; and we believe that through surface cars should be run between the boroughs, either by attaching them as trailers to each other, or by the substitution of the underground for the overhead trolley for, as radical as that suggestion may now seem, its realization is inevitable.

We believe that a free transfer between all Manhattan and Bronx elevated, surface and subway lines would result to the mutual advantage of the railway and the community.

It was also said that there is need of more crosstown surface lines in the Bronx. The great breadth of that borough as compared with Manhattan makes this the more essential. Hence the following extensions were suggested, all to be double track roads:

One Hundred and Sixty-first street line to be extended by way of 163d and Dongan streets and the Hunts Point road to Long Island Sound; 149th st line to be extended to the East River.

Tremont avenue line to be extended from Ft. Schuyler along the Eastern Boulevard to Pelham Bay Park, and this line to run continuously across Third avenue, abolishing the change of cars now necessary at this point. A surface railway from Van Cortlandt Park along the Gun Hill Road to Pelham Bay Park.

The surface railway facilities of The Bronx are afforded mainly by the Union Railway, which gives a very liberal system of transfers as far as Larchmont on the east and Hastings on the west. But the service, except on a few of the less traveled lines, is very inadequate; and during the rush hours overcrowding is carried close to the limit of safety, passengers being compelled to ride on the running boards and even on the bumpers outside the platforms. While there has been recent improvement in the rolling stock, the condition of some of the cars require attention. The conductors, with some exceptions, are more than usually discourteous to passengers. This may be due, in part, to the overcrowding, which is trying to the tempers of both passengers and conductors. The remedy is clearly more and larger cars. This would benefit the company also, since it is physically impossible for conductors to collect every fare, when the aisles and platforms are crowded, and attend to the stopping and starting of cars as well. Besides, a better service would encourage travel and aid in the development of the territory through which the railway runs.

In a general way it was urged that an effort should be made to provide transit facilities in advance of immediate necessity, instead of awaiting development before providing facilities. Transit facilities have been permitted to lag so far behind all other forms of development that New York City might well make some sacrifices in other directions to secure what is, after all, the most pressing need of the every-day life of her citizens—speedy, safe and comfortable means of travel to and from their homes and places of business. The petition was signed by Albert E. Davis, chairman; James L. Wells (except as to financial ability of city to build); James Reilly, John Davis, John H. Nichols, W. W. Niles, president.

The law regarding bakeries and fat boiling establishments has been amended to this effect:

How to Appraise Real Estate

THE ability to correctly determine the value of real property is dependent as much upon a clear understanding of certain fundamental principles which should be employed as upon the length and scope of the appraiser's experience in the real estate field. It does not necessarily follow because a real estate man has enjoyed the reputation of an experienced and successful negotiator that he is qualified to pass expert opinion on property values, although it is not to be denied that such a person frequently has the advantage when the question of testimony is taken into consideration.

On receiving his assignment, among the first duties of the appraiser are to intimately acquaint himself with the property and its surroundings, the results of previous nearby sales, both legal and private, and any element which is likely to exert an important bearing on the present and future value of the parcel affected. If the property to be appraised is vacant, great care must be exercised in ascertaining its actual condition with respect to the presence of rock, both above and below level, the situation of streets in the immediate locality, assessments, probable changes in grade, and many other vital questions which are likely to prove important factors in establishing its true value.

If the property be improved, it is necessary that its adaptability to present environment be carefully considered, as well as the probability of any immediate change in the neighborhood taking place which may affect its rental income. Then, too, the appraiser must possess a good knowledge of construction, including the relative price of material and labor, in order that he may form a correct idea of the cost of reproducing the structure.

In this connection it can be stated that the most popular method now employed in arriving at the cost of buildings lies in the cubic system, the application of which is daily becoming more frequent. Its successful use, however, depends entirely upon the intelligent manner in which it is applied. While ordinarily the value of a parcel of improved property is the value of the ground to which is added the cost of the building, due consideration should be paid as well to its investment value which is largely governed by its gross annual rental. The percentage rule generally followed in this regard applies both to elevator apartment houses and tenements, and although subject to modifications brought about by a possible change of circumstances is perhaps one of the most reliable means of determining the market value of that class of property.

In the former instance 12 per cent. is the ratio of rental to fee, while in the latter 10 per cent. is deemed a fair average. Thus a lot costing $15,000 upon which a $27,000 tenement has been erected is valued on an annual gross rental return of $4,200 at $42,000. An exception to this rule is usually made when the building is known to be in bad condition, but in such cases the value is seldom affected to a greater extent than the actual sum it would take to make the necessary repairs. This system may be used to ascertain the value of other property as well, from 6 to 7 per cent. being allowed for dwellings and 8 per cent. for office structures.

Besides the necessity of thoroughly familiarizing himself with all of the requirements mentioned, including a practical knowledge of the several appraisal systems now in use by experts employed by title guarantee companies, life insurance organizations and other large lenders on bond and mortgage, the appraiser of city realty should be a close observer of the varying conditions of suburban real estate, being ever mindful of the possible effects any market movement in that direction might exert on the future values of city property, especially dwellings and medium price apartments, these being more readily susceptible to influences caused by a shifting population than other classes of realty.

It should always be borne in mind that property values are ever prone to rapid changes, and in order to intelligently and expeditiously render an accurate opinion the expert should constantly keep in touch with every phase of the market. It is the judgment of many that the expert best fitted to act in the capaciy of appraiser is the broker who daily comes in close contact with buyer and seller, and who knows at just what figure a parcel of realty may be sold. However this may be, the odds, at least, are in favor of the locality man who may usually be counted on to furnish a reliable opinion.

Instinct is another quality important in making an appraisal, but this only comes to the expert after long experience in real estate matters. Other advantages, such as extensive acquaintance among operators and investors, as well as members of the bar, are, in these times, infinitely necessary to the expert who is frequently called upon to solve many knotty problems in values.

As to the much decried set rules in appraising buildings there is no doubt that many are ill-founded and fail in their purpose to meet the exigencies of the occasion, but at the command of the man who knows how, the cubic system can be made to meet all ordinary requirements and is likely to remain for some time a favorite method among not a few of the new as well as many of the old time appraisers.

The Small Investor.

It is not necessary to tell the kind of a man that is meant by the term "a small investor." The term is relative, but in general the small investor is one who has arrived at middle life, and has by stern economy saved from his business income a few thousand dollars which he now has in the form of cash or its equivalent. He has not yet started in to "make money," as the pharse goes, he having been otherwise engaged or he has just arrived on the scene of opportunity. At any rate, he has been less willing to take a chance than he thought he would be when he was younger. To such we would say, invest your money where it will work slowly and where you can always see just what you have for it. Don't go on any one's representations. Leave large schemes to the large investors, who can afford to risk their money and who, by reason of the amount of their capital involved, can afford the expense and trouble of a careful investigation.

Keep your small savings where you can watch them work. Do not be a mere spoke in a big wheel. If you are simply one of a multitude of investors in an enterprise, you cannot control your investment, but are at the mercy of the others.

A good investment is a flat house on Manhattan Island bought at the right time. When negotiating avoid enthusiasm. The man who has something to sell will furnish all the enthusiasm that is necessary. Be sure not to pay more than the property is really worth, but bargains are scarce, and the advantage to the small investor will consist mainly in the small amount of cash required. When you have selected a piece of improved real estate, be sure that you go at it right. Have the title examined by a good real estate lawyer and don't sign your contract first and go to the lawyer afterwards. Consult him as soon as you have decided what property you want to buy, before you sign any papers or pay down any money.

Before purchasing, ascertain exactly what the rents are and be sure that they are sufficient to give you a fair return on your investment after paying for all repairs and other charges. In order to do this, you must know what the annual taxes amount to, what the insurance rates are and about how much it costs to keep the building in repair. Go slow. Don't expect too much, but you stand a good chance in New York if you have put your money into improved real estate. You are not likely to make money in Manhattan by putting up buildings in competition with experienced contractors and builders, who know all the ins and outs of that business.

Bronx Not Against the Whitestone Ferry.

Borough President Haffen, of the Bronx, is authority for the statement that the residents and officials of the Bronx Borough will not oppose the project for a municipal ferry from Whitestone to the Bronx, as a consequence of the endorsement by the local boards of the Bronx of a proposition for the city to acquire the New York and College Point Ferry, and run it.

Aids to Business Making.

It is undoubtedly true that it costs more to conduct a real estate business than ever before, and the reason is that the service furnished by the Record and Guide and the Realty Records Co. greatly increase the business horizon. An office pays a couple of hundred dollars for a service, but then does business without increasing the office force over three times the former territory. The day of the real estate pedlar is past. The broker to-day must be a high-class business man who knows his business.

"SNOW WHITE"

A true Portland of PURE WHITE COLOR, combining the essential qualities of great tensile strength and imperviousness to a rigorous climate.

"SNOW WHITE"
Portland Cement

"SNOW WHITE" Portland Cement is not approached by any known product for the following purposes, viz.: Facing for concrete construction and stucco, ornamental and architectural forms, superior substitute for terra cotta work, white ground for terrazza and mosaic work, base for all artificial stone, floor and other tile, special sanitary plastering of all kinds, architectural landscape work, for setting marble and light stones or brick, plastering elevator and light shafts.

Its pure white color, strength and close grained hardness, together with its hydraulic properties and its ability to withstand the elements, place it in a class by itself, unique in all its qualities, and indispensable at any price.

MORTGAGES

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given and the amount. The general dates used as headlines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

The first date is the date the mortgage was drawn, the second the date of filing; when both dates are the same, only one is given.

Subscribers will find mortgages in this list with the wrong block number attached. The block number we give is taken from the instrument as filed.

Mortgages against Bronx property will be found altogether at the foot of this list.

August 16, 17, 19, 20, 21, 22.

HARTFORD.—A. R. Whitney, Jr., & Co.'s successful bid for the State Arsenal contract was $462,884, and this provides for a granite or marble exterior rather than for brick, for oak interior instead of chestnut, as was first planned, for emergency gas lighting in the drill room and for plate glass instead of ordinary glass. Benjamin W. Morris, whose plans for the armory were accepted, will have personal supervision of the work and receive a commission of 5 per cent. There were six other bidders on the job besides the successful one. Ambrose B. Stannard submitted the lowest proposal, $367,900, for a brick building, but the commission decided that brick was not suitable material for the exterior walls. Stannard's bid for a granite exterior was about $60 000 more than his bid for a brick exterior, making his figure considerably larger than A. R. Whitney, Jr., & Co.'s.

THE approach of the Fall has done nothing as yet to awaken the real estate market to life. Apart from a slightly increased demand for private houses, there are no indications of any approaching activity; and, indeed, it would be foolish to expect anything of the kind. General conditions, as well as local conditions, conspire to forbid it. The coming business year is obviously destined to be one of transition, during which the methods and centres of real estate activity, as well as the prevailing level of prices, will be adjusting themselves to a new set of underlying conditions. Business of all kinds all over the country will probably undergo a slow process of concentration and consolidation. It is absolutely necessary that a certain amount of capital should be released from the pressure of current engagements, and be allowed to seek a more stable and safer method of employment. If this process is accompanied by any considerable diminution of business, there will be compensations in a lower scale of expenditure, and a more economical method of operation. But while it is taking place real estate and building will probably feel the effects of the readjustment, more than many other branches of business, just as it will subsequently profit more largely from its completion. Just at present speculative operations in real estate are embarrassed by the difficulty of borrowing money, and the investment demand by the low prices at which good securities are selling. When, however, money becomes easier and securities have gone back to a more normal and less profitable level, real estate and building will immediately feel the advantages of the change. In the meantime local conditions make also for dulness. The effect of these transit improvements that are soon to be completed has already been discounted, and there are no new ones proposed, upon which speculative buying can be based. The dulness has not been accompanied by any concessions in prices, which would tempt buyers out of their inertia. On the other hand the dulness shows no tendency to become weakness. Considering the large diminution of activity which has taken place during the past year, there has been comparatively little liquidation. The weak points in the rental situation tend to improve rather than to become worse and it is probable that prices will be firmly held during the coming winter. All this assumes, of course, a gradual process of readjustment in the general business situation. A sudden and severe contraction would change conditions radically and might force liquidation, but as yet such a contraction is not foreshadowed.

THE man who would have predicted twenty years ago that New York City would be obliged to pay four and one-half per cent. interest in order to sell its bonds above par would have been considered out of his mind. At that time New York could borrow at about three per cent., and had as little difficulty in floating its loans on that basis as would the Federal government. The necessity of paying four and one-half per cent. interest would have been considered equivalent to a confession that the city was adopting a policy of financial extravagance which had severely compromised its credit. Yet the city of New York is obliged to pay four and one-half per cent. in spite of the fact that its financial situation was at bottom never sounder than it is at present. New York is very much better and more efficiently governed than it was twenty years ago. During this whole period it has been carefully nourishing its resources in the way of franchises and the like, instead of recklessly giving them away. Its assets have enormously increased, and the value of its real estate alone is probably equal to the value of the real estate owned by the Federal government. Its population has been increasing as rapidly as ever and its business in even higher proportions. Its bond is intrinsically just as good, if not better, than it was twenty years ago, and yet the interest charges upon them have become half again as much. The reason, of course, is that the city has adopted a policy of extensive and costly municipal improvements at the very time when similar improvements in every part of the country were straining the supply of loanable capital. These improvements were necessitated by the fact of consolidation, and there can be no doubt that the constant weakening of the city's credit has been one result of consolidation. The credit of the smaller cities which were annexed to the old New York was much inferior to that of Manhattan Island, and the responsibilities placed upon the greater New York were so onerous that its credit suffered somewhat from the very beginning, and it has continued to suffer, because the task of providing for the present and future needs of the consolidated city necessitated the issue of more bonds than the market could conveniently take. It may be confidently predicted, however, that the city of New York will not again be obliged to pay over four per cent. for its money. Its needs are supplied for a year, and at the end of that time money will again be comparatively cheap. Within two years it is probable that the city will be able to float three and one-half per cent. stock at par.

THE leasing of the Hotel Normandie for business purposes calls attention once more to the inevitable fate which is awaiting the old Broadway hotels. One after another they are getting into trouble and are being torn down or reconstructed. Many of them are continued as hotels after they fail to make money, because of the difficulty and expense of converting them to other uses, but in the course of time they must all either be remodelled for business purposes or else destroyed. They cannot compete with hotels like the Knickerbocker and the Astor, and the expensive locations they occupy prevent them from being continued with a very cheap scale of prices. In appointments and conveniences, both for the guests and the management, they do not compare with many of the hotels which of late years have been erected on the side streets. The conditions of successful hotel management have altered radically in New York since 1900, and have rendered obsolete many buildings which had not lasted even the customary period of twenty-five years. The success of the new tenant in sub-letting the reconstructed Hotel Normandie will be watched with interest. The portion of Broadway in which it is situated has been very backward in its development. During the radical real estate changes of the past seven years it has been but very slightly altered. Of course rents have increased, and its shops transact a larger volume of business, but not one new building of importance has been erected between Forty-second street on the north and Thirty-fifth street on the south. This is all the more extraordinary because of the enormous amount of new building which has taken place in the vicinity of Long Acre and Greeley Squares, and because a number of blocks in this intermediate section are improved with nothing more expensive than taxpayers. We understand that the failure of these streets to share in the building improvements that have been consummated to the north and to the south is partly due to the opposition of certain important local property-owners, but it has also been partly due to the comparative unavailability of these blocks. They are not as desirable for general business purposes as is the vicinity of Thirty-fourth street. Neither are they as desirable for restaurant and amusement purposes as is the immediate neighborhood of Forty-second street. The ground floors of the buildings on this part of Broadway rent easily at large prices, but the upper stories are not in great demand. If, however, there is any man in New York who is capable of renting the upper floors of such buildings, it is the new tenant of the Hotel Normandie, and for the betterment of the district, it is to be hoped that he will be very successful.

THE condition of the Interborough-Metropolitan Co. is certainly extraordinary. Here is a corporation which controls absolutely the means of communication used by almost 3,000,000 people, and whose control is not, for the most part, limited in time. Its franchises, with the exception of the subway, are perpetual. Not so long ago, before the merger, subway stock was selling at about 240, Manhattan Elevated stock at 150, and the various stocks of the Metropolitan system at prices which, if not so high, were still representative of the enormous equity behind them. Now, after the merger has been effected, and the threat of disastrous competition removed, stock in the Manhattan system, guaranteed at seven per cent. and earning much more, is selling at 117, Subway stock on a basis which shows a loss of 100 points, and the Metropolitan stocks at figures which would indicate an assured suspension of dividends. During the meantime there has been a severe general decline in prices, but nothing has happened to affect the value of these stocks particularly, except the appointment of the Public Service Commission. The earnings of the company have been increasing largely, and if the guarantee of seven per cent. dividends on the old Metropolitan stock is worth anything, it is worth at least as much as it was two years ago. Under such circumstances, one cannot help being curious as to what is really the matter. Was the old Metropolitan system organized on a rotten basis, which, when it is exposed to the light, may lead to criminal suits in the courts? If so, it was certainly curious that Mr. Belmont sacrificed the interest of the fine property owned by the Interborough Co. by merging with a company which could not meet its obligations. It certainly looks as if either Mr. Belmont was deceived, or else that he showed very bad judgment. It is far cheaper to fight a bankrupt concern than to consolidate with it, and the only explanation of the existing prices of Metropolitan stocks is that the company is in a way bankrupt. Whatever may be the fate of the stockholders of the several companies, the existing situation is certainly most unfortunate from the point of view of the general public interest. A corporation which is so seriously embarrassed in its finances cannot be an efficient public servant, and until it recovers its equilibrium, improvements in service are hardly to be expected.

Regulations for Reinforced Concrete.

UPON the invitation of Rudolph P. Miller, C. E., chairman of the committee on concrete construction of the Building Code Revision Commission, the Concrete Association of America has submitted a series of 21 articles, embodying regulations proposed for the government of reinforced concrete construction in New York City. In a way this proposed code is an answer to certain of the recommendations made by the Architectural Engineers two weeks ago, and it represents the united opinion of all the firms, engineering and constructional, making a specialty of concrete construction. The principal parts follow:

Article No. 1. Reinforced concrete construction shall be understood to mean an approved concrete mixture reinforced by steel of any shape, the two materials to be so combined that the concrete will take up the compression stresses and the steel the tension stresses and assist the concrete in shear and compression.

(2) Reinforced concrete construction when designed in accordance with this code shall be approved for fireproof construction.

(3) Before permission to erect any reinforced concrete structure shall be granted, complete drawings and specifications must be filed by the architect or engineer representing the owner with the Superintendent of Buildings, showing all construction details including dimensions of concrete and the sizes and position of all reinforcing members.

(4) The concrete shall be mixed in the proportions of not less than one part of cement by volume to seven parts of aggregates by volume, consisting of sand and broken stone or gravel. The proportions shall be such that the resistance of the concrete to crushing shall not be less than 2,000 lbs. per sq. in. after hardening for 28 days. Tests to determine this value shall be made from time to time by a competent engineer under the direction of the Bureau of Buildings. The concrete used in reinforced concrete construction shall be what is usually known as a "wet" mixture.

(5) All cement used in reinforced concrete construction shall be a Portland Cement conforming to the standard specifications of the American Society for Testing Materials and shall be tested by an independent chemist not in the employ of the cement manufacturer. Records of these tests shall be kept on file in the contractor's office.

(6) All sand used in reinforced concrete construction shall be clean and sharp, free from loam, dirt or other injurious material, and shall not be finer than the standard sample in the office of the Bureau of Buildings.

(7) All stone used in reinforced concrete construction shall be clean, broken trap rock, or gravel, and shall not be of a size larger than can be easily worked or tamped around the reinforcing members. In case it should be desired to use any other material or kind of stone than specified above, samples of same shall first be submitted to and have the approval of the Superintendent of Buildings.

(8) Steel for reinforced concrete construction shall have an elastic limit of at least 30,000 lbs. per sq. in., and an ultimate strength of at least 60,000 lbs. per sq. in., and shall be of uniform quality. Samples cut from any bar shall be capable of bending cold 180 degrees around a bar of equal diameter without signs of fracture. Twisted, corrugated, diamond or other mechanical bond bars may be used. Such bars may be stressed in tension to 16,000 lbs. per sq. in., or to 1-3 of their elastic limit, in shear to 10,000 lbs. per sq. in., and in compression to twelve times the compression stress in concrete.

(9) All steel reinforcement shall be completely incased in the concrete and in beams, girders, columns and walls; the steel shall not be nearer the surface than 1½ ins. In floor and roof slabs the steel shall not be nearer the surface than ¾ of an in. for bars having a diameter of ½ in. or less. Where larger bars are used in floor or roof slabs the steel shall not be nearer the surface than 1 in. Where the number of bars used in a beam or girder cannot be placed in one plane, they shall be placed in two or more planes. In reinforced concrete footings the steel shall not be nearer the surface than 3 ins. * * *

(17) Reinforced concrete may be used for columns and their strength determined as follows:

COLUMNS WITH VERTICAL REINFORCEMENT.

The concrete within the steel ties or hoops may be stressed in compression to 500 lbs. per sq. in. No allowance shall be made for the concrete outside of the hoops or ties and serving the purpose of fireproofing. Vertical steel bars may be placed in the concrete, and if substantially tied together by steel bars at intervals of not more than the least side or diameter of the column, may be stressed in compression to 12 times the compressive stress in the concrete. These rods shall be joined immediately above the floor line or at points of lateral support. They shall have full perfect bearings and be connected by tight fitting sleeves, or the ends may be threaded and connected by standard sleeve nuts. In concrete columns with vertical reinforcement the total cross-section of vertical steel shall not be less than ½ of 1 per cent. of the cross-section of the concrete within the hoops or ties, but in no case shall this amount be less than 1 sq. in. * * *

(18) Spandrel walls supported entirely on reinforced concrete wall girders and extending from the floor line to the window sill shall have a minimum thickness of 8 ins. and shall be reinforced with not less than ½ lb. of steel per sq. ft. of wall. Inclosure walls of skeleton buildings built in between columns and supported entirely on reinforced concrete girders shall have a minimum thickness of 8 ins. for 40 ft. of the uppermost height thereof, or the nearest tier of beams to that measurement. For each additional 30 ft. of height or to the nearest tier of beams to that measurement the thickness of the wall shall be increased 1 in. Basement walls shall be at least 2 ins. thicker than the walls immediately above. All such inclosure walls shall be reinforced with not less than ¾ of a lb. of steel per sq. ft. of wall. All window or door openings shall be reinforced with steel on the sides and at the top and bottom in addition to the steel specified above. Where walls are required to meet special conditions the thickness and the amount of reinforcement shall be determined by such conditions. Parapet walls shall have a minimum thickness of 6 ins. and shall be reinforced with not less than ½ lb. of steel per sq. ft. of wall. Inclosure walls for 1-story storage or factory buildings shall have a minimum thickness of 4 ins. and shall be reinforced with not less than ½ lb. of steel per sq. ft. of wall

(19) Partitions required by the Code to be fireproof may be constructed of reinforced concrete and shall have a minimum thickness of 3 ins., and shall be reinforced with not less than ¼-in. rods on 12-in. centres, running both vertically and horizontally.

(20) Reinforced concrete construction may be continued during freezing weather provided all frost is eliminated from the sand and broken stone by artificial heat, and provided also that the work is protected from the weather by canvas or similar means and artificial heat supplied to prevent the concrete from freezing prior to taking its final set.

(21) The contractor must be prepared to make load tests on any portion of reinforced concrete construction within reasonable time after erection. The tests must show that the construction will sustain a load of twice the live load for which the section was designed without any sign of failure.

Tall Buildings in Paris.

A movement in Paris aims to prevent the growing practice of adding new stories to buildings in the principal thoroughfares of the city, thus spoiling the perspective. This movement, which had its origin in the artistic circles, has been growing of late, and is now assuming large proportions and preparing to exert a decided influence on future building operations.

One of the chief causes of the renewed activity in this direction is the circumstance that the owners of the offending structures are, in almost every instance, foreigners. This circumstance alone was quite sufficient to fire the protesting enthusiasm of the Nationalist press, which is foremost in the crusade to limit the weight of the buildings. In the Rue de Rivoli, where the height of buildings was formerly uniform, two or three now tower above the others. In the Avenue de l'Opera a hotel halfway down has been superbuilt. In the Rue de Tilsit overtall edifices detract from the artistic effect of the mansions on the Place de l'Arc de Triomphe.

There is much speculation as to the height of the building which the Equitable Life Assurance Society is arranging to build on the site in the Place de l'Opera and the Rue de la Paris. This site was purchased with the avowed intention of erecting thereon a genuine American skyscraper. The work of demolishing the old structure is proceeding rapidly and the question of the height of the building to be erected in its place must soon be settled.

—Don't waste any time going after building contracts that you can't get. If you do not anticipate a fair deal when the bids are opened, look for other business.

THE REALM OF BUILDING.

Fuller Company's Huge Contract.

WILL FINISH IT IN EIGHTEEN MONTHS IF THE STEEL COMES RIGHT—HOW ANCIENT ROME STRIKES AN AMERICAN BUILDER.

The George A. Fuller Company has what may be called colonies or settlements in many sections of the city, rendered necessary by the stupendous undertakings of the company in its construction operations. Some of its contracts are little short of titanic. The company has offices in the Seligman Building, at Stone and William sts; in the Trinity Addition, at Broadway and Thames st; at the new Consolidated Exchange Building, at Broad and Beaver sts; at the new Plaza Hotel, Fifth av and 59th st; at the Trust Company of America's Building, 37 Wall st; at the Hudson Terminal Building, Dey and Church sts, and at what may be styled a "permanent camp" at the new Pennsylvania terminal site, Seventh av and 31st st, on which will shortly arise that Brobdignagian twelve-million dollar building, precedents for the magnitude of such a structure existing only in the ancient so-called Seven Wonders of the World, or in the domain of mythology.

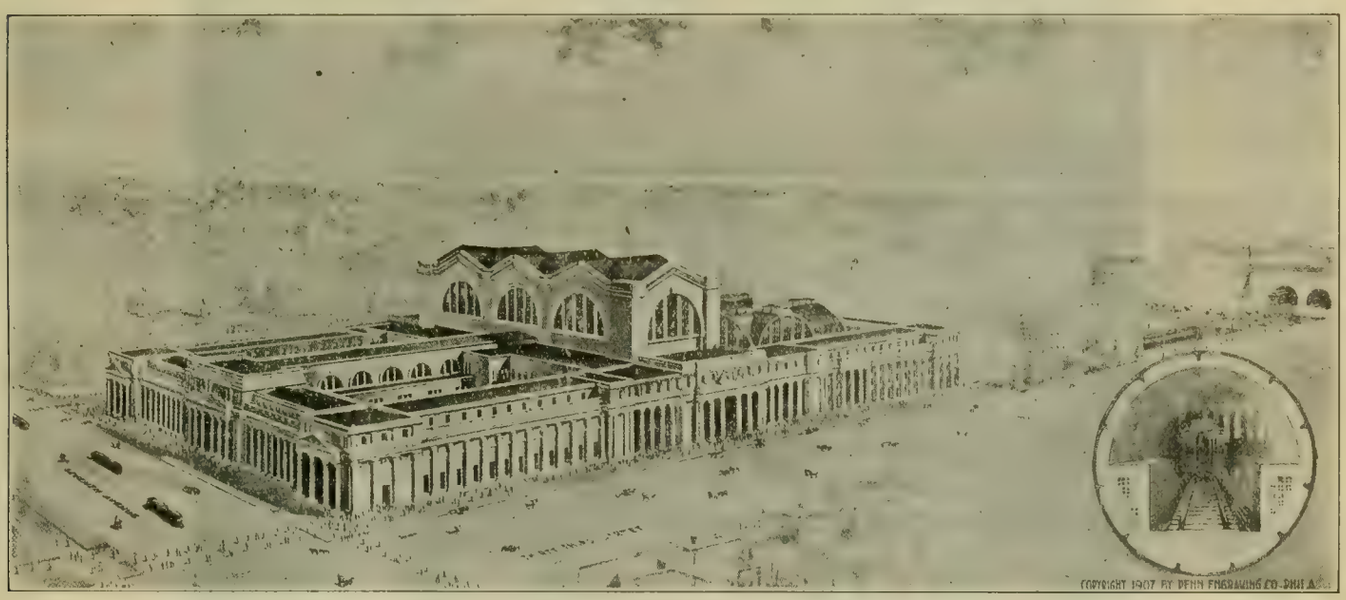
President Paul Starrett, though a young man, impresses one as possessing great executive ability, combined with forceful character and quickness of decision. He is a modest, conservative man, of few words; but what he says is direct to the point. These characteristics stood out in bold relief in the course of a conversation with the writer.

Mr. Starrett, who has just returned from a flying trip to Europe, spoke of his visit to Rome, Naples, and the ruins of Pompeii and Herculaneum. Looking at what remains of ancient Rome with the eye of a builder and constructor, he spoke of the wonderfully substantial work of the ancient Roman builders, that so much of it should practically remain intact to the present day. He expressed his disappointment with the city generally, because so much of the new Rome was so thoroughly modern. There was an incongruity about this that struck a discordant note.

"We are busy," said Mr. Starrett, "and that is scarcely surprising when it is remembered that we have branch offices in Chicago, Boston, Pittsburg, Baltimore, Washington, San Francisco, Chattanooga and Kansas City, and that we have constructed more than two hundred fireproof buildings in the principal cities of the United States. Then, as you may know, we are fulfilling some large construction contracts."

Mr. Starrett spoke lightly of five or ten million dollar contracts as some men might talk of thousands. Said he:

"The Plaza Hotel is ready for opening October 1st as far as we are concerned. The furniture and cooking apparatus is already there, and I am told that if necessary the Plaza could throw open its doors on the 10th of September, if necessary.



"We expect to be under full headway with the Pennsylvania Railroad Station during October. Our progress will entirely depend upon how we get our supply of steel. The Pennsylvania Company itself furnishes this material. It may be slow work in consequence of the number of orders in the shops. This steel was to be furnished by Milliken Bros., at Staten Island. When this firm got into difficulties what steel they had not got out went to the American Bridge Company. This Pennsylvania depot is our largest contract. If we could get the steel as we want it we could finish the whole job in eighteen months' time."

Mr. Starrett then went on to speak of other contracts, of which four within a little over a year averaged over five millions each.

"I have said we are busy," he continued, "but we could do more if times permitted. A number of propositions have been submitted to us, but we have rejected them largely on account of the money situation. I do not look for much activity in construction at present. Investors will not put money in buildings for a four or five per cent. return, when they can get higher rates in stocks and bonds; but the financial situation will right itself. One disturbing element, however, is eliminated from the building and construction situation, and that is the strike question. There is nothing of that kind now in sight, and amicable relations exist among all parties concerned."

Building Laws in London.

The building laws of London are stricter in some respects than those of any American city, and their enforcement is rigid. Those which pertain to fireproof buildings contain much that is of value to American builders. The question of restriction of height of buildings is one that cannot be adopted in such American cities as New York and Chicago. London restricts the office buildings to 80 ft. from the ground level to the highest part of the roof; but New York builders have not found greater height than this a danger from a fire. On the contrary, some of the higher fireproof buildings are of actual service in checking the spread of a conflagration. If properly built they act as huge fire walls to stop the spread of a fire.

A NEW PICTURE OF THE PENNSYLVANIA TERMINAL.

Restrictions in regard to the materials for walls and partitions are sufficiently rigid to insure good work, and yet pliable enough to suit the needs of all honest builders. The materials specified for the walls and partitions are brick, terra cotta and cement concrete composed of broken stone, furnace slag, clinker or burnt ballast.

Inside partitions must be composed of incombustible materials. The only exception to this rule is the use of non-resinous wood for office inclosures. All windows and doors in the walls are required to be of metal sash or frames, and all windows above the ground floor must be glazed with glass at least one-quarter of an inch thick. The superficial feet of each section of glass must not be more than two unless made of wired glass or electro copper glazing. The use of fireproof shutters and fireproof doors is demanded for all openings overlooking other buildings or within twenty feet of the roof of an adjacent structure. A wide latitude is left for the interpretation of the words fireproof shutters and fireproof doors, but almost any metal will suffice.

All staircases, shafts, openings for hoists and elevators must contain no wood trimmings of any kind, and all stair landings must be constructed of incombustible materials.

The Automobile Garage as an Adjunct to the New York City House.

THE new residence of Mr. Ernest Flagg, which was designed by himself, is situated in a neighborhood where modest city houses predominate. It occupies a frontage of 32 feet, which is, of course, exceptional for the ordinary New York City house. But it is not to the unusually ample front that we would call attention, but rather to an adjunct which is not visible and which is entered through the large door on the right shown in the accompanying illustration of the lower part of the house—the automobile garage.

This is a fireproof chamber located below the level of the basement at the rear of the lot, and is reached by means of an electric lift at the back of the entrance passage. This incorporation of the automobile garage with the city house is a novelty in New York City, and one which we believe will recommend itself to many owners who have similar opportunities for housing their automobiles on their own premises.

The stringency of the Building Code and the restrictions of the Board of Fire Underwriters seemed to make impossible a satisfactory solution of this problem, but now that Mr. Flagg has arrived at a satisfactory result one can shortly expect to see a modified type of dwelling house, for of course the garage implies a particular kind of entrance which must be large enough to admit the largest vehicles, and therefore radically affects the planning and composition of the building.

Mr. Flagg's house is a close adaptation of the Parisian domicile to New York conditions. The entrance is not the only feature that betrays its Parisian origin, for on entering one passes immediately on the left of the passage to a large and ample staircase hall which is so characteristic of the French city houses.

The ordinary city lot being but 25x100 feet, and often narrower, does not, of course, offer the same opportunities for commodious planning in the basement as does Mr. Flagg's lot. We believe, however, that it is possible to adapt his solution to such houses. It must be remembered that there still exists in the city a great number of those old brownstone highstoop three- and four-story houses of the late '70's and early '80's, many of which are being remodeled to provide more modern accommodation, larger windows, more ample areas for ventilation, and other modern conveniences. There are many owners of such houses who, while they recognize their inability any longer to live in the old house, hesitate at the expense of replacing the old house by an entirely new one. To onwenrs of such houses who have a nominal sum to invest in remodeling there should be considerable attraction in this new departure of Mr. Flagg's, as no doubt many of them already possess, or have notions of acquiring an automobile in the near future. At any rate, we offer the suggestion for what it is worth, and believe that we are about to enter on a new era in the planning of the New York City house of modest pretensions, in which the automobile is bound to exert an increasingly powerful influence.

The Invention of Steel Skeleton Construction.

Several technical journals have printed the following misinterpretation of some remarks by Architect F. W. Fitzpatrick, of Washington, in regard to the invention of the steel skeleton construction for buildings:

"Architect Buffington, of Minneapolis, seems to have the best foundation for his contention, as he is the only possessor of a United States patent on that construction, and has actually filed suits against owners of some tall buildings for having infringed his idea. Latest developments, however, bring out that his claims are combatted by Architect Fitzpatrick, of Washington, D. C., who asserts that the Buffington patent is invalid because it was not that gentleman's own conception, he having 'absorbed' it from Fitzpatrick, who was then, in 1883, his chief assistant and who had elaborated the scheme of tall construction with an engineer named Strom."

Mr. Fitzpatrick never made such a claim for himself, and never gave any one cause to say it. Both he and Strom worked for Mr. Buffington, and "Fitz," at his time, would not have recognized a skeleton of steel if it had nodded to him. He has even forgotten the drawings he made at that time. Strom worked on a drawing which bears the date of 1889; he never heard of steel construction until Mr. Buffington showed his patent, which was issued in 1888.

Using an Elevator as a Scaffold.

UNDER Section 18 of the Labor Law (chap. 415, laws of 1897) a person employing another in erecting or repairing a building must not furnish scaffolding, ladders, hoists or stays that are unsafe. In the course of adding an additional story to the building, No. 312 West 29th Street, it became necessary to cut a hole through the brick wall between two buildings. No. 310 was used as a furniture warehouse, and in it was a freight elevator running to the top of the building, and which was commonly used for carrying furniture up and down, and was apparently used at will for this purpose by the employees in both buildings. It ran to the top of the higher building, and on each floor below the fourth there were entrances to it from both buildings.

When the men were ready to go to work the elevator was run up to the top floor, and the workmen went upon it and began to cut the hole in the wall. They continued to so work safely during all of a Friday and for some hours on Saturday. During this time, apparently in violation of an agreement, the elevator was occasionally used by employees of the building for carrying furniture from floor to floor. Whenever it was so desired to use the elevator the employee using it would first give warning to the workmen, by calling out, and the workmen would suspend their work while the elevator was being used, sometimes remaining on it and sometimes stepping off. No injury occurred to either of the workmen on any occasion when the elevator was so used.

On Saturday morning, while the men were working in the elevator, it suddenly started upwards, the car hit the wheel or the beam supporting the wheel upon which the rope ran which elevated and lowered the car; that rope broke and the car fell to the bottom of the building, inflicting upon one of the workmen injuries from which he afterwards died.

The evidence in the suit of the widow against the contractor suggested no explanation whatever as to the cause of the accident. No defect in the elevator or any of its appliances was shown, and, indeed, it was expressly conceded on the trial by plaintiff that the elevator, considered with reference to its use as an elevator, was in sound condition. Nor did it appear who, if any one, was instrumental in setting it in motion, except that it was testified that neither of defendant's workmen started it. Upon this state of facts the court dismissed the complaint.

The Appellate Division, however, has reversed this judgment and ordered a new trial, holding that while the elevator may have been safe as an elevator, it was unsuitable as a scaffold by reason of its mobility, and that it was a question for a jury whether the contractor fulfilled his duty under Section 18 of the Labor Law.

Upon the evidence there was a question as to whether or not the defendant fulfilled his duty by safeguards which would prevent the elevator being set in motion.

The Danger of Using Rusty Iron in Reinforced Concrete.

Many writers on reinforced concrete assert that there is no danger in using iron with a slight coating of rust; others emphasize the fact and cite experimental data to prove that a coating of rust is a distinct advantage, inasmuch as the chemical action between the concrete and rusty iron forms a coating of silicate of iron which not only protects it from rust, but also removes any little rust that may be on the iron when placed in the concrete. The presumable advantage is the greater adhesion of the two materials in consequence of the roughened surface of the reinforcement.

A vital point, which will in time make itself painfully apparent, is here entirely lost sight of. Suppose rusty bars (and they usually are rusty) are used in the construction of a beam and are properly seated in the stirrups at, say, twenty points along its length, each stirrup being from 1 in. to 2 ins. in width, how is it possible for the above-mentioned chemical action to take place?

Obviously, if the bars are properly seated in the stirrups, as they should be to be effective, the cement cannot reach the bar, and, consequently, no protecting coating of silicate of iron can be formed at these points, as is proved by the following experiment:

In May, 1906, being engaged in the construction of a large reinforced concrete factory, and designing others, a certain engineer had reason to doubt the advisability of using iron even partially rusted. He therefore had inserted in a block of concrete a bar of iron covered with a slight coating of rust, firmly seated in a stirrup which was entirely free from rust, and its mill face undamaged and unscratched. Recently he had the block broken up, and found at the point of contact between bar and stirrup that not only had the bar continued to rust, but the stirrup had commenced to rust also. It is obvious that in a few years the stirrup at least will be eaten through, with only one result.

American Bank Note Company's New Building.

(With illustration.)

The handsome granite building being erected by the American Bank Note Company, at the corners of Broad, Beaver and Marketfield sts, New York City, will be completed Dec. 1. It will be occupied exclusively by the executive officers and departments, and will represent the general administrative headquarters of the company in the United States. The structure measures 66x44 ft., and is of fireproof steel construction throughout. It is 5-stys high with an exterior of Hardwick White granite. Above the street level the floors are unobstructed by columns, and every advantage has been taken of the building's location to provide ample light and air. The style of interior decoration will be impressive: tapestry, mahogany and marble will be used in the ornamentation of the several floors and private offices. There will be two elevators in the building, and a kitchen and spacious dining-room on the top floor will be a feature of the equipment. Although the building is only five stories high, all the supporting piers are of concrete carried down by pneumatic caisson process through quicksand and some clay to a solid stratum of hardpan from 30 to 37 ft. below the curb. Kirby, Petit & Green are the architects; Mr. Charles H. Nichols, consulting engineer; the Woodbury Granite Co., granite, and the Hedden Construction Co., general contractor.

The Whale Creek Iron Works.

The attention of architects and general contractors has been attracted to the strides made in the ornamental iron business by the Whale Creek Iron Works. Up until the year 1905 this concern was not considered seriously by the larger ornamental works, from a competitive point of view, owing to the fact that their ability and capacity for turning out this class of work was unknown at that time to the general trade, but they have progressed so rapidly during the years following this period that they reached a stage when it behooves their competitors to "sit up and notice."

The executive ability of their officers and office force has been given a very thorough test during these latter years by the amount of work which has been handled by them. During the past six months, while the work for the forty-one story Singer Building (the highest office building in the world) has been passing through their shops, they have also been handling the Bourne Building; Smith & Gray Building; Barnard College; Jenkins Trust Company, Brooklyn; Oppenheim Collins Building; building for Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn; Messiah Home, Fordham, N. Y.; office building, No. 56 Maiden lane; the Hibbs office building, the Moore residence, the Gayety Theatre, American Bank Building, all of Washington, D. C.; the Artillery and Cavalry Barracks at West Point; the Lackawanna Terminal station at Hoboken; the Mexico City Bank; and a number of smaller contracts, such as the St. James School, the Pliny Fisk residence at Rye, N. Y., vestibule doors, marquise, railings, etc., etc.

To handle all these contracts in one plant at one time requires not only a good executive office force, but well equipped shops, and in these the Whale Creek Iron Works are not lacking. This is shown by the fact that their foundry covers 15,000 square feet; the fitting shop, 10,000 square feet; the grille shop, 10,000 square feet; plating shop, 1,600 square feet; pattern shop, 4,500 square feet; the modeling shop, 3,000 square feet; office, 1,500 square feet, besides a considerable amount of storage and yard space, always necessary in a plant of this kind.

The various departments of the Whale Creek Iron Works give employment to about four hundred men, a great many of whom are experts in their trades, which assures the building owner, architect or contractor of satisfactory workmanship.

Dull Market Affecting Builders.

A member of a firm of prominent builders in Brooklyn, who have usually confined their undertakings to the Bedford and Stuyvesant sections, said, during the week, that they had concluded not to commence any new operations until they could dispose of their present holdings, which amount to approximately $500,000. A poor market and tight money are the causes assigned for this unsatisfactory condition. In commenting on the situation, he stated that unless there is a general quickening in the purchasing movement by early fall many plans for building will be indefinitely postponed.

Points on the Material Market.

Granite dealers notice less than the usual amount of small work this season.

Unable to obtain loans, a number of builders are covering up their work and quitting.

The expected sale of City Bonds to J. P. Morgan & Co. brightens the hopes of contractors.

The brick trade has struck a soft spot, and the prices for Hudson Rivers are easier.

The end of August is usually a soft spot in the mason material trade, and dealers are still looking for that unusually busy Fall season.

There has been a better demand for dry colors during the past week, and dealers think that the Fall buying movement is close at hand.

Said a leading brick builder in old Brooklyn this week: "I have half a million dollars' worth of houses on the hill I can't sell, so I have just told the boys we'd quit for the rest of the year."

Supplies of Hudson River brick are coming in rapidly, and prices in the wholesale market are moderating, though manufacturers believe that the recession is only temporary. For the present they find it difficult to command $7 per M for the top grade.

New Catalogues.

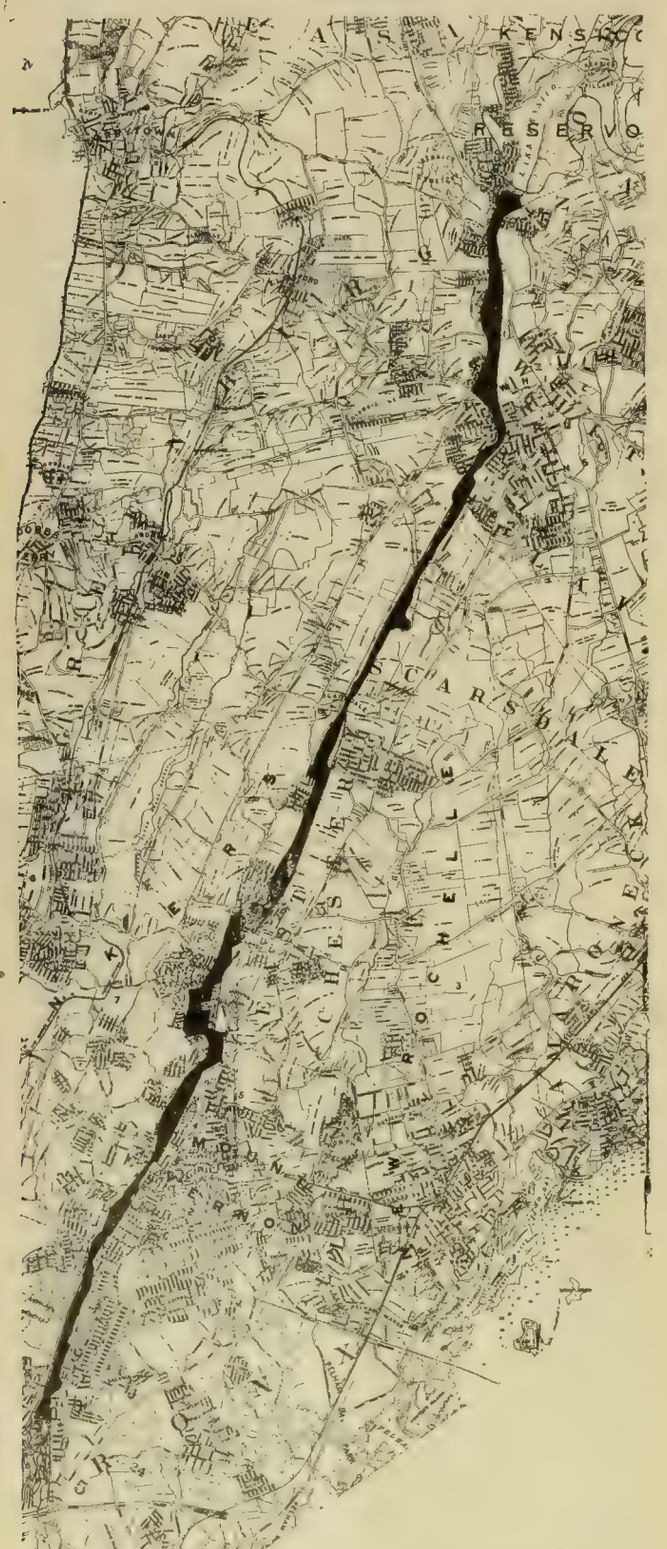
KAHN SYSTEM STANDARDS.—A handbook of practical calculation and application of reinforced concrete. (120 pp.) Compiled and published by Engineering Department, Trussed Concrete Steel Company, Detroit.

The rapid growth of reinforced concrete construction makes necessary a hand book on design, similar to those in use for the ordinary classes of building material. The only data which has been available to the engineer or architect has been the scientific text book, in which the information presented is so involved as to be of little practical value to the busy designer. Otherwise he has had to resort to a series of empirical formulae, or tables, which may only be justified by a few isolated tests. The object of this hand book is to present to the designer tables and information in such form as to be immediately available for use in actual designs, and at the same time to have these tables founded on scientific formulae approved by our very best engineering practice. The data as presented is the result of a large amount of painstaking labor, and of most extensive experience in reinforced concrete, covering the design and construction of over a thousand structures, including buildings, bridges, tunnels, reservoirs, etc. The work as presented deals mainly with the Kahn trussed bar.

FLEMISH DUTCH EFFECTS.—Published by Robert Rossman, 9 and 11 University pl, New York.

Mr. Rossman has issued this catalogue of tiles, tile panels, brass repousse plaques and furniture in view of the largely increasing tendency toward Flemish decorations. The lines presented are most effective and artistic. Panels are framed and unframed, and these shown are beautiful by any canon of art.

RUTTY STEEL WALL PLUGS.—(16mo, 32 pp.) By J. B. Prescott & Son., Webster, Mass.



The Rutty system of securing interior woodwork in brick, concrete and hollow tile construction is a great advance over old methods. The Rutty plug is made of heavy sheet steel, so formed that an opening is made sufficiently large for a ten-penny or even larger nail. The plug is of such a thickness that it is instantly placed in the mortar joints as the walls go up and when the cement hardens the plug is absolutely immovable. The flexibility and form of the plug, however, readily admits of a nail being driven into it without in any way disturbing the construction. It makes no difference, therefore, whether the interior finish is put in immediately or even a year afterwards, for the nailing base is always ready. The plug is thoroughly japanned, which effectually prevents corrosion, and therefore rendering it indestructible. This system is now coming into very general use among concrete contractors, the majority of whom declare this method to be practically indispensable in certain forms of construction.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD.

The Bronx River Parkway.

WITH the signing of the Bronx River Parkway bill by Governor Hughes on July 16, the future of the picturesque valley lying through the heart of Westchester County became assured. When unrestricted a small waterway naturally degenerates into an open sewer as population spreads through its territory, and from being a place of natural beauty, or suitable for the highest forms of landscape gardening, is debased to a level of lowest utility. Success in making beauty spots of small rivers is excellently exemplified along the Wissahickon in Philadelphia and the Charles in Boston.

The Bronx River below Bronx Park is past reclaiming, and to preserve it between Kensico Lake and the Park immediate steps are necessary. A commission, consisting of Madison Grant, James G. Cannon, W. W. Niles and J. Warren Thayer, was appointed by Governor Higgins, who unanimously decided that the reservation should be created and the Board instructed its engineer to prepare a map or plan following certain boundaries as to extent which were indicated by the commission.

MAP SHOWING POSITION OF THE INTENDED BRONX RIVER PARKWAY.

The area taken being limited by the consideration of the cost which the acquisition of the land to be taken would entail, but always including such amount of land as was necessary to carry out the purpose of the act under which the commission was appointed. This map or plan was not completed until the commission had obtained full information as to the proposed plans of the New York Central Railroad Company, which operates the Harlem Railroad, running along the bank of the river almost its entire length, and which proposes a widening of the roadbed of its railroad, and of the plans of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company, which has recently acquired a large tract of land lying on either side of the Bronx River between Woodlawn and the northerly line of Bronx Park in the city of New York, and of the Bronx Valley Sewer Commission, which is working upon a plan for a great trunk sewer through the valley of the river from White Plains to Woodlawn, and of the President of the Borough of the Bronx, in whose office plans have been prepared for a boulevard to be known as the Bronx Boulevard, running parallel with the river and some few hundred feet eastwardly therefrom, from Bronx Park to Woodlawn, in the city of New York.

The map or plan prepared by the engineer shows all of these proposed improvements so far as they had developed at the time of the preparation of the map. Conferences were held by the Board with representatives of the Sewer Commission, of the New York Central Railroad Company, of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company, and of the President of the Borough of the Bronx, and all of these representatives heartily aproved the general plan of the commission and assured it of the hearty co-operation of their respective principals when the matter should come before them officially.

In determining the cost of taking the lands necessary to constitute the reservation, the Board decided that the fairest basis of valuation would be the present value as assessed for the purposes of taxation, and has based its estimate of cost upon such assessed value, and which amounts to $1,650,000, and includes a reservation varying in width from 300 feet to 1,000 feet, and approximating fifteen miles in length.

For the most part its boundaries are physically and logically defined. The Harlem Railroad, following the level grade of the valley, occupies the west slope, 10 to 20 feet above the stream, and with several crossings forms practically a continuous boundary. The proposed new Bronx Boulevard forms an equally natural boundary along the easterly slope from Bronx Park to Woodlawn; above Woodlawn to Scarsdale, the so-called "New York Pipe Line," or aqueduct right-of-way, again forms almost a continuous boundary on the west. Thence to North White Plains, with the railroad still on one side, the opposite boundary is taken along a natural line at the top of the slope, for the most part through undivided lands. At the lower end of Kensico Lake the reservation will join the new area and reservation being established by the New York Board of Water Supply for the projected storage reservoir, occupying some 4,000 acres. At the same point it also connects directly with the State Road extending from White Plains northerly through the centre of the county.

The bill provides that New York City shall bear 75 per cent. of the whole cost of construction and acquiring the land, and of the remaining 25 per cent. the county of Westchester should bear 85 per cent., and the towns and villages through which it passes the remainder. Mr. Niles said to a representative of the Record and Guide that Mayor McClellan had expressed himself as heartily in favor of the bill, and the debt limit of New York was the only obstacle. The bill is now before the Board of Estimate and Apportionment. It will take them years to acquire the property.

New Jersey Real Estate Campaign Opened.

ROUSING MEETING IN JERSEY CITY BY THE NEW JERSEY-NEW YORK REAL ESTATE EXCHANGE.

JERSEY CITY was invaded by a host of real estate men on Wednesday afternoon, who took possession of the Board of Trade headquarters, corner Washington and York sts, to hold the first of a series of meetings planned by the New Jersey-New York Real Estate Exchange in the interest of New Jersey real estate. Mayor Fagan sent regrets at his inability to be present. Mr. Frank Stevens, president of the New Jersey Board of Real Estate Brokers, called the meeting to order, and read the invitation that had been issued by the New Jersey-New York Real Estate Exchange. It was a call to all wideawake business men to unite in a movement that will "pave the way for an era of general prosperity that may be expected to follow the opening of the Hudson River tunnels, provided the opportunities offered by that event are properly utilized." It ended with the words: "Our motto is—"New Jersey to the Front." Mr. Stevens intrdouced President Otto Kempner, whose address was devoted to a consideration of the advantages that would accrue to New Jersey by a timely exploitation of the improved transit facilities between New Jersey and the metropolitan district. He also explained the objects of the new Exchange and pointed out wherein it can be made a powerful factor in the development of the New Jersey's realty industry, as well as promote its general prosperity.

At the conclusion of Mr. Kempner's address, the chairman called on several prominent real estate operators of Hudson County; Henry V. Condict spoke eloquently of the future of New Jersey. The State had been maligned in the past, but at last it is going to assume its proper place. He thought that the movement started by the New Jersey-New York Real Estate Exchange would result in great benefits.

Mr. Singer urged immediate action on the question of securing a five-cent fare from Jersey City to every point in Manhattan reached by the Hudson & Manhattan Railroad. He offered a resolution for the appointment of a joint committee by the Exchange and the New Jersey Board of Brokers to confer with the railroad on the fare matter. The motion was unanimously approved. Among the other speakers were Mr. McArthur, of the Public Service Corporation of New Jersey and Mr. Samuel S. Scheuer, vice-president of the Newark Real Estate Exchange. The latter announced that a similar meeting would be held in Newark at the Exchange rooms on September 4.

Secretary Creighton spoke of the great progress the Exchange was making in enrolling new members. At the adjournment of the meeting a large number of those present signed membership applications.

High-Class Two-Family Dwellings in Demand.

There have been conflicting opinions respecting the wisdom of building high-class two-family dwellings in the middle Bronx, but if the experience of the American Real Estate Company may be taken as a criterion this perplexing question has been answered in a measure, for not only has that corporation succeeded in disposing of a whole row of twenty buildings on Faile st, considered the best of their class ever built in New York City, but it is daily in receipt of inquiries for more of this type. Guided by the success of its first operation, the company prepared plans, and is now constructing another row of similar dwellings on the west side of Faile st, between Bancroft and Aldus. This undertaking includes 22 buildings, which, inclusive of the ground, will average a cost of about $14,000 each. The policy of the company is to build only the best, and to cater to an exclusive class. In the way of transit, that section of the Bronx has all that could be desired. Property in the immediate neighborhood is in strong hands, and as the present class of buildings are of the higher order, it is not unreasonable to suppose that each succeeding two-family operation will conform more closely to the precedent already established.

Mercantile Success in Popular Locations.

Mr. Webster B. Mabie, of the firm of Mabie & Gillies, real estate and mortgages, 1178 Broadway, corner of 28th st, said, in reviewing the present renting situation, that the demand for renting of high-class retail stores in the shopping center, namely, Broadway, Fifth av and 23d st, is very strong. "We have just arranged for an important lease of a property for five or ten years, and there are others in negotiation which will be consummated in a short time. We have a great many inquiries. The extraordinary success of some merchants in popular locations has had the effect of inducing many others to launch out and to seek permanent locations for their business. Large and increased rents do not deter such enterprises, of course, governed by reason. Such merchants want to get in, and feel they cannot afford to dally along longer. Many regret lost opportunities, and wish to make up for them. This demand, of course, only applies to the great shopping highways, and not to the side streets off Fifth av and Broadway. There is also another feature of the situation, which is this, that people are not trying to rent on a basis of four to four and a half per cent. as they did formerly, as they now appreciate the fact that money is worth six per cent. For example, a piece of property on Fifth av worth, we will say, $350,000, could not be leased on anything like a four per cent. basis. There was a time when such things could be done."

How Loan Brokers Earn Their Money.

Borrowers and investors have a mistaken notion about the ease with which real estate loan agents make their money.

First of all, the successful real estate broker must be a heavy advertiser in order to get applications for loans. He must maintain a centrally located office, and he takes ten applications and inspects ten pieces of property in different parts of the city for every loan he makes. The application clerk must be a man who understands his business, and the appraiser must possess a judgment well-nigh infallible. If he rejects good loans he injures the reputation of the office and cuts down the profits; if he approves applications which should be turned down he discredits the office in the eyes of investors, who will either refuse to buy the loans or will buy them and regret it afterward.

After an application is accepted the abstract is brought in and must be looked over to see if it is merchantable. Then the papers must be prepared by an expert, signed and recorded. The abstract, having been brought down to show the trust deed, usually goes to an attorney for examination.

If the property is improved it is the duty of the loan broker to see that the building stands entirely within the lot lines. Very few owners have surveys showing the location of the improvements in relation to the boundaries of the land. Consequently, the services of a surveyor are required or else the loan man must make accurate measurements. This requires expert knowledge and takes time.

The insurance policies must be examined, and put in proper shape with trustee clauses attached. The insurance must be renewed as fast as the policies expire. Taxes and assessments must be looked up before the money is paid out, and this examination must be repeated every year in order to guard against tax sales which might in time cut out the lien of the trust deed or mortgage. After the loan is closed the broker must stand ready until it is paid off to lend the abstract to purchasers and to look after the assignment of insurance in connection with every transfer, for which he receives no compensation. The broker usually collects without charge the interest during the term of the loan and the principal and interest at maturity.

The broker must have ample funds to tide him over the interval between the completion of the loan and its sale to an investor. Every large office has at all times $100,000 to $300,000 promised for use in thirty, sixty or ninety days. This means that the broker takes the risk of any change in interest rates, and he often gets the worst of it.

No Bargains Coming.

Investors who are waiting for bargains in Manhattan property are likely to be disappointed in the opinion of the Tribune. In spite of unsatisfactory money conditions many speculators who have a long list of property for sale are not on the verge of lightening their realty burdens by parting with some parcels at a loss.

At least those speculators do not appear to be worried, and they express no fear as to their ability to hold their parcels for an almost indefinite time. Surely a person who has been a taxpayer for five or more years is, in view of his experience in realty matters, not going to look for a market for his property now. As the renting power of his property has not been impaired in the slightest degree by the scarcity of money for realty operations, there is no danger that he will be forced to sell. Even the owners who have mortgages soon due have no cause to be alarmed unless the mortgages represent a sum greater than 75% of the value of the property. If the mortgages are 75% or more of the value of the property they may have to pay an unusually high bonus for renewals of the mortgages, but these bonus charges will be added to the sum of the old mortgages and the transactions will practically mean no exchange of money. So the owners of such mortgages will not find themselves forced to sell at "sacrifice" or any other prices.

There will, therefore, be no large number of cases arising from present realty conditions which will offer opportunities to pick up "bargains" in the sense in which that word is usually used in the real estate market.

School of Commerce, Accounts and Finance.

A special course in real estate, designed to meet the needs of real estate brokers and their employees, of men or women who are owners of real estate, and of all persons who are likely, through inheritance or otherwise, to have charge of real property, as trustees, executors or owners, will be opened by the School of Commerce, Accounts and Finance, New York University, at Washington sq, New York City, on September 26. The course will be under the direction of Walter Lindner, solicitor of the Title Guarantee and Trust Company, who will be assisted by specialists in different branches of the business. Among the special lecturers in the school are Charles H. Israels, Lawson Purdy, Charles Griffith Moses, Joseph P. Day, David J. McComb, Richard M. Hurd and G. Richard Davis.

Wood, Harmon & Co.'s New Plans.

WOOD, HARMON & CO. are going to concentrate more attention upon their Brooklyn interests than they have of late years, and the opening of the Brooklyn subway will be their signal for putting forty thousand lots on the market. The importance of the announcement is owing to the importance of this great firm of real estate developers, possessing as they do the confidence of the public in a marked degree. They own large tracts of land in the Flatbush section amounting altogether to four square miles, some of it so desirable that the firm has been criticised for not opening it up.

Mr. William E. Harmon, who is the president of the holding company for eight or ten corporations styled "Wood, Harmon & Co.," as well as the controlling factor in all, in an interview this week, intimated that the new campaign will have his personal direction. Mr. Harmon says that Brooklyn is the most promising field in the United States, and that, notwithstanding the immense tracts yet unimproved, within eight or nine years the whole borough territory will be developed and occupied.

Asked why his company had not placed these lands upon the market before, Mr. Harmon said that there had been an oversupply, and as he represented investors it was incumbent upon him to differentiate between a present investment value and a speculative value of a given plot, the former being based upon a present earning capacity while the latter upon a future earning capacity.

"The psychological moment has now arrived," continued Mr. Harmon. "At the present time we own about four square miles or 40,000 lots, which on the very day the subway trains from the Battery tunnel run to Flatbush av we are going to place on the market. We are going to get, too, something of the actual value of this property, that is, an average of about $2,000 a lot. The subway trains will reach Flatbush av, I believe, on or before May 1 next spring, and at that time the transportation service under and over the East River will have increased from 60 to 70 per cent.

"There is one builder in Brooklyn who has the most elaborate equipment for extensive building operation, and who wants to construct 1,000 houses a year in Brooklyn, but is now out of land. We are in a position to supply him with all the land he needs for such a great enterprise, and I believe we are in agreement as to terms and can successfully co-operate in a high-class development.

"The kind of development promised for our properties—those extending from Gravesend av east to Flatbush av—more than a mile in width, is going to save a very large portion of Flatbush from the apartment blocks and 2-family bricks, by being built up in detached houses of the better type. But I don't want to be placed in the position of saying that we are going to develop that way; only that that is now the trend."

It is stated that John R. Corbin is the builder who proposes to construct 1,000 houses a year. Mr. Corbin has established an extensive manufacturing plants in lower Flatbush that is capable of turning out all kinds of finished building materials.

A list of buyers is one of the most important assets a Real Estate office can have, and is one of the things most neglected. Generally it is entrusted to the memory of fly-by-night brokers. By the use of the card system of conveyances and the Record & Guide Quarterly, the broker can ascertain which property is conveyed and kept free and clear. This forms an excellent list for possible sales or exchanges.

PRIVATE SALES MARKET

Jere Johnson, Jr., Company will sell at auction next Monday, Labor Day, rain or shine, at 1 p. m., on the premises, 214 extra large lots, averaging about 25x125 ft. each, and constituting the premises formerly known as the De Kay Estate property, located on Castleton, Bard and Davis avs, Mada, Prospect and Forest avs and De Kay st, Livingston, Staten Island. This property is said to be the most desirable tract of any size ever offered at auction on Staten Island. Water mains in Bard and Castleton avs and in part of Davis av. Sewers in Bard and Davis avs north of De Kay st and in the greater part of Castleton av. Careful restrictions. Expensive stone sidewalks. Beautiful and massive trees. Castleton, Bard, Davis and Forest avs macadamized. The other streets well made. In subdividing this property the map of the City of New York, shortly to be adopted, has been followed as closely as possible—a fact of vital importance to all intending purchasers of Staten Island real estate. Lots may be paid for in 24 monthly instalments or a discount of 5 per cent. (5%) will be allowed for all cash. Titles are insured without expense to purchasers by the Title Guarantee and Trust Co. To reach the lots: Take at St. George any car marked "Castleton Avenue, Brighton Heights," and get off at the Bard av corner of the property. The property is only two miles from the ferry, and is on a commanding elevation.

Barring an important transaction in the Times Square section, no outward evidence of improvement has manifested itself in so far as the private sales market is concerned. On the contrary, the situation in this respect as applied to Manhattan and the Bronx is less encouraging than during the preceding weeks of the current month. Prices continue firm and in many instances are admittedly too high, and although there is no lack of buyers in the field the stiff attitude of the seller in failing to grant concessions precludes the closing of many otherwise successful negotiations. This condition is rendered more acute by the unfavorable situation with respect to the procurement of mortgage loans. Notwithstanding repeated assurances of an easing up in this direction, the fact remains that local money is still hard to obtain. However, financial assistance from outside quarters, while as yet insufficient to meet the numerous demands, is rapidly relieving the situation. This was particularly noticeable during the week by the filing of a five-year mortgage of $425,000 at six per cent. by an up-State savings bank on the property of the New York Law School at 172-174 Fulton st. The purchase of a part of the Shanley holdings on Broadway and 46th st, aside from its magnitude, furnishes another illustration of the profits which invariably result from timely investments in the Long Acre section. From the Long Island districts, while the usual signs and symbols of a quickening in that zone are still held out as bait to the small lot investor, few are purchasing, and if the score or more of recently vacated real estate offices in the neighborhood of Jamaica may be taken as a guide, the boom in that quarter is no more. The total number of private sales reported is 44, of which 9 were below 59th st, 15 above, and 20 in the Bronx.

A Notable Purchase in Times Square.

BROADWAY.—As a result of the efforts of McVickar-Gaillard Realty Co. a deal involving the purchase of 1555 Broadway and 203 to 217 West 46th st was brought to a successful conclusion on Thursday. The Broadway lot measures 23.10x89, and the eight buildings at the rear take in a frontage equalling 139 ft. The sellers are the Shanley Brothers, and although the identity of the purchaser could not be learned, it is understood that the plot is likely to be improved with a new theatre. The area of the entire plot is about 16,000 sq. ft., sufficient in size to accommodate a playhouse of no mean proportions. Besides the property figuring in the present deal, the sellers still possess a frontage on Broadway of about 75 ft. It will be remembered that their most recent purchase, which was made at auction a few months ago, included a blacksmith shop on a triangular plot of 825 sq. ft. at 1563 Broadway, for which they paid $96,200. The price in the deal just closed is said to have approached $600,000.

M. & L. The improvements consist of an 8-sty and basement strictly fireproof building, covering a plot 77.8½x120, which Mr. Corn will rebuild at an expenditure of about $150,000, making the structure one that will be modern in every respect for commercial purposes. The altered building will contain stores, lofts and offices, for which already there are applications from tenants requiring as much as one and two entire floors.

M. & L. Hess leased for Phillip Braender to the Holtz & Freystedt Company, of which Mr. W. L. Taupier is president, the store, basement and first loft in the 11-sty and basement building, 50x92, now in the course of construction at 7-9 East 20th st, adjoining the corner of Broadway. The lease is for a term of 21 years at an aggregate rental of $350,000. The building will hereafter be known as the "Taupier Building" taking its name from the President of the company. Extensive alterations are planned including an ice-plant and interior decorations, which will involve an expenditure of $75,000. The lessees are now located at the corner of Franklin st and Broadway and also at the corner of Houston st and Broadway. Their new location will be their third branch. It is the intention of the lessees to follow the trend of the uptown movement, to keep in touch with its patrons.

REAL ESTATE NOTES

A young man desires position in real estate office.

Mr. Jefferson M. Levy has returned from a European trip.

William Richtberg was the broker in the sale of the property 249 West 36th st, reported last week.

If you want to sell your real estate, give a good broker the exclusive agency, and make it worth his while to work.

M. H. Raubitschek, formerly of 136 West 116th st, is now a member of the firm of Spencer-Blake Realty Co., 122 West 34th st.

The Onondaga County Savings Bank has loaned the New York Law School $425,000 at six per cent. for five years on its property at 172 and 174 Fulton st.

New York City's tax exempt mortgages are attracting more and more investments from towns outside where opportunities for safe investment are limited.

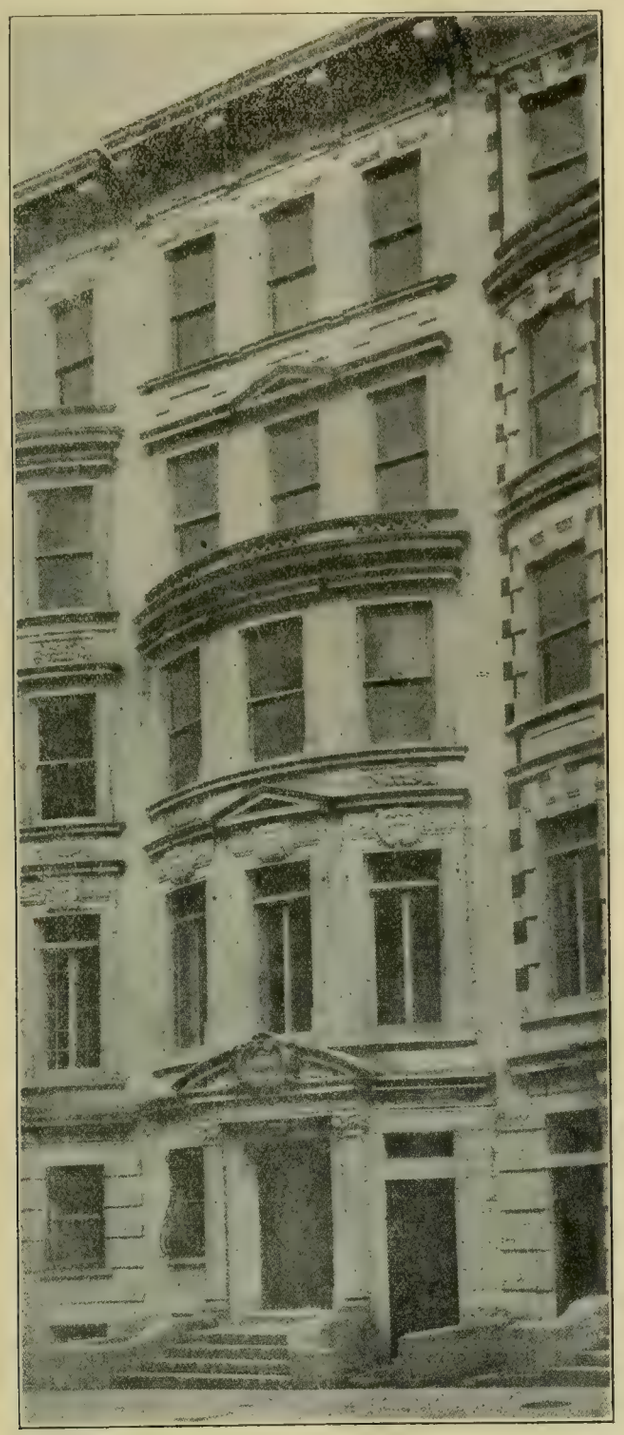
Frederick E. Richards, of the office of Bryan L. Kennelly, 156 Broadway, Manhattan, has returned to the city after an interesting trip through France and Germany.

Wanted, copies of the Record and Guide, of the following dates: Feb. 2, 1907; Mar. 16, 1907; Nov. 3, 1906; and Sept. 17, 1904. We will pay ten cents each for copies delivered in good condition at our office, 11 East 24th Street, Manhattan.

Among this week's conveyances the transfer of the title of the 4-sty brownstone stoop dwelling at 881 5th av from Francis C. Bishop et al, exrs., &c., Heber R. Bishop, to Edward H. Harriman is noted. The consideration mentioned is $600,000.

A deed conveying the property of the New Yorker Staats Zeitung, at the junction of Park row, Tryon row and Centre st, to the City of New York, appears in this week's conveyances. The consideration mentioned is $1,650,000, with interest of $55,687.

The Second National Bank, of the Fifth Avenue Hotel, is the buyer of the Goodrich estate properties stiuated at the northwest corner of 5th av and 28th st, the sale of which was recently reported. The bank will improve the site with a modern office building.



The medium price apartments in the middle Bronx are filling up rapidly. In the Southern Boulevard and Westchester av section there are fewer vacancies now than in the spring. This is particularly noticeable in the apartments of the American Real Estate Co. in the Simpson st district. Out of 237 available apartments in 14 buildings owned by that company 210 are rented and occupied.

President Edgar J. Levey, of the Title Insurance and Trust Company, does not recollect a time, except during a panic, when mortgage conditions were worse than they are to-day. So difficult is it to place a loan, brokers are able to charge almost any amounts as commissions, part of which sometimes probably gets back to the lenders. "In our own business," he says, "we are seldom lending the full amount, now that money is scarce. Our loans are arranged in such manner that we can get our customers among the financial institutions to take them."

PRIVATE DWELLINGS IN MANHATTAN

PRIZED BY THEIR OWNERS ABOVE CURRENT OFFERS—VALUES STEADILY RISING—THE CARLEW HOUSES IN EIGHTY-FIFTH STREET—ERNEST FLAGG'S MANSION.

One of the features of the fall market in Manhattan, judging by the increasing number of inquiries, is likely to be the sale of private dwellings. The demand in this respect is being brought about principally as an effect of the encroachment of business upon the residential sections, which is forcing a large number of residents to seek homes elsewhere. Aside from this, the growing wealth of the country is adding materially to the number of those who can afford to possess houses and lands, and with many the element of investment appeals to a marked degree. In buying a private dwelling for occupancy the inclinations of the purchaser should be regulated by the sum he can afford to invest, as well as the amount he can conveniently set aside from his income to be applied toward the payment of rent.

A purchase of this character cannot be reckoned as an income-producing investment unless the dwelling is subsequently leased to an occupant who pays a rental sufficient to cover interest on mortgage indebtedness, taxes, Croton water, insurance and other charges incidental to the maintenance of the property, besides leaving a net remainder sufficient in amount to represent a reasonable rate of interest upon the total sum of the investment. If the owner continues to occupy the premises he should be guided by a sum equivalent to the rent he would pay were he a tenant instead, which would equal the total of the charges mentioned plus the legal market rate of interest on the actual cash invested, besides allowing for depreciation.

Under the condition illustrated, the ratio of profit or loss on an investment in dwelling property can only be arrived at when a resale of the parcel has been effected. The acquisition of the high-class modern dwelling is now more in the nature of a combined investment, socially and financially, and the success of the movement depends not alone on the choice of location, but upon business conditions as well. As a consequence of the gradual invasion of business, there are practically no restricted dwelling neighborhoods south of 59th st, and in obedience to the desire for exclusiveness and freedom from the sight of trade, many are purchasing in the vicinity of parks.

This condition naturally manifested itself at first by an extraordinary demand for small dwellings, until at the present moment there are few to be had. While there are still a large number of the more pretentious dwellings on the market, the surplus supply is rapidly diminishing. In this connection it can be said that brokers report a large increase in the number of inquiries for property of this description, both for sale and to rent. Among the large operations of the present year is a row of 15 built by Mr. James Carlew, long known as a builder of high-class dwellings. The location of this group is on the north side of 85th st, between Central Park and Columbus av. The buildings have five stories, swell front, and are built of Indiana limestone, varying in width from 20 to 21 ft., and in depth from 60 to 64 ft. Several of the houses, although to all appearance of the American basement type, have additional lower basements. They are very handsomely filled out, as well as thoroughly constructed. It is interesting in making comparisons to think of the changes that have occurred in the style and construction of private dwellings since the period when the high-stoop first became popular on Manhattan Island. These Carlew houses seem to represent the highest attainment of the American basement type, primarily built to sell, just as the new Ernest Flagg house, in 40th st, is the forerunner of another style of private dwelling, built for the owner's occupancy, in which a Parisian porte cochere will be a distinctive feature.

THE PROFESSIONAL ASPECT.

In alluding to the increase in the number of inquiries with respect to dwellings, Mr. F. A. Wyckoff, for the McVickar-Gaillard Realty Company, of 444 Columbus av, said the private house situation west of the Park was peculiar in comparison with other years. The demand far exceeded the supply, and while prices of desirable houses have increased about 20 per cent., owners who are occupants were not selling, and buyers were slow in paying the advance for houses on the market:

"The demoralization of the residential district below 59th st, the high prices of houses east of Central Park, and the improvement of transit facilities, have sent a better class of people to the west side, which has the benefit not only of Central Park, but Riverside Drive and the Hudson.

"There is a brisk demand in both of these sections for dwellings that sell from $40,000 to $50,000, and the tendency is back to the old style high-stoop houses, which offers a front basement room for the use of servants. The upper west end section of the west side is the limit for high-class residences of this character, property further north being unrestricted.

"The depressions in the stock market will have no material effect on buyers of private dwellings, as people must have homes, and an expenditure of several thousand dollars in a house is a better investment than paying rent, and at the same time offers a good speculation as well.

"The West Side offers the most modern houses for less money than any other residential section in New York, and with the few remaining lots we are looking for a steady increase in prices."

Mr. C. W. Mix, Secretary of the Frank L. Fisher Co., 440 Columbus av, in canvassing the dwelling-house situation, made the statement that inquiries for this class of property, both as to sale and rental, are on the increase. In his business he finds that the prices are strong and that the owners are firm on their asking figures and not inclined to lower them:

"Private houses are in excellent demand, particularly modern and up-to-date houses, as they can be immediately sold or rented at advanced prices over one or two years ago. There seems to be a scarcity in private houses this year, more particularly noticeable than at any period for the past three or four years. We find very few what you would term bargains, as the owners generally endeavor to get the best possible price, and unless they can obtain it, they are quite willing to hold them.

"As regards the buyers, there is a very strong demand from this source, and a very healthy condition. The buyers seem to realize the situation very readily, and in nearly every case have to concede to the terms of the owner."

Mr. Mix considers it is an excellent time to buy private houses, as it is reasonably sure that prices will be more firm the coming year.

As for private dwellings to rent, Mr. Nash, of Pease & Elliman's West Side office, assured us that the requirement was far in excess of the supply, and that nearly all new leases are being made at a higher figure. He has just closed a lease at $3,000 a year in a case where the rent previously obtained for the house was $2,300, which is an increase of about 30%. Of course this is above the average, but it shows that the party was unable to get a house to suit him on better terms, as he went to nearly every broker on the West Side.

As usual, the greatest call is for moderate-priced houses; that is, from $1,200 to $2,000 a year, and at the present time there are few houses for rent under $2,000, while the number available above that figure is very limited. According to Mr. Nash's observation, buyers for private houses are not so numerous as last year, although during the past week or so there has been an increasing number of inquiries for houses ranging from twenty-five to thirty thousand dollars. There has been no reduction in prices asked for houses, and most owners feel that in two or three years they will be able to get even more for their property than they are holding them at now.

Bronx Assessments Now Due.

The following proposed assessments have been completed and are lodged in the office of the Board of Assessors for examination by all persons interested: Regulating, grading, setting curbstones, flagging sidewalks, laying crosswalks, building approaches and erecting fences where necessary on Findlay av, between East 165th st and East 167th st; College av, between East 165th st and East 167th st, and East 166th st, between Webster and Morris avs.

How to Draw a Contract.

As a rule, the basis of a real estate sale is the contract entered into between the parties or their agents. It is of the utmost importance that this contract should be prepared with the greatest care, since the same is intended to be an agreement not only setting forth all the particulars relating to the proposed sale and purchase, but also binding both parties to the performance of all the terms, covenants and stipulations contained in the agreement.

Ordinarily the contract is signed by the parties at the very beginning of the transaction, and therefore before the purchaser has had an opportunity to have his lawyer examine the abstract and furnish him with an opinion of title. The purchaser, therefore, must necessarily rely on the representation of the seller as to the state of the title and the seller's ability to convey a good and merchantable title subject to such objections only as may be stated in the contract. If the seller has for any reason omitted to state to the purchaser at the time the contract is entered into any material defect in the title to the property in question, which defect the seller may be subsequently not able to or willing to remove and the purchaser not be willing to accept title subject thereto, then the contract will necessarily have to be abandoned, with perhaps much loss of time and money to either or both of the parties interested.

The uncertainty as to whether or not a careful examination of the title will prove the same to be as anticipated is a serious stumbling block in the way of parties to a contract, and if it could be the order of things to have the title passed upon before the signing of the contract practically all of this uncertainty and consequent disappointment might be avoided. But it is here that in all probability the interests of the agent or broker would bar the way to reform. Unless specially bound by contract, real estate agents or brokers are not concerned about the condition of the title to the property the sale or purchase of which they have negotiated. Their part of the contract is concluded and their commissions earned when the parties have been brought together and have signed the contract, provided, of course, the purchaser is ready, able and willing to carry out the contract.

Under all the circumstances, the purchaser will act wisely if he refrains from signing a contract until he has consulted a legal adviser, if the deal is to be one of large importance to him. No injury is done to either seller or broker if the purchaser withholds his decision until he has consulted a lawyer. On the other hand, it is true that in small cities, where the parties are well known to each other, it is not unusual to have no contract at all. The parties to the sale may never meet until the day when the deed is passed, and the agent is the master of ceremonies. He has had a search made of the title, and the parties rely absolutely upon his counsel. No earnest money is paid, and the agent does not expect his commission until the sale is actually made. However, that is not the way in New York, and it is important for buyers to know what kind of a contract to sign. A useful manual on this subject is published by the Record and Guide, entitled "How to Draw a Contract," by George W. Van Siclen. (Price, $1.)

The New Fire Limits.

A certainty from the Building Code Commission will be extensions of the fire limits in the Bronx, Brooklyn and Queens, and probably an area of absolute fireproof construction in Manhattan. For the Bronx it is proposed to extend the line from 161st st to about 182d st. The Committee on Fire Limits has proposed this provision:

Beginning at the Harlem River bulkhead line 100 ft. north of Fordham road, running thence easterly to Kingsbridge road; 100 ft. north of Kingsbridge road, running thence easterly to Pelham av, 100 ft. north of Pelham av, running thence easterly to Southern Boulevard, running thence 100 ft. from the westerly side of Southern Boulevard to 182d st, to the westerly side of Bronx River, thence following the Bronx River to the East River, thence following the East River to the northwesterly side of Bronx Kills to the Harlem River, thence along the Harlem River to the place of beginning.

It may be proposed to make an amendment in favor of some sections, such as Hunt's Point University and Morris Heights, so that frame construction may be continued when a single house occupies at least two city lots. Frame buildings in solid rows is likely to be prohibited practically everywhere, in Brooklyn and Queens, as well as in the Bronx. Former Supt. of Buildings Calder of Brooklyn has made this recommendation for his borough.

The Lower West Side.

Mr. J. S. De Selding, of De Selding Bros., 149 Broadway, Manhattan, affirms that they are in receipt of many inquiries for property in such thoroughfares as Chambers, Warren and Murray sts. From present indications realty in that locality is beginning to attract attention as a speculative investment. Its present cheapness in price, together with the almost certain assurance of substantial increases in values, make property investments in that neighborhood particularly attractive at this time.

OF INTEREST TO PROPERTY OWNERS.

Our readers have noticed that a department has been opened wherein it is hoped more particularly to interest property owners. We have had departments for builders and real estate agents and brokers, both of which comprehended also the affairs of property owners; but indicative of an intention to give more space to those who own real estate and furnish the basis of the business of builders and agents, we have made a separate division of the paper for their topics. To these columns the attention of taxpayers' societies is invited, as well as the co-operation and contributions of individual owners.

A New Tenement Law Decision.

JUDGE UNGER, of the Municipal Court, Sixth District, has decided in a suit brought by the Tenement House Department against Carlisle Norwood, Esq., counsel of the Realty League, that, except in an action brought in the Supreme Court and directly against the "tenement house" itself as defendant, there is no power in the Tenement House Commissioner to file a lis pendens against property, and that the various lis pendens heretofore filed in actions against individuals to recover penalties are void.

An action by the Tenement House Department against an owner for the penalty of $250, provided by Sec. 126 of the act, for alleged violations of the act when the defendant is personally served with the notice of violation or is served pursuant to Sec. 131, is a personal action, and there is no warrant in law for filing a lis pendens in such a case. Such an action is not an action or proceeding affecting property, and is not an action to establish a lien under the act. No lis pendens can lawfully be filed in an action by the Tenement House Department except in a suit in the Supreme Court against the tenement house as defendant.

After the action is ended by an adverse judgment against the plaintiff and when the time to appeal has expired, the defendant is entitled to an order directing the cancellation of the lis pendens. In a proper case an order may be made by a judge or justice of the court in which the action is brought directing the cancellation of the lis pendens at any time.

The case was entitled "The Tenement House Department, Plaintiff, against Carlisle Norwood, Defendant," and the action was commenced to recover a penalty of $250 for certain alleged violations of the Tenement House Act. On April 22d, 1907, a so-called lis pendens was filed against the property in respect to which the violations complained of were alleged to exist, and which, according to the recitals in the moving papers (no copy of the lis pendens being furnished to the Court) stated that an action had been commenced and a proceeding was about to be instituted in the Supreme Court for the enforcement of certain provisions of the Tenement House Act and the removal of violations, and for a judgment that the costs and expenses of such removal and the penalty thereby incurred be recovered from the defendant; and that the amount become a lien upon the premises in question.

It also appears that a certain other lis pendens had theretofore been filed on October 25th, 1906, with respect to the same violations and premises, but that the party named as the one intended to be proceeded against was stated to be Hannah R. Simon, and not this defendant (Mr. Norwood); but it appears that at the time of the filing of the first lis pendens Hannah R. Simon was dead, and no action or proceeding was taken against her or with respect to the premises, except the one first referred to. Such action came on for trial on June 5th, 1907, and resulted in a dismissal of the complaint, and the defendant subsequently made this motion to cancel both of the aforesaid notices of pendency of action or lis pendens.

It is urged by the Corporation Counsel, Mr. Pendleton, that such dismissal was not had upon the merits, and as appears by the affidavit of the learned Assistant Corporation Counsel, Mr. John P. O'Brien, "this action is about to be put on again and that a proceeding may be brought in the Supreme Court at any time," insomuch as the violations complained of are still in existence. And there was also filed the affidavit of the Tenement House Commissioner to the effect that he "is desirous of having the lis pendens remain on file against the property in accordance with the provisions of the Tenement House Act until such time as the owner or owners of said property" shall comply with the orders of the Tenement House Department.

While there appeared to be much doubt as to the validity of the Tenement House Commissioner's order for the removal of the violations complained of, Judge Unger assumed for the purposes of this motion that it was a valid and effective order which the defendant owner of the premises refused to comply with; and in an opinion handed down, Judge Unger says two questions present themselves upon this motion:

> First, whether the notice of pendency of action, with its recognized evil effect upon title to property, can be filed in such an action as the one at bar; and, second, if it can, does not the dismissal of the complaint and the expiration of time to appeal from the order of dismissal of itself entitle the defendant to a cancellation of these lis pendens, which constitute more or less some cloud upon his title? A determination of either of these questions adversely to the plaintiff will entitle the defendant to the relief he seeks; but in view of the importance of the questions, I have deemed it proper to dispose of both of them.
> The sole purpose of filing a lis pendens, so far as we understand it now in this State, and independently of the old common law governing the subject, is to give notice to a purchaser or incumbrancer of the property affected thereby from or against a defendant, that there is an action brought to recover a judgment affecting the title to or the possession, use or enjoyment of real property. (Sections 1670, 1671, Code Civil Proc.) The object of such notice is to put the purchaser or incumbrancer on his guard to protect himself against any possible liens which might be declared against the property as a result of the judgment in the particular action in which the notice is filed. And in the present state of our law, it is difficult to conceive of any other legitimate object or purpose for which notice of pendency of action should be filed.
> Section 126 of the Tenement House Law provides for penalties for violations thereof, which penalties are personal to the parties proceeded against, and which would constitute no special lien against the property complained of. That such is the case, apart from the plain reading of the section, is made clear by the fact that in one part of said section it is provided that a certain penalty (but not of the character for which most of the tenement house actions are brought, or here sued for) "shall be a lien upon the house and lot," and it is particularly provided that for the violation in that one particular case the "said tenement house and lot shall be subject to the penalty"; whereas, as before shown, all of the other penalties are recoverable personally from the owner or other party complained of.
> It is true, it is provided by Section 130 of the Tenement House Act, "in any action or proceeding instituted by the department charged with the enforcement of this Act, the plaintiff or petitioner may file in the County Clerk's Office of the county where THE PROPERTY AFFECTED BY SUCH ACTION OR PROCEEDING is situate, a notice of the pendency of such action or proceeding."

Judge Unger considers it a self-evident proposition that this and the numerous actions brought by the Tenement House Department against individuals to recover from them penalties for alleged violations of the Tenement House Law, are not actions or proceedings which affect property, and, therefore, notwithstanding the many such lis pendens which have already been filed in that class of actions, it would appear that there is no warrant or authority in law therefor:

> Surely, if property is not affected by an action or proceeding, what reasonable, proper or practical purposes could be subserved by filing a notice of pendency of action? It would be mere brutum fulmen. And the only way property could be affected by any Court action or proceeding of the Tenement House Commissioner would be where he can impress a lien thereon; but a lien cannot be impressed in an ordinary personal action to recover a penalty, and if no lien can be impressed and property cannot be affected then he should not be permitted to file a notice of the pendency of action alleged to affect the property.
> But the Tenement House Act itself clearly contemplates that these notices of pendency of action are not to be filed in ordinary actions, but only "in an action to establish a lien under this act," for Section 128 provides "in an action to establish a lien under this act, the procedure shall be as set forth in sections 134 and 146 to 151 of this act." Turning to these sections, we find by Section 146 it is provided "said action shall be brought against the Tenement House as defendant," and then this section proceeds to state the particulars with respect to the procedure against "said house," as, to wit, it shall be described in the title of the action by its street number or any other method to secure identification, and must be brought in the Supreme Court in the County in which the property is situated, etc. The learned corporation counsel evidently recognizes this condition of affairs, for in his brief he states "that as the filing of a lis pendens is more in the nature of a proceeding in rem the fact that the same may or may not have been filed against the proper parties is a mere incident in the matter and of no practical importance as long as the description of the property is correct." In this view I entirely concur, and therefore, I do hold as matter of law under the Tenement House Act, that no notice of pendency can be filed except in an action in the Supreme Court and "against the tenement house as defendant."
> I think the second question raised by this motion may be summarily disposed of. It is provided by Section 130 that "such notice shall have the same force and effect as the notice of pendency of action provided for in the Code of Civil Procedure," and in view of the extraordinary powers conferred upon the Tenement House Commissioner and the drastic remedies at his command, no Court will be astute to give greater force and effect to the notice of pendency of action than the act authorizing it provides.
> Now, whatever force or effect a notice of pendency of action may have, it is provided by Section 1674, "After the action is settled, discontinued or abated, or final judgment is rendered therein against the party filing the notice, and the time to appeal therefrom has expired, . . . . the Court may in its discretion . . . direct" that the notice of pendency of the action be cancelled. There is some controversy between the parties as to whether the judgment in defendant's favor was rendered upon the merits or upon mere dismissal of the complaint, but, in any event, no appeal having been taken therefrom, and the time to appeal having expired, I hold that for the purposes of this case there has been final judgment.
> But a wider latitude for the cancellation of such notice appears to be given by Section 130 of the act, which provides, "Any such notice may be vacated upon the order of a judge or justice of the Court in which such action or proceeding was instituted or is pending," without any limitation as to time or circumstance.

Judge Unger accordingly granted the defendant's motion for the cancellation of the lis pendens.

Delancey Street Assessment.

PROPERTY OWNERS PETITION FOR A REDUCTION.

The owners of property in Delancey st, from the Bowery to Suffolk st, have united in a protest against discrimination, and against being especially assessed for the widening of the street so as to make a suitable approach to the Williamsburgh Bridge.

They assert that Delancey st, from Suffolk st to the Bowery, prior to its widening in 1904, had been an opened traveled street for nearly a century. It was 50 ft. wide, regulated, graded and sewered. No street for ten blocks to the north or cross street from the Bowery to the East River was more than 50 ft. It served every purpose of the owners of property on Delancey st. But for the purpose of an approach to the Williamsburgh Bridge and to afford access to said bridge Delancey st was widened from 50 ft. to 100 ft. No owners of property petitioned for this widening. It was needed by the city, for city purposes, and was a general improvement. It was not to improve the condition of the owners of property on Delancey st. And further:

"Never before in our city have individuals been locally assessed to pay for land required for approaches of bridges or for access to said bridges. Indeed, in six other proceedings to acquire land for use in connection with this bridge, no local assessment has been made. They are as follows: (a) The proceedings to acquire land for widening Delancey st, from Clinton st to East River. No local assessment. (b) The proceedings to acquire land on Delancey st, from Suffolk st to Clinton st. No local assessment. (c) The proceeding to open a new street from the Bowery to Elm st, to connect with Delancey st. No local assessment. (d) The proceedings to widen and extend Grand st, Borough of Brooklyn, for this bridge. No local assessment. (e) The proceedings to widen Roebling st, for use in connection with this bridge. No local assessment. (f) The proceedings to widen Montrose av for use in connection with the Williamsburgh Bridge. No local assessment. All of these streets were opened or acquired for use in connection with this bridge. The only local assessment imposed is for the acquisition of land between the Bowery and Suffolk st; in other words, a local assessment of 30 per cent. has been imposed to pay for the cost of the land taken in this proceeding, while the cost of the land taken in the other proceedings is a general charge on the city.

We further protest to your honorable board that we have not received any benefit from the action of your predecessor in assuming 70 per cent. of the cost of this proceeding. It was the intention, as your petitioners are informed and believe, when the former Board of Estimate assumed 70 per cent. of the cost, that 70 per cent. was to be deducted from each owner assessed. But the Commissioners have disregarded that resolution and have assessed enormous sums on owners of property, both on the north and south side of the street.

For example:

Mary Brinn, owner of No. 127 Forsyth st, assessed $19,415.04 on the theory that it has been made a corner, whereas there is a 10-inch strip between it and the new street and that no change whatever has been made in the building and no additional income whatever received from it.

Morris Weinstein, owner of No. 106 Allen st, assessed $10,444.55, and No. 108 Allen st, assessed for $3,311, and No. 164 Delancey st, assessed for $7,848.

Hugo S. Distilhurst, owner of No. 148 Delancey st, and assessed for $3,545.98.

S. J. Silberman, No 107 Orchard st, assessed for $17,071.68; No. 105 Clinton st, assessed for $1,186.16; No. 107 Clinton st, assessed for $1,582.15.

Isaac Marx, owner of No. 81 Norfolk st, assessed for $1,400.

Chief Engineer Nelson P. Lewis in a report to the Board of Estimate says the question presented by this petition, therefore, is not only one of a possible discrimination against the property owners in Delancey st, but it calls attention also to the manner in which the City of New York has lately been discriminating against itself by assuming the entire burden of improvements, the cost of which should in equity have been assessed according to benefit.

The petitioners call attention to a number of very heavy assessments, and their statements have been verified by an examination of the records in the office of the Bureau of Street Openings, from which it would appear that the Commission has levied the bulk of the assessment upon the property almost immediately fronting on Delancey st. The petitioners refer to some 1,450 lots, each 25x100 ft., which are assessed about $7, while single lots of the same size fronting upon Delancey st are assessed $11,000 each. This would indicate that there might be ground for complaint against the manner in which the assessment has been concentrated, while the benefit undoubtedly extends to a large area. The area of assessment as adopted by the Commission extends east to the middle of the block, between Willett and Sheriff sts. north to 100 ft. beyond St. Mark's pl, south to the middle of the block, between East Broadway and Henry st, and west to the middle of the block, between Wooster st and West Broadway, or three and a half blocks to the west of Broadway. There may be ground for complaint as to the manner in which the expense has been distributed over this area, and the board may be called inconsistent in assessing any portion of Delancey st, while it has failed to assess any part of the cost of other street widenings and extensions, but more important in the judgment of your engineer is the question as to whether the city can continue the policy of assuming so large a part or all of the expense of such improvements where there is unquestionably local benefit, and when there are so many other demands for important improvements, the cost of which cannot well be assessed according to benefit.

It would seem that only one measure of relief can be given, namely, the assumption of the entire expense, including the expenses of the Commission, which has been acting in this matter for several years past.

Bronx Street Improvements.

The following street improvements have been petitioned for in the Bronx:

No. 666. For constructing sewers and appurtenances in Plimpton av, between Boscobel av and Featherbed lane; and in Nelson av, between Boscobel av and Featherbed lane; and in West 172d st, between Nelson av and Shakespeare av.

No. 667. For paving with asphalt block on a concrete foundation Morris av, from Tremont av to Burnside av, and setting curb where necessary.

No. 668. For paving with asphalt block on a concrete foundation East 179th st, from Jerome av to the Grand Boulevard and Concourse, and setting curb where necessary.

No. 669. For laying out an extension of Depot place, from Sedgwick av to West 169th st, to a width of 30 ft., as per diagram attached.

No. 670. For acquiring title to Faile st, between Aldus st and Garrison av.

No 671. For acquiring title to that portion of West 231st st, from Riverdale av to Bailey av, where not already acquired.

No. 674. Paving with creo-resinate wood block on a concrete foundation, and setting curb where necessary on Elm pl, between 189th st and Kingsbridge road.

No. 675. For constructing a sewer and appurtenances in Park av West, between East 178th st and East 180th st.

No. 676. For constructing sewers and appurtenances in East 187th st, between Webster av and Park av West; and in Park av West, between East 183d st and East 189th st (Welch st).

No. 677. For constructing receiving basins and appurtenances at the northeast, southeast, northwest and southwest corners of East 142d st and Robbins av.

No 678. For paving with asphalt block in a concrete foundation where the grades are under 5½ per cent., and with granite block on a sand foundation where the grades are 5½ per cent. or over, and setting curb where necessary in Garden st, from Crotona av to Southern Boulevard.

No. 679. For paving with asphalt block Grote st, from about Cambreling av to Southern Boulevard.

Proceedings have been initiated for acquiring title to the lands necessary for Cornell av, between the centre of White Plains road and the bulkhead line of Bronx River; Bronx River av, between Cornell av and Gildersleeve av; Leland av, between Bronx River av and Patterson av; Commonwealth av, between Patterson av and Lacombe av; Bronx River av, between Lacombe av and Metcalf av; Metcalf av, between Bronx River av and East 177th st (Tremont av) at its intersection with Bronx River av; Doris st, from Glebe av to Westchester av; Olinville av, between Bronx and Pelham Parkway and Pelham av; Sedgwick av, between Jerome av and the line between the 23d and 24th Wards, at 169th st, where not acquired as yet.

The local board has approved of a petition to lay a public playground bounded by Trinity av, East 148th st, Cauldwell av and East 160th st. The assessed valuation of the block on which the public playground is to be located is assessed according to the Department of Taxes and Assessments at $125,600.

Improvement of West 134th Street.

A hearing will be given by the Board of Estimate on September 27 to a petition to ease the grade in West 134th st. Under the grades heretofore adopted the crown, which was located in about the middle of the block, gave a grade of a little over 1 per cent. through the easterly half and of about 15 per cent. through the westerly half. Under the change now proposed a uniform grade is to be established between Broadway and 12th av, the same being at the rate of about 8.25%. The petitioners for the change state that the grade now fixed through the westerly half of the block is so steep that the abutting property cannot be improved. They also state that they have been subjected to a very great expense by reason of the opening proceedings which are about to be confirmed, the same being alleged to amount to about $550 per lot.

Under the change now proposed the maximum cut will be about 60 ft., and the maximum increase in cut, as compared with the present grade, would be about 27 ft., this being the depression proposed in the crown. The cost of grading the street and the abutting property will be very greatly increased under the grades now proposed, which are unquestionably otherwise preferable to those heretofore adopted. If the owners of the land affected are willing to assume the increased cost of improving their property, the city authorities see no reason why the change should not be made.

Assessments for Sewers.

The attention of property owners is directed to an assessment for a sewer and appurtenances in East 183d st, between Morris and Creston avs. The area of the assessment includes both sides of 183d st, between the avenues mentioned. The date of confirmation was August 20, 1907. Attention is also called to an assessment for a sewer in Whitlock av, between Longwood av and Hunt's Point road, and in Tiffany st, between Southern Boulevard and Whitlock av. The area of the assessment includes both sides of Whitlock av, from Longwood av to Hunt's Point road; both sides of Tiffany st, from Southern Boulevard to Whitlock av; both sides of Lafayette av, between Whitlock and Garrison avs; northeast corner of Longwood av and Lafayette, and both sides of Barretto st, from Southern Boulevard to Whitlock av. The date of confirmation was August 13, 1907.

REAL ESTATE RECORDS

Key to abbreviations:

1st.—Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed wherein all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants and warranty.

2d.—C. a. G. means a deed containing Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

3d.—B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein although the seller makes no expressed consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it.

4th.—The street and avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made of them by the Department of Public Works.

5th.—The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given.

6th.—The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482—10, denote that the property mentioned is in section 2, block 482, lot 10.

7th.—It should also be noted in section and block numbers that the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

8th.—A $20,000—$30,000 indicates the assessed value of the property, the first figures being for the lot only, and the second figures representing both lot and building. Letter P before second figure indicates that the property is assessed as in course of construction. Valuations are from the assessment roll of 1907.
